Reply by Lincoln Church Association.

THE statement made by Mr. Hodgson, with the sanction of the Governors of Queen Anne's Bounty for the Augmentation of the Maintenance of the Poor Clergy, and enclosed in a letter addressed to the Right Honourable Sir George Grey, Bart., M.P., 7th February, 1866, is substantially the same as Mr. Hodgson's letter to the Archbishop of Canterbury, published about the month of November last, and to which the Lincoln Church Association fully replied in a pamphlet issued by them in the beginning of the month of February.

In this pamphlet the Association pointed out that Queen Anne's Bounty does not belong to the Church or the Clergy, as a body, but exclusively to the poor clergy, who have therefore a perfect right to be satisfied that it is wholly and properly properly expended in strict "accordance with the true intention of Queen Anne's Grant." (Vide 1st Charter, 3 Nov. 3d Anne.)

That such intention, as proved by the Charters of Queen Anne, and the rule laid down and acted upon by the Governors during her reign, was to improve, in the first instance, the very poorest benefices, and to ascend in the scale according as the funds would allow.

That owing to a departure from this system, there still remain a number of livings under 50 l. a year, which under the rule now acted upon by the Governors, have not the slightest prospect of ever being augmented out of this fund. This is admitted by Mr. Hodgson himself, who defends the total and perpetual exclusion of such small livings by the argument that the appropriation to their relief of any considerable portion of the bounty, would retard the process of augmentation of a better class of livings, the incumbents of which can obtain benefactions. The Lincoln Church Association's reply to this is, that however advantageous the benefaction system may be to the Church generally, it ignores the rights of the incumbents of the very poorest livings, who have the first claim on the fund, and that it is not "in accordance with the true intention of Queen Anne's Grant."

That the rule which was put forward as authorising this system, was simply permissive, while the Governors have interpreted it as wholly prohibitive, and have disregarded the clause, "nevertheless the Governors shall not be restricted from the exercise of the power they now have of augmenting livings not exceeding 60 l. a year," which was evidently intended to save the rights of the most needy of the clergy.

That a large portion of the income of the bounty, nearly 6,000 l. per annum, has been diverted from the augmentation of small livings, by charging the Bounty Fund with the expenses of the loan and other funds under the control of the Governors, the unfairness of which Mr. Hodgson himself admitted in his evidence before the Committee of the House of Commons in 1837, since which time the sum so diverted has gradually increased, and no attempt has been made by the Governors to relieve the Bounty Fund of such charges.

That in course of time, if the present system continued, as the capital of the Governors and the business of the office increase, the result must be that the whole of Queen Anne's Bounty will be swallowed up, so that in fact the richer the Corporation becomes in possessions, the poorer it will become as a charity.

That the Governors have not observed the rule requiring that augmentations from the Bounty Fund should be made by way of purchase, and not by way of pension (vide 2nd Charter, 5th March, 12th Anne), the consequence of which has been the loss to poor livings of the great benefit they would have derived from the general rise in the value of land.

That the centralisation of Church property, especially in the form of cash, is open to serious political objection, and occasions great expense in the management.

The following reforms in the administration of the bounty are proposed by the Lincoln Church Association:—

1. That the 15,000 l. a year derived from the first-fruits and tenths shall be relieved from all expenses whatsoever, other than those which are strictly entailed by the appropriation of that amount for the augmentation of small livings. That the expense of such a distribution would not be great, is a fact we have on the authority of Mr. Chalk, Secretary to the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, who, in his evidence before the House of Commons Select Committee in 1862, stated that the business of the two Corporations, as far as relates to the augmentation of small livings, could be transacted by one staff with very little additional assistance. If we allow 1,000 l. a year for extra clerks, we have left, on an average, 14,000 l. a year for the augmentation of small livings, a saving of nearly 6,000 l. a year.

2. Next, seeing that the Ecclesiastical Commissioners appropriate their funds to the augmentation of livings in populous places, and that the Parliamentary Grant Fund was applied to the same object, the Bounty of Queen Anne shall be dispensed, with peculiar consideration for the wants of the incumbents of very small livings, in poor and thinly populated places; and that with this view the Governors shall relax the rule, which insists upon benefactions, whether it is possible or not to obtain them, and shall devote a certain portion of their income income to the improvement of the poorest benefices, some of them with no endowment at all, and many with the most paltry provision.

3. That monies arising from grants and benefactions shall be dispensed, by way of purchase, and not by way of pension. With this view the Governors ought to seek every opportunity of investing the money in land, and thereupon deposit the title-deeds in the Diocesan Registry Office, and leave the property thenceforth to be managed by the incumbent himself, who is sure to make the best of it. The Governors might reserve, as they do now, a certain portion of their capital as a loan fund for building parsonage-houses, and for no other purpose.

4. That the Governors shall publish every year an intelligible balance-sheet, showing the amount of capital they hold, in what way it is invested, how much it produces, how much of it has been appropriated in the purchase of land, how many livings, and of what value, have been augmented, and how much remains in hand for the purposes of augmentation.

With a view of enforcing the reforms here indicated, and ascertaining what other changes may be desirable in the management of the affairs of this important body, the Lincoln Church Association is anxious that a Select Committee of the House of Commons should be appointed, to make a "searching investigation," in which object they solicit the assistance of all Members of Parliament who sympathise with the condition of the working clergy.

The Secretary of the Queen Anne's Bounty Fund, to Sir George Grey, Bart., M.P.

Queen Anne's Bounty Office,
30 May 1866.

Sir,

I HAVE the honour to return to you the reply of the Lincoln Church Association, which Mr. Baring sent to me by your direction on the 23rd March last, with observations thereon as requested.

I am, &c.

OBSERVATIONS of the Governors of Queen Anne's Bounty, on the Reply of the Lincoln Church Association, forwarded by the Association in a Letter, dated 19th March 1866, to the Right Honourable Sir George Grey, Bart., one of Her Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State.

30 May 1866.

THE statements in the reply of the Lincoln Church Association which appear to require notice are to the following effect:—

1. That Queen Anne's Bounty belongs exclusively to the poor clergy; and that the first duty of the Governors is to improve the very poorest benefices, and to ascend in the scale as the funds will allow. That there are still a number of livings under 50 l. a year which have a first claim on the funds of the Governors, and that the rule, under which the Governors augment, by way of meeting benefactions, was simply permissive, and was intended to save the rights of the most needy of the clergy.

2. That nearly 6,000 l. a year of the bounty is diverted from the augmentation of small livings, by charging the fund with the expenses of the loan and other funds, under the control of the Governors; that the sum so diverted gradually increases, and that in course of time Queen Anne's Bounty will be swallowed up.

3. That the Governors have not observed the rule, requiring that augmentations should be by way of purchase, and not by way of pension.

With reference to the Statement No. 1; the Governors remark, that the system of making grants to meet benefactions has, to a certain extent, been followed from the origin of the Corporation. In 1713, by the 4th and following rules in the second Charter, provision was made for augmentation by way of benefaction, and for the application of a certain proportion of the disposable monies in that way. These rules were altered, from time to time, as the smaller livings became augmented; and in 1836, by a rule under the Royal Sign Manual, the Governors were allowed to appropriate, if they should think fit, the whole, or any part of the monies at their disposal, in meeting benefactions; but, nevertheless, they were not to be restricted from augmenting without lot any livings not exceeding 50 l., and, by lot, any not exceeding 60 l., if they should in any cases think fit so to augment the same respectively.

Since the year 1836 the Governors have appropriated nearly the whole of the monies at their disposal in making grants to meet benefactions, as they consider they were fully authorised to do by the rule of that year; but they have in some instances exercised the discretion given to them, and have, since that date, made grants, without receiving benefactions, to the extent of 8,600 l.

The advantages of the system of grants to meet benefactions have been pointed out in Mr. Hodgson's letter to the Archbishop of Canterbury, of October 1865*, and also in his statement to Sir George Grey in answer to the Petition addressed to the Queen by 1,439 incumbents †, and the large amount of property so acquired by the Church during two periods of 10 years and 29 years ‡ respectively, is therein shown.

The officers of the Governors have examined the Petition which emanated from the Lincoln Church Association, and was circulated among the clergy, and the signatures attached to it, and in order to form an opinion on the statement by the Association, that there are still a number of livings under 50 l. a year, which they assert have a first claim on their funds, the Governors have caused an investigation to be made into the circumstances of the 63 benefices under 50 l. a year, the incumbents of which signed the Petition.

The result is as follows:—

Donatives which cannot be augmented without the consent of the patron, six of which are held with other preferment	-	9
Sinecures, all of which are held with other preferment	-	4
Held in plurality with other benefices, and which therefore have the less claim to augmentation; fifteen of which have been augmented by the Governors	- - - - -	17
Augmented by the Governors, not included in either of the above	- - - - -	19
Of the remainder there are benefices created since 1836	-	12
Other benefices existing before 1836	- - - - -	2
TOTAL		63

As to the two benefices which have not been augmented, one is described in the Return of the Commission of Inquiry into Ecclesiastical Duties and Revenues as having a population under 400, and an income of 50 l. a year; the income of the other benefice is 40 l. per annum, the parish contains but one house, and the population is only 13.

With reference to the Statement No. 2, that a sum of nearly 6,000 l. a year has been diverted from the augmentation of small livings by charging the fund with expenses of loans, and other funds, it is clear that the assertion has been made without a knowledge of the history of the Corporation, and the result of its working. That the Governors have other duties imposed on them besides that of receiving and disposing of the first-fruits and tenths, is shown by the Charter of Incorporation, and the Acts of Parliament 2 & 3 Anne, c. 11, and 1 Geo. 1, c. 10, and subsequent Acts of Parliament, Charters, and Rules. By the first of those Acts the Governors were empowered to receive gifts of lands and hereditaments, goods and chattels, and to purchase and hold the same; and these powers have since from time to time been increased. By these means, and by the system of receiving benefactions to meet grants and endowments

* See Appendix A.

† See House of Commons (1866), Sess. Paper, No. 85.

‡ The benefactions for the last 29 years since the present rule has been in force, amount to 934,529 l.

ments of livings, the very large amount of property now held in trust for the benefit of the clergy has been mainly acquired.

The Governors confidently state, that to separate the receipt and distribution of the first-fruits and tenths from the other duties of the Corporation, would not only be contrary to the intention of the Royal founder, but be prejudicial to the clergy at large.

Animadversions have been made on the subject of lending money to incumbents for providing parsonage houses; it does not appear to be known, that, instead of loss, profit is made every year by such mode of investment; in 1864 there was a surplus of interest received on the loans beyond the sum due to incumbents of augmented livings of 3,968 l.

The gross sum received in 1864 for first-fruits and tenths was 14,888 l., but after deducting expenses of collection and other charges thereon, the net amount of that revenue available for augmentation purposes was 13,003 l., not 15,000 l., as asserted by the reply; and so far from diverting 6,000 l. of this sum from augmentation purposes, it will be seen that the sum of 1,751 l. only was charged against the ordinary income of the Corporation in respect of the charges of management, and that the Governors, besides paying the conveyance expenses of benefactions of land and purchases for livings already augmented, were able to, and did actually appropriate in 1864, the sum of 10,800 l. to the augmentation of poor livings. (See Appendix B.)

It may be added that for the 29 years, to 31st December 1865, the Governors have made grants to the amount of the average yearly sum of 11,700 l.

Any further considerable addition for the benefit of the clergy to the already large loan and trust business, could be transacted by the inexpensive employment of extra junior clerks.

There are at present no less than 4,118 incumbents of livings, entitled, amongst them, to the annual income of 87,997 l., and who, on the present system of management, receive their dividends free of expense; the capital of 2,999,807 l. is managed without cost to them; the title deeds of estates purchased with appropriated monies (the annual income of which estates may be estimated at about 140,000 l.), are preserved and taken care of without charge to the incumbents, and the whole business of the Corporation is carried on at a charge on the ordinary income of 1,751 l.

With reference to Statement No. 3, the Governors perceive that the terms "by way of purchase," and "not by way of pension," are misunderstood. A purchase is not confined to the acquisition of land, as is suggested; the term also implies the setting apart of a capital sum for the augmentation of a benefice to be subsequently laid out in a purchase of land, in contradistinction to the grant of a permanent pension charged on the first-fruits and tenths. If the pension system had been adopted, the whole of the revenue of the first-fruits and tenths would long ago have been pledged or parted with, and the Church would not, at this time, have possession of the large property secured to her by the course of management adopted by the Governors, and would not have retained, as it now does, the whole or any part of that revenue.

Having thus answered the specific statements, the Governors are desirous to make a few observations.

The circumstances of the 12 benefices stated in the Petition to the Queen to be under 30 l. a year are given in Appendix C; and it will be seen in Appendix D, that out of the 1,432, the number of benefices the incumbents of which signed the Petition to the Queen, 744 have been augmented by the Governors, and 110 have had loans from them on mortgage.

The profit, resulting from loans on mortgage, has been shown. The great good which has been effected in giving assistance by loans, and by expending appropriated money in providing parsonage-houses for the clergy, and thereby promoting their residence on their benefices, is so well known as to render further comment on the subject unnecessary.

The Governors are ever ready to entertain proposals for laying out funds appropriated by them to livings in the purchase of land, &c., according to their rules; but, at the same time, they reserve to themselves the right to reject such proposals as appear to them to tend to the disadvantage of the living, although possibly for the immediate benefit of the incumbent; for instance, where the property consists of houses (other than houses for the residence of the incumbents), or cottages let at a high rent, which would require frequent repair, and where the evil of dilapidations is sure to arise sooner or later.

The incumbent has at present the full and entire management of any land, or real property annexed to his benefice, and the Governors have no control over such management.

A controlling power in the sale of lands must be vested in some one, and as regards lands annexed to a benefice by the Governors, it is submitted that such a power is rightly vested in them, subject to the concurrence of the ordinary and patron.

With reference to the yearly balance-sheet, the Governors do not object to have the same laid before Parliament, if it be deemed necessary, either in addition to or in lieu of the present account of receipts and payments, which is rendered pursuant to an Act of Parliament. The account hitherto tendered is in exact accordance with the wording of the Act 1 Vict. c. 20, and items in detail have, by order, recently been submitted to the House of Commons.

The Governors are at all times desirous that every information as to the management and conduct of the office should be given to all interested parties who, with good reason, may ask for it; every facility was rendered to Mr. Powell, a Member of the House of Commons, on his recent investigation of the accounts, &c., at the Bounty Office. That gentleman lately moved for the items in detail above referred to, and voluminous Returns have been made by the Governors accordingly, and have been since printed by Order of the House of Commons. (Sess. 1866, Parliamentary Paper, No, 206.)

The Governors have thought fit to delay this communication till those Returns were printed.

APPENDIX (A.)

A LETTER to His Grace the Archbishop of Canterbury, on the Present Regulations for the Distribution and Management of the Funds of Queen Anne's Bounty.

My dear Sir,

As the authority which justifies the Governors of Queen Anne's Bounty in their present regulations for the distribution of its funds seems to be imperfectly known by the clergy, and as the various functions the Governors have to perform are little understood, I think it very desirable that the letter on those subjects which you have addressed to me should be published.

Chris. Hodgson, Esq.

Addington Park, Croydon,
19 October 1865.

Believe me, &c.
(signed) C. T. Cantuar.

A LETTER addressed by Mr. Christopher Hodgson to His Grace the Archbishop of Canterbury.

My Lord Archbishop,

Bounty Office, Dean's Yard, Westminster,
October 1865.

HAVING lately observed statements in the Lincoln and other papers, and seen a letter and petition emanating from an association called "The Lincoln Church Association," commenting very freely on the proceedings of the Corporation of "The Governors of Queen Anne's Bounty for the Augmentation of Small Livings," I have considered it my duty, as secretary and treasurer of that Corporation, to prepare, in the form of a letter to your Grace, as President of the Bounty Board, explanatory remarks on the most important of the statements referred to, in the hope of removing the prejudice which may have been generated by unfounded and uncontradicted assertions.

It is somewhat remarkable that the nature of the proceedings of the Governors should have been misconstrued and condemned, when, so lately as in 1837, the whole administration of Queen Anne's Bounty underwent a searching investigation by a Select Committee of the House of Commons, who made a favourable report on the subject.

In that Report it is correctly stated that—

"The operations of the Governors were, in the commencement, restricted to the relief of the revenues of the first-fruits and tenths from various incumbrances, and to to the augmentation of poor livings, by money to be laid out in land. Poor livings were successively raised to the annual value of, first 10 l., then to 20 l., 30 l., 40 l., 50 l., and finally to 60 l. The method adopted was that of placing the names of unaugmented poor livings in a box, and dividing the sums in hand among such as might be drawn out the first. Each donation, or lot, was limited to the sum of 200 l. Any poor living was allowed to receive more lots than one till it was raised to the yearly value of the above-mentioned sums. Above that amount, no living could receive an additional lot till all the other livings on the bounty list had been in their turn augmented."

The Report proceeds to state that—

"Another method of augmentation was, and is, by meeting benefactions. In this way poor livings, at first those not exceeding the yearly value of 35 l., and afterwards, successively, those not exceeding the yearly value of 45 l., 50 l., 80 l., 120 l., and, finally, of 200 l., were, and are, augmented with the sum of 200 l., where any person or persons, in order to obtain the bounty, contribute 200 l., or a greater sum in money, or the value thereof in lands or tithes, or a clear yearly rent-charge or annuity of 15 l. This liberal plan has been so liberally met, that the bounty frequently obtains by much the larger sum, and the Governors have latterly, under a recent rule under the Sign Manual, disposed of the larger part of the annual revenue of the Bounty Fund in meeting benefactions."

The original rules, which were established by letters patent, under the Great Seal, dated 5th March 1713-14, have been, from time to time, varied by rules approved under the Royal Sign Manual; it having been directed by Act of Parliament that rules so approved should be as good as if the same were made or established under the Great Seal.

The following is a copy of a rule, under the Royal Sign Manual, dated 3rd March 1836, being the rule referred to in the report of the Select Committee:—

"That the said Governors may appropriate, if they shall think fit, the whole or any part of the moneys of which they may have the disposal in each year in respect of the Royal Bounty Fund, in grants of 200 l. to livings and cures not exceeding the improved yearly value of 200 l., fixed and certain, where any person or persons, in order to obtain the bounty, will give a benefaction of 200 l. or a greater sum in money, or the value thereof in lands or tithes, or a clear yearly rent-charge or annuity of 15 l.; but, nevertheless, that the said Governors shall not be restricted from the exercise of the power which they now have of augmenting, without lot any such livings and cures, being fitly qualified, as do not exceed 50 l. per annum, and by lot any such livings and cures as do not exceed 60 l. per annum, if the said Governors shall in any cases think fit so to augment the said livings and cures respectively."

The Governors, seeing the great advantage it would be to livings under 200 l. per annum to grant every year the whole of their surplus income (after all liabilities) in meeting benefactions, rather than to grant a portion of such surplus to livings under 60 l. per annum, without receiving any benefaction, came to the determination of adopting that course. The result has been that, in a period of 10 years, ending 31st December 1862, they have received from benefactors for augmenting livings under 200 l. per annum donations of various descriptions to the value of 387,800 l. to meet grants amounting to 98,000 l., which, in those 10 years, the Governors had to dispose of for augmentation purposes.

Thus it appears that in the before-mentioned period of 10 years, livings under 200 l. per annum, through the instrumentality of Queen Anne's Bounty, were augmented, by the double action of grants by the Governors, and benefactions by Corporations and individuals, in so large a manner as amply to justify the Governors in acting upon the rule of the 3rd March 1836, in the manner they have done. If only the said sum of 98,000 l., which was the whole sum the Governors had to give to augment livings in the 10 years ending 31st December 1862, had been appropriated to the augmentation of livings under 60 l. per annum, the gain to those livings would have been comparatively of small advantage; whereas, by the addition to that sum of the large amount of benefactions, the gain to livings under 200 l. per annum in those 10 years surely may be termed enormous.

The large capital of the Royal Bounty Fund possessed by the Governors, which on the 31st December 1864, amounted in money and securities to 785,500 l. (exclusive of the Parliamentary Grants Fund, of which more hereafter), has arisen from grants from time to time made by the Governors, and from benefactions and free gifts. The sums which arose from all those sources were appropriated to small livings, and the incumbent of each of those livings receives, half-yearly, interest upon the sum appropriated to his particular living, and will continue to receive interest thereon till it is laid out for his benefit in land, or is applied towards purchasing or building a house for his living.

The capital so possessed by the Governors is, in fact, only held by them in trust for the incumbents of those small livings to which appropriations have been made. To enable the Governors to pay the interest due in respect of sums appropriated to their livings, to the incumbents, they have invested the capital in the Government funds and in loans on mortgage to the incumbents of livings for building parsonage-houses, under Gilbert's Acts, on security of the revenues of such livings; and they have also been empowered by Act of Parliament to make similar loans to bishops, and to deans, and canons of cathedral and collegiate churches for like purposes.

In 53 years last past, no less a sum than 2,370,000 l. has been advanced by the Governors on such mortgages to 3,400 incumbents. At the present time the sum of 870,000 l. remains due to the Governors from 2,270 incumbents.

The principal on these mortgages is paid off by 30 equal yearly instalments, with interest; and as the money is repaid, it may be again lent on mortgage for the same purposes. It may be here remarked that the instalments and interest have been paid with great punctuality.

A very large sum has also been applied, out of money appropriated to the augmentation of livings, to assist incumbents to whose livings such appropriations have been made, in building houses for their residence; in fact, since grants of the yearly surplus income of the Governors have been confined to the meeting of benefactions, the greater part of such yearly grants and benefactions has been so applied.

The Governors of Queen Anne's Bounty, by their loans out of their trust fund, and by the application of moneys specially appropriated to livings (also part of their trust fund), have been instrumental in providing largely for the residence of incumbents on their benefices, and, at a time when such residence was most loudly called for. It is to be borne in mind that the loans spoken of are equivalent to investments in Bank Annuities, and that the interest arising therefrom is applied to the payment of the half-yearly interest to incumbents of augmented livings, in the same manner as the dividends arising from Bank Annuities.

With respect to the Parliamentary Grant Fund, there cannot now be any surplus. Eleven grants of 100,000 l. sterling each were given to the Governors, and the total amount has long since been by them appropriated, with a large amount of benefactions, to the augmentation of poor livings. After payment for purchases of land to a great extent out of this fund, for the benefit of incumbents of livings to which grants were appropriated, and for the building houses for their residence, a sum of 1,081,300 l. Three per Cent. Annuities (including the sum of 600,000 l. Bank Annuities, lent to the Ecclesiastical Commissioners), remains so appropriated; the dividends of the whole of which are and will be paid by the Governors, by half-yearly payments, to the several incumbents of livings to which the same have been appropriated, till the sum appropriated to a living is laid out in the purchase of land, or applied towards building a house for the residence of the incumbent. The Ecclesiastical Commissioners pay to the Governors the dividend of 18,000 l. per annum, on the loan of 600,000 l. Three per Cent. Bank Annuities, exactly in the same manner as the Bank of England would have paid the same, if there had been no such loan.

It has been justly considered that this loan by the Governors to the Ecclesiastical Commissioners was, without causing any injury whatever to the former, especially serviceable to the latter, and of great public benefit; as it enabled the Ecclesiastical Commissioners at once to commence, on a large scale, their important operations, in anticipation of income, which was certain, but not receivable till a future time.

In addition to the bounty and Parliamentary funds before mentioned, the Governors, by virtue of several Acts of Parliament, have necessarily undertaken the management of 14 trust accounts; including, first, endowments, the capital of which is 641,900 l. in various securities; second, produce of bounty lands sold, the capital of which is 391,700 l. chiefly in Three per Cent. Bank Annuities; third, tithe redemptions, 29,900 l. in Three per Cent. Bank Annuities. The remaining trust funds are of smaller amounts; but the total of the 14 trust accounts embraces a capital, in various securities, of 1,132,900 l., the dividends and interest of the whole of which are paid half-yearly to the incumbents of the particular livings for which the securities are held.

With respect to the purchase and sale of Bank Annuities mentioned in the yearly return to Parliament, some remarks have been made in the public journals; the simple explanation is, that the capital of the Governors being chiefly invested on that security, such purchases and sales of parts thereof must necessarily be of constant occurrence; for instance, if loans under Gilbert's Acts, or purchase-moneys for land are called for, and there be not sufficient of the Governors' money in their bankers' hands, part of their Bank Annuities must be sold to provide the required sums; again, if an estate belonging to an augmented living is sold, the purchase-money must be invested in Bank Annuities, and the dividends paid to the incumbent; and so in various other cases.

The Governors, since a rule passed under the Royal Sign Manual, dated 13th July 1829, are restricted from applying money appropriated to any living, in the purchase of land, except it be within occupation distance, or be attended with extraordinary advantage; but they have been always ready to purchase land on reasonable terms, at the request of incumbents of augmented livings when not restricted by the rule; formerly, purchases were oftentimes times made in distant parts of the country, and incumbents have complained of the inconvenience and expense attending small lots of bounty land, purchased for their livings at an inconvenient distance.

The cost of the management by the Governors has been commented on, in a very unfair manner, by those who were ignorant of the vast amount and the variety of business which is transacted in the Bounty Office.

Before the consolidation of offices, the secretary's office was, as it is now, in Dean's Yard, Westminster; the treasurer's in Broad-street, in the City; the receiver of tenths had his office near Lincoln's Inn; and the receiver of first-fruits in the Temple.

The Governors, to give due effect to this consolidation, found it necessary to make additions to the Bounty Office to accommodate the clerks who were removed from the vacated offices, and the entire business, superintended by the Governors, is now carried on by their officers and clerks under one roof.

The salaries of the officers and clerks (except those of the secretary and treasurer, and of the clerks in the offices of first-fruits and tenths, which are severally fixed by the Crown) were lately revised by the Governors; these certainly are by no means greater than in proportion to the heavy and responsible duties discharged.

The revenue of first-fruits (received yearly from 350 persons or thereabouts) and tenths (received yearly from 5,000 persons) approaches 15,000 l. per annum. This was the original source of the augmentation fund. The deduction from this revenue, on account of cost of management, has increased, from time to time, in proportion to the continual increase of the capital, and of the consequent increase of business. It could not have been otherwise, when it is considered that, besides this yearly revenue, the Governors possess, at the present time, in trust for the incumbents of livings to which appropriations have been made, the large accumulated capital sums before mentioned, viz.: first, of the Bounty Fund; second, of the Parliamentary Grants Fund; and third, of the several Special Trusts Fund; that the income arising from these capital sums is paid by the office to the incumbents entitled thereto by half-yearly payments, there being now upwards 4,000 of such half-yearly payments; that the yearly instalments and interest, in respect of mortgages, are receivable from 2,270 incumbents; and that houses and lands, of the value of 140,000 l. per annum and upwards, have been purchased or otherwise annexed in perpetuity (through the instrumentality of the Governors) to various livings to which appropriations of money had been made, and which naturally occasion constant reference to the numberless deeds of conveyance and title-deeds deposited in the Bounty Office. This vast annexation of houses and lands has not been before commented on; but it is right that it should not be altogether omitted, as the fact is one of great importance in the consideration of the operations of the Governors of Queen Anne's Bounty.

Lord Archbishop of Canterbury.

Note.—The total number of signatures and the number of signatures in each separate class do not agree exactly with the numbers mentioned in the Petition; but such disagreement does not affect the total conclusion drawn from the analysis. The disagreement may possibly be accounted for by the fact that the names of several incumbents appear twice, which will surprise no one when it is known that the signatures were written on separate pieces of paper, or on copies of the Petition, and afterwards stuck on the Petition itself. It is not immaterial to observe, that the Circular of the Lincoln Church Association, to which the Petition was annexed, contained a statement “that the present income of the Governors is nearly a quarter of a million,” and that the copies of the Petition contained the following words:—

“We, therefore, the undersigned poor Clergy of the Church of England, humbly entreat Your Majesty’s gracious consideration of our claim to relief from this fund, which now amounts to a very considerable sum.”

These erroneous statements in the Circular, and copies of the Petition circulated for signature, no doubt induced many incumbents to sign. The Petition to the Queen contained the above italicised words; but they were afterwards erased, as the Petition plainly shows.

My reasons for declining to give such permission are: firstly, ‘ I consider the mode of performing such service to be objectionable,’ and secondly, ‘ As a rule, I do not desire my churchyard to be made use of for the display of religious practices of which, at the same time, I, in my conscience, disapprove.’

A RETURN of the only case of the nature alluded to in the order was furnished by the late Registrar of the Diocese of Dublin and Glandelagh, on the 18th day of June 1857, in compliance with a letter received from the Under Secretary, Dublin Castle, bearing date the 9th day of June 1857.

The following is a copy of the said Return :—

“On the 3rd day of March 1856, pursuant to directions received by me from his Grace the Archbishop of Dublin, I transmitted to his Excellency the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland a written statement of the Venerable William Fitzgerald, D.D., the then incumbent of the Union of Monkstown, in the Diocese of Dublin, relative to his having refused permission to the Rev. Denham Smith to perform burial service in the churchyard of the parish of Monkstown, such statement was signed by me as Registrar of the Diocese, said declaration was the only one that I am aware was required to be made in the diocese of Dublin or Glandelagh under the provisions of said statute from the date thereof to the present time, the original statement having been forwarded by me to his Excellency, and not having kept any copy thereof, I cannot return any copy as required by said order.

church or congregation, not being of the Established Church of Ireland, to officiate in any churchyard at a funeral under the provisions of 5 Geo. 4, c. 25 ;" nor has there been to our knowledge any such refusal in the Diocese of Dublin, Glandelagh, and Kildare, or any of them under the provisions of said statute.

Sir,
I AM directed by his Grace the Archbishop of Dublin to transmit the enclosed letter from the Venerable William Fitzgerald, D. D., to his Grace, to be laid before His Excellency the Lord Lieutenant, pursuant to the Act 5 Geo. 4, c. 25.

To the Under Secretary,

To His Grace the Archbishop of Dublin.

My Lord,

HAVING recently declined to give a written authorisation to the Rev. J. D. Smith (being a minister of a Protestant Dissenting congregation) to perform such religious services as he might see fit at a funeral in my churchyard of Monkstown, in your Grace's diocese, I beg respectfully to lay before your Grace my reasons for that refusal.

1. I believe that I, as incumbent, am a trustee for the Church, and bound to act in reference to its rights and property in conformity with what I sincerely judge to be the intention of the Church, so far as I legally can; and I am fully satisfied that, in the intention of the Church, as it is to be gathered from its canons and practice, the churchyard is as much set apart for its own religious services as the edifice commonly called the Church; the churchyard being the place where one part of those services is to be performed, as the Church is the appropriate enclosure for the rest. Hence it seems to me unreasonable that I, in the very capacity of parson of the parish and trustee for the Church, should be expected to give a formal permission under my hand to persons unauthorised by the Church, for the performance, in a place set apart for the religious worship of the Church, and which is the Church's property, of services substituted for that which the Church itself prescribes in the Book of Common Prayer.

2. I cannot but feel that, in giving permission to a person not authorised by the Church to officiate in my churchyard, I make myself more or less responsible for what he may say or do in consequence of that permission. And hence, in the case of Protestant Non-conformists, I am under this difficulty, that, inasmuch as they have no fixed Liturgy to which their ministers are bound to adhere, I can have no security beforehand for what may be said or done, except the personal qualification and character of the Minister himself; and it would be putting upon me a disagreeable and invidious office to require that I should in each case sit in judgment on the character and attainments of each particular applicant, and if in any case dissatisfied make a personal distinction which could not fail to be offensive in itself, and to prove the more so by being returned as a personal objection in writing to your Grace to be transmitted through the public registrar of the Diocese to the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland.

On the other hand, I cannot feel myself justified in giving indiscriminate permission to all who may now, or at any future period, present themselves as dissenting ministers to perform whatever ceremonials and address whatever harangues they please to any number of persons they may be able to collect, in a place which is the property of the Church, and set apart for the services of the Church, and of which I am, in law and conscience, the guardian and trustee.

DIOCESE OF CORK.

IN June 1860, a memorial having been received from the Reverend William Magill, a Presbyterian minister at Cork, of refusal by the Reverend William M. Woolsey to permit him to perform a funeral service in the churchyard of St. Anne's, Shandon, the complaint was communicated to the then Bishop of Cork, and the following reply, dated 10th June, was received from his Lordship. An explanatory letter dated 12th June, of which a copy is subjoined, was afterwards received from the Reverend William M. Woolsey.

The Bishop of Cork to the Under Secretary.

Sir,

Palace, Cork, 10 June 1860.

IN reply to your letter and enclosure of the 8th of June, received this morning, I have the honour to inform his Excellency that the Reverend Mr. Woolsey, junior curate of St. Anne's, Shandon, in this city, has not furnished me with any "special and distinct declaration in writing" of the cause of his withholding permission from the Reverend Mr. Magill to perform a funeral service in the churchyard of the said parish; but that on the 6th of June Mr. Woolsey called upon me personally and inquired whether by law any person not being in holy orders, recognised by the United Church of England and Ireland, could officiate in a parish churchyard; and upon being informed by me that it was within the power of the parish minister to grant such permission, he told me that not being aware of any such legal power, and having had no time to communicate with his rector or with me, and having been required at night to answer an application touching a burial to take place next morning, he had declined to grant such permission to a Presbyterian minister in this city.

I have further reason to know that Mr. Woolsey soon afterwards called upon Mr. Magill and explained to him the mistake under which he had refused permission.

I have advised Mr. Woolsey to send you a statement in writing of the circumstances of the case; but I have not required him to give me a duplicate of his letter to Mr. Magill, because I humbly conceive that, technically, the junior curate is not the "officiating minister" contemplated by the Act 5 Geo. 4, c. 25; because, although the Reverend Mr. Connor (the rector) is not, through ill health, able to reside in the city of Cork, he is yet, by my license, resident within less than an hour's drive of the parish, constantly officiates in the church every Sunday, and has the personal care and government of the parish.

I would also humbly suggest that when the law requires an application for permission to be made to the officiating minister, it means that such an application should be so made as to afford reasonable time for the said minister to inform himself of all the circumstances of the case; and, if he should be a junior curate, to consult his rector and take his directions in the matter.

If, however, his Excellency desires it, or the law officers consider it necessary, I will require Mr. Woolsey to furnish me, and also Mr. Magill, with a written distinct declaration, and cause the same to be transmitted by the registrar of the diocese to his Excellency without delay.

To General Larcom, &c. &c.,
Dublin Castle.

I am, &c.
(signed) Wm. Cork.

The Reverend Wm. M. Woolsey to the Under Secretary.

Sir,

1, Bridge-street, 12 June 1860.

I AM directed by the Lord Bishop of Cork to furnish you with my statement of the facts relative to the memorial of the Reverend W. Magill.

This day week the letters passed which have been since forwarded to the castle.

My

My impression at the time was that I was unable to grant leave to officiate, that formal permission given in writing might establish an embarrassing precedent, and that when ministers of other churches performed their rites in our churchyards, they did so under sufferance rather than with direct authority.

My position as junior curate of St. Anne, Shandon, may perhaps be considered sufficient reason for my never having received such an application before. However that may be, as I had not, and as I was aware that the Roman Catholic clergy and Wesleyan Methodist ministers had buried their dead there without asking anyone's leave, I may be excused for following that course which, at the moment, appeared the best.

On Thursday, 7th instant, I had an opportunity of consulting the Lord Bishop of Cork, who told me that although as curate I had not, strictly speaking, power to grant Mr. Magill's request, I might have done so on my own responsibility, as placed in charge of the parish for the time being.

Having received this information, I wrote on Friday a letter, a copy of which I annex, which I left in possession of Mr. Magill, having called upon him and explained my views more fully in conversation.

I may add that I had almost expected that he would have forwarded that letter to you, inasmuch as he earnestly disclaimed the notion of personal discourtesy having been intended by me, and professed that his anxiety had been to receive explanation of the circumstances, which he admitted that I had given.

There is one word in the memorial against which I must beg to protest. I issued no "interdict." I must maintain that my statement of "its being out of my power, &c.," is strictly correct, and affords no ground for the charge either of issuing an "interdict" (which was out of my power), or of being regardless of the feelings of the bereaved (which has been industriously circulated).

I am not aware that I have more to say, than that I regret this occurrence very sincerely, that I have obtained more accurate information on the law of the case, and shall be always ready, when opportunity offers, to deal as liberally as I can with my fellow Christians of whatever creed.

I have, &c.
(signed) William M. Woolsey.

(Copy Enclosed with the above.)

Reverend Mr. Woolsey to Reverend Mr. Magill.

Reverend Sir,

Cork, 8 June 1860.

HAVING consulted my diocesan relative to the request you made me to bury in the churchyard of St. Anne's, Shandon, I find that, legally speaking, I had no such power as a curate; but that, having been left in charge by the rector, I could have granted such leave on my own responsibility. Had I known this, I should not have interposed the obstacle which, as my note of Tuesday evening informed you, I conceived myself bound to raise, but should have granted your application.

I regret that you did not give me time to refer the case to the Reverend R. L. Connor, to whom I shall apply for instructions how to act in future. I must also beg that the time may be stated for the future, or otherwise there may be possibility of interfering with our church service.

Reverend W. Magill.

— No. 1. —

OBSERVATIONS on Dr. Brady’s Letter to “The Times” on the Revenues of the Anglo-Irish Church.

DR. BRADY asserts that Lord Dufferin was in error in speaking of the revenues of the Irish Church as amounting to 420,000 l. a year, and further asserts that they probably exceed 700,000 l. He attributes Lord Dufferin’s supposed error to the Return of the Ecclesiastical Commissioners for Ireland (generally known as Stackpoole’s Return), which stated the net value, including bishoprics, at 448,943 l., and he denies that there are any reliable returns of the revenues of the Establishment in Ireland. His proofs consist in this, that there are four items not included in the return in question :—1st. The Value of Glebe Houses; 2nd. Curates’ Stipends; 3rd. Pew Rents; 4th. The Income of the Ecclesiastical Commissioners.

As to the 1st—Glebe Houses (as distinguished from glebe lands, the value of which is in all cases included in Stackpoole’s Return). The reason that their value was not returned by the Commissioners was simply because they know, and can know, nothing about it; and in making their return to the Lord Lieutenant they expressly limited it to their official knowledge. The Church Temporalities Act (3 & 4 Will. 4, c. 37, s. 18) precludes them from including the value of see houses or glebe houses in the valuations directed to be made by them by that statute, and they, therefore, have no power of inquiring into their value, and are, in fact, ignorant what their value is.

That glebe houses should in fairness be excluded appears from this, that in addition to the heavy liability that every clergyman is under to keep his glebe house in thorough repair, free from ecclesiastical dilapidation, nearly every clergyman on his appointment to a living has to pay out of his own pocket a large part of the original cost of building the glebe house (where there is one), and, therefore, ought rather to be considered as having purchased the use of the house during his incumbency, than as the actual owner in right of his benefice. Even in the comparatively rare case of a glebe house without any building charge on the living, it must be recollected that though the present incumbent may not have had to pay, his predecessors had to do so; so that he has the same right to it that an heir has to a house built at the expense of his ancestors. It was doubtless on such considerations as these that the Legislature in passing 3 & 4 Will. 4, c. 37, directed the value of glebe houses to be excluded.

2nd. As to Curates' Stipends:—

The Ecclesiastical Commissioners were only called upon to give, and only professed to give, the value of livings, not stipendiary curacies (all perpetual curacies are included). Of those livings, they with perfect fairness gave first the gross value, and then the net value, distinguishing in distinct columns where their knowledge was complete, and where imperfect.

In estimating the net value of livings over 300 l. a year, they deducted curates' salaries, but only in the cases directed by the statute, i. e., where the curates are regularly licensed, and the incumbents actually resident.

Nothing, therefore, can be more unfounded than to assert, as Dr. Brady does, that the net value as given by the Commissioners, "in many instances, as in the case of sick, absent, and rich incumbents, represents the net sum paid to clergymen for doing no clerical duty whatever."

It is, therefore, an error to assert that the salaries of 662 curates (assuming Dr. Brady's number to be correct, for argument's sake) ought to be added to the net value as returned by the Commissioners.

Many of those curates' salaries have not been deducted in estimating the net value, and, therefore, cannot be added to the return. They are of three classes—1st. Curates of non-resident incumbents, whether absent by license or not; 2nd. Curates not formally licensed, of whom there are a considerable number; 3rd. Curates of incumbents under 300 l. a year, of whom the Commissioners know nothing, never having been called on to allow their salaries as a deduction in valuing the living for tax.

If, however, it were to be assumed that none of these 662 curates' salaries were included in the net valuation of the livings, as given in Stackpoole's Return, taking them at 85 l. each (which is a high average, most of them being only 75 l., and a few over 100 l. a year), the whole amount would be about 56,270 l. a year; and if that be added to the 393,833 l. 13 s. 1 d. (the net value returned by the Commissioners after deducting bishoprics from the 448,943 l.), the total would be only 450,103 l. 13 s. 1 d.

But if curates' salaries are to be added to the revenues we should surely also add the curates to the clergy, and if this be done there will be 2,172 clergymen (i. e., 1,510 + 662) to be supported out of the 450,103 l., which will give an average of 207 l. 4 s. 6 d. to each, including deans, archdeacons, prebendaries, rectors, and curates; reducing the average income of the clergy more than one-fifth.

3rd. As to Pew Rents:—

These are very inconsiderable in Ireland, and confined to a few proprietary chapels in three or four large towns. Until the late Statute, 26 & 27 Vict. c. 123, pew rents in even district parochial churches in towns were illegal. The amount of these pew rents is unknown to the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, except in a very few cases, and so variable and dependant upon the popularity of the existing clergyman, and the free will of the laity, that it would be almost as fair to deem voluntary subscriptions part of the income or endowment of the church as pew rents.

4th. As to the Income of the Ecclesiastical Commissioners:—

The great proportion of this fund goes in relief of the laity, not for the use of the clergy, having been substituted by the Church Temporalities Acts for church rates.

The only parts of that income which go into the pockets of the clergy are the following:—

1st. About 12,600 l. a year in lieu of what was called Ministers' Money, in certain large towns, such as Dublin, Cork, Limerick, &c. This is already included in the Ecclesiastical Commissioners' Returns of Value, and cannot be counted over again.

2nd. About 6,000 l. a year paid in augmentation of small livings. This is also already included in the Ecclesiastical Commissioners' Valuation, and cannot be counted over again.

3rd. 1,978 l. paid to incumbents of parishes of which the tithes have been disappropriated, and transferred to the Ecclesiastical Commissioners.

This

This is also included, and cannot be counted again.

4th. 1,947 l., or thereabouts, paid to curates whose salaries used to be paid by vestry or other assessments, prior to 1833.

5th. 1,565 l., or thereabouts, paid to curates of suspended benefices.

6th. About 590 l., paid to vicars choral and choir men, pursuant to Statute 6 & 7 Will. 4, c. 99.

These three latter sums, amounting in the whole to 4,100 l. only, are the only parts of the income of the Ecclesiastical Commissioners payable to the clergy which are not included (for the reason above stated) in their Return to Parliament.

The rest of their income is expended—

1st. In building, re-building, repairing, and enlarging churches, formerly done by Church Rates.

2nd. In providing salaries for parish clerks and sextons, fuel, lighting, books, elements, and other church requisites, formerly furnished by way of vestry assessment.

3rd. In the cost of collection, management, and other minor expenses enumerated in their Annual Report.

It appears, therefore, that, even if curates' salaries are to be considered part of the net revenues of the Church, distinct from the value of benefices, Lord Dufferin's statement of 420,000 l. is much nearer the true net value than Dr. Brady's 700,000 l., especially if it be recollected that there are (to say nothing of the cost of collection) further deductions to a large amount, which, being officially unknown to the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, were not deducted by them in estimating the net value, and applicable to no less than 1,070 of the 1,510 livings, which, being under 300 l. a year gross, were not liable to ecclesiastical tax.

— No. 2. —

LETTER from Dr. Brady to the Commissioners, dated 21st December 1867.

To the Ecclesiastical Commissioners for Ireland.

My Lords and Gentlemen,

IN the course of a debate in the House of Lords in March 1866, the revenues of the Established Church in Ireland were stated at the small sum of 420,000 l. a year. As I knew that sum to be an understatement, and likely to mislead, I addressed to the editor of "The Times" a letter, published in that paper of the 26th of that month, in which letter I pointed to a return furnished by the Ecclesiastical Commissioners for Ireland as the probable source of the error, and indicated some of the particulars in which that return was defective.

I was for 16 months unaware that my letter to 'The Times' had been, immediately after its publication, brought under your notice, and the first intimation I received of the result of your deliberations upon it, was from a pamphlet entitled, "Facts respecting the Irish Church," in the last edition of which I found the following statement:

"An able exposé of Dr. Brady's fallacies respecting the revenues of the Irish Church, called 'Observations on Dr. Brady's Letter to "The Times," prepared, it is understood, with the sanction of the Ecclesiastical Commissioners for Ireland, has recently been issued."

I was naturally amazed to learn, from such a source, the existence of such an official document, which, although stated to have been "issued," was not to be procured through any of the ordinary channels. I forthwith called upon your secretary, asked him, but in vain, for a copy, and, on the 13th of last August, wrote to him, requesting the Commissioners to "favour me with a copy of these 'Observations,' of which public use had thus been already made." This letter remained unacknowledged and unanswered. Imagining that this remissness might have arisen from the absence of your officials during vacation, and being myself much engaged, I did not repeat my request until the 12th of October last. I then had the satisfaction of receiving a reply. It is in these words :

“ Ecclesiastical Commission,
24, Upper Merrion-street, Dublin,
19 October 1867.

“ Reverend Sir,

“ I BEG to inform you that the letter of the 13th August last, referred to by you, was not received at this office ; but your letter of the 12th instant was laid before the Board at its meeting on Thursday last, and I am directed to acquaint you that the Board decline to send you a copy of the paper referred to by you, the same having been prepared for private use only.

“ I am, &c.
(signed) “ Robert F. Franks, Secretary.”

“ The Rev. W. M. Brady, D.D., Navan.”

It is for you, my lords and gentlemen, to account for the application of funds entrusted to you for public purposes, to the preparation and printing of a document “ for private use only,” in reply to statements made in the most public manner. And it is for you also to explain how a document “ prepared for private use only,” came to the knowledge of a clergyman in no way connected with your office, and was, without any intimation to the person most concerned, offensively heralded as an “ able exposé of Dr. Brady’s fallacies,” and as bearing the unwonted imprimatur of the Ecclesiastical Commissioners for Ireland.

The “ Observations,” however, were destined to emerge from the secrecy which you had originally intended for them. In reply to a question put to the Chief Secretary for Ireland in the House of Commons, on the 6th of the present month, that nobleman said “ that, though the Ecclesiastical Commissioners were not under the control of the Irish Government, he had made inquiries on the subject referred to, and was informed by the Ecclesiastical Commissioners that a Minute was adopted on the 5th of April 1866, to the following effect : ‘ The Commissioners having read a paper of observations upon a letter recently published in ‘ The Times ’ newspaper, respecting the revenues of the Irish Church, by the Rev. William Maziere Brady, D.D., the same was approved and ordered to be printed for private circulation.’ This was all the information the Chief Secretary had on the subject, but if the document were moved for, he would ascertain from the Ecclesiastical Commissioners whether they would object to its being laid on the table.”

One week after the matter had been thus brought under the notice of Parliament, I had the honour of receiving the following unexpected communication :

“ Ecclesiastical Commission,
24, Upper Merrion-street. Dublin,
13 December 1867.

“ Reverend Sir,

“ As copies of the enclosed document have been this day placed in the hands of others beside the members of the Board, for whose private use it was originally printed, I am instructed to forward you a copy.

“ I am, &c.
(signed) “ Robert F. Franks, Secretary.”

Without presuming to impute a discourtesy, which I am confident was not intended, I cannot refrain from observing upon the reason assigned for now spontaneously furnishing to me a document which had previously been pointedly refused me upon application. It was not given to me in order that I might have an opportunity of replying to its ex parte statements, before you stamped it with the authority of your approval. It is not out of any consideration of the justice of allowing me an opportunity of maintaining the accuracy of my statements, and proving them to be facts, not “ fallacies.” It was not out of deference to any expression of opinion in Parliament ; but it was because copies had been “ this day,” that is on the 13th day of December 1867, placed in the hands of others beside the members of the Board, as if a copy had not been, many months before, used by the compiler of the Church Institution “ Facts.”

I now proceed to make those remarks in reply to your “ Observations,” which, if your withholding of that document had not hindered me, should have been made 20 months ago.

My original letter to “ The Times ” called public attention to the fact that the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, when returning the sum of 448,943 l. as the net net "revenue of the Church," omitted the stipends of curates, "the value of see houses, glebe houses, pew-rents, and the large sums received and disbursed by the Ecclesiastical Commissioners." I added: "If these items were taken into account, the total would, perhaps, exceed 700,000 £.;" but that, "in the absence of any reliable returns, it was impossible to calculate with certainty the present revenues of the Establishment."

As you have arranged your "Observations" under four heads, I shall observe the same order in my reply.

1st. As to Glebe Houses and See Houses:—

My allegation that the value of see houses and glebe houses was altogether omitted by the Commissioners is not denied. The omission is confessed, but defended. It is argued that because, in many instances, the incumbent pays a portion, one-fourth or one-third, under the old, and a much smaller proportion under the new laws, of the original cost of erection, no value at all should be assigned to the house. On the same principle it might be contended that the value of glebe lands should not be added, inasmuch as in some cases an excessive, in many an exorbitant, rent is charged for them. The fair way is to assign a value to the house in the gross, and to allow for the charges on account of it, when estimating the net revenue. From the table of inquiry just sent out by the recently appointed Church Commission (of which Earl Stanhope is Chairman), it appears that this is the course taken by that body. On the other hand, the Ecclesiastical Commissioners for Ireland not only omitted the value of houses, without indicating the omission, but now say they omitted it "because they know and can know nothing about it." But they can get the value of houses as easily as that of lands, from the incumbents of livings. Besides, they have in actual operation a rule for estimating the value of glebe houses. Whenever a benefice is without a glebe house, they allow, as one of the legal deductions, the rent of one. That rent is not, in every case, the actual rent which the incumbent pays, but it is what, in the opinion of the Commissioners, after they have considered the value and other circumstances affecting each case, they consider he ought to pay. Thus, 40 £. would be allowed as house rent to the incumbent of a living worth 400 £. a year; 50 £. to one worth 500 £. a year, and so in proportion. An example of the way in which the Commissioners deal with glebe houses is given at page 57 of the Stacpoole Return. There it is shown plainly, that the Commissioners, while including 100 £. and upwards among the deductions from the gross value on foot of a glebe house on which the sum of 2,861 £. was expended, do not, when calculating either the gross or net revenue, assign one farthing of value to the glebe house itself, which cost so much. It seems, however, only fair to include the value of see and glebe houses. Of the former there are 12 which, in the Returns of the Ecclesiastical Revenue Commission in 1833, are stated to have cost over 130,000 £., and were valued at more than 2,500 £. a year. Of the latter there were, in 1864, according to the "Facts" published by the Church Institution, 978. The value of these, if taken at 40 £. each, would be equivalent to an additional annual income of 39,120 £. The aggregate value of see and glebe houses may safely be stated at 42,620 £. per annum, at the least.

2nd. As to Curates' Stipends:—

The Commissioners, in their "Observations," say they "were only called on to give, and only professed to give, the value of livings, not stipendiary curacies." But by looking to pages 1, 82, 111, and 114, of the Commissioners' Return, it will be discovered that they were called on, not only for a return of the value of livings, which return appears at pages 82-111, but also for a separate return of "the aggregate amount of the revenues of the Established Church." This latter return is given at page 114, and professes to be a return, not of livings, but of "the aggregate amount of the revenues of the Established Church." To omit the incomes of curates from a return of the net incomes of incumbents would be justifiable. Not so to omit curates' salaries from a return either of the value of livings or of "the revenues of the Established Church."

The Commissioners assert that, "in estimating the net value of livings over 300 £. a year, they deducted curates' salaries," but only "where the curates are regularly licensed and the incumbents actually resident." The Commissioners seem to have attained additional information since the date of their return; for it appears that when asked by Parliament for a "return, showing whether the incumbent is resident," and "if not resident, whether he employs a curate, with the amount paid to such curate," they replied:—"The Ecclesiastical Commissioners for Ireland have not the means of supplying the information required under this head." When the Commissioners assert that they only deducted curates' salaries where the incumbents actually reside, they forgot at least one or two well-known livings in Dublin, where they deduct the curates' stipends and tax the incumbents, although not actually resident, upon the basis of a net value, which is exclusive of those stipends. The Commissioners seem also to forget some matters which, if they remembered, they would have refrained from declaring that "nothing, therefore, can be more unfounded than to assert," that "the net value, as given by the Commissioners," in many instances, represents the "net sum paid to clergymen for doing no clerical duty whatever." The Commissioners scarcely require to be reminded that no clerical duty can be represented by the net sum of 291 l., paid to a non-resident rector in Tuam diocese, who, at the date of their return, had no church, and only four Anglican parishioners; or by the net sum of 1,399 l., paid to a rector in Ossory, who had three curates, for ministering to 204 Anglicans; or by the net sum of 290 l., paid in the case of a parish in Kilmore diocese, worth 485 l. gross, to an incumbent who was absent through sickness, and whose post town was a seaport in Hampshire; or by the net sum of 155 l., paid in Cashel diocese to a non-resident incumbent who had neither church nor curate; or by the net sum of 80 l., paid to the dean of a Munster diocese, who, for 20 years has resided in Ulster, discharging the profitable, but not clerical, functions of a land agent; or by the net sum of 163 l., paid to a Killaloe prebendary whose residence is at Bath; or by the net sum of 206 l., paid to a rector in the same diocese who lives at Tunbridge Wells.

It seems, however, that my original statement that the net value of livings, as returned by the Commissioners, was "exclusive of all stipends" paid to curates, is not entirely correct. The Commissioners did not exclude all those stipends, but only the larger portion of them. For the error the Commissioners themselves are responsible. They arranged the value of livings in five separate columns. The first contained the gross, the other four the different varieties of the net income. The second column gives the "net value after all deductions directed by law" (and the law directs the stipends of assistant curates to be deducted) "in estimating ecclesiastical tax, but not deducting the tax." The third column gives the "net value after all similar deductions, except poor rates, county cess, and income tax," and without excepting curates' salaries. The fourth column gives the net value after deducting ecclesiastical tax, and the fifth gives the "net value after all deductions, so far as same are known to the Commissioners." In two, of the four net columns, it is distinctly—and in the other two it is inferentially stated, that the net value is calculated after all legal deductions, and, as curates' stipends are undoubtedly legal deductions, it was presumed, as the return asserted it, that they really were deducted. The Commissioners confirmed this conclusion, which was the only one that could have been drawn from the tables of net and gross value, by another statement at page 114 of their return. They there distinctly specified the deductions which they had omitted, "upon livings under 300 l. (which are about 1,070 in number, out of a total of 1,510) for poor rates, county cess, and income tax, the particulars of which deductions are officially unknown to the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, such livings not being liable to tax." It thus appears that the omitted deductions contain no reference to curates' stipends, which, consequently, it was only natural to infer had been already deducted.

The Commissioners now say, contrary to the terms of their own return, that they omitted to deduct, not only the salaries of curates of non-resident incumbents, of whom they profess ignorance, and of curates not formally licensed, who are not specified in the returns, but also "the curates of incumbents under 300 l. a year, of whom the Commissioners know nothing, never having been called on to allow their salaries as a deduction in valuing the living for tax." The words "under 300 l. a year" are intended to mean "under 300 l. a year of gross value," for it would be untrue to say that the salaries of curates are never deducted in the process of calculating the taxable value of livings, whose net value after all legal deductions, is under 300 l. a year. The livings which are under 300 l. a year gross, are in number 824, and include 218 perpetual cures, which as they average only 105 l. yearly, may be considered as insufficient in value to maintain assistant curates. They include also 215 livings, of which the total value is a little over 27,500 l., and of which the average value is only 120 l. gross. These poor livings are as little able as perpetual cures to maintain an assistant curate, and in point of fact there is no curate assigned to any one of them in either the Stacpoole Returns or in the Church Directories. Deducting these 215 poor livings, and the 218 perpetual cures from the total of 824 livings which are under 300 l. a year gross, it appears that 391 livings remain as the probable number of livings under 300 l. a year gross, where curates' salaries have not been deducted by the Commissioners. The whole number of livings being 1,510, and the livings whose curates' stipends may not have been deducted being 391, that is, about one-fourth of the entire, it seems fair to conclude that the Commissioners deducted in their return the stipends of three-fourths of the entire number of curates. The entire number of curates is 662, and three-fourths of them will be 497. At 85 l. each their stipends would amount to more than 42,000 l.

3rd. As to Pew Rents :—

The Commissioners say that the pew rents are very inconsiderable in Ireland, and that their amount is unknown to them, "except in a very few cases." As the Commissioners professed to give a return of Church revenue arising from land rent-charge "or any other source," and as they say they had official knowledge of pew rents in "a very few cases," it would have been satisfactory if they had added the amount, or else distinctly stated the omission. In Dublin alone, 3,475 l. is the amount of pew rents in less than a dozen proprietary or district chapels. The Ecclesiastical Commissioners deprecate the insertion of this item of pew rents. The new Commissioners, on the contrary, specifically include it.

4th. As to the Income of the Ecclesiastical Commissioners :—

The Irish Commissioners allow that they omitted, from their return of the revenues of the Church, the bulk of the revenues they administer, but they defend the omission on the ground that "the great proportion of this fund goes in relief of the laity, not for the use of the clergy, having been substituted, by the Church Temporalities Act, for church rates." The distinction thus made between ecclesiastical funds used for "the relief of the laity," and funds "for the use of the clergy," would seem to ascribe to the clergy a commonwealth of their own, and apart from the laity, such as is often spoken of, whether truly or untruly, is not now asserted, as existing in the Roman Catholic Church. This distinction, however, will scarcely be recognised as a valid one by those members of the Established Church, who believe that the clergy themselves and all they possess exist for the benefit of the laity, and who believe that the clergy and laity form the Church, and that the clergy, as well as the laity, enjoy the use of the churches, and church requisites of every kind, and avail themselves of the assistance of the parish clerks and sextons in the discharge of their functions. The great proportion of the income of the Commissioners is derived from the estates of suppressed bishoprics, from suspended dignities and benefices, and disappropriated tithes. The income from these sources alone, amounted, on an average of three years ending 1st August 1864, to 78,876 l. annually. There seems nothing, either in the source from which this income is derived, which is wholly an ecclesiastical one, or in its expenditure, which is for ecclesiastical purposes, to withdraw it from the revenues of the Church. The total income of the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, not reckoning balances in bank or the Boulter and Robinson Funds, was, on an average of three years ending 1st August 1864, no less than 142,418 l. annually. Of this large income, the sum of 20,578 l. only was included in the Commissioners' return of church revenue, being the aggregate of three sums, namely, 12,600 l. in lieu of ministers' money, 6,000 l. in augmentation of small livings, and 1,978 l. paid to incumbents of parishes where the tithes have been disappropriated. The only other sums which "go into the pockets of the clergy" are, according to the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, some small amounts, in all 4,102 l., paid to curates, vicars-choral, and choir-men. Of the balance, it appears that the sum of 49,354 l. is annually spent in church building and repairing (which sum includes 12,707 l. of voluntary subscriptions for the same purpose), the sum of 36,330 l. on clerks, sextons, and requisites for Divine service, and the sum of 9,958 l. for salaries to Commissioners, their clerks and solicitor, and for rents and office expenses, besides other sums invested or disbursed in various ways.

If the different sums arising from the value of see and glebe houses, curates' stipends, pew rents, and the income of the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, be now added to the sum of 448,943 l., returned as the net value of livings, the aggregate amount will be found nearer to 700,000 l. than to 600,000 l. But no returns have yet been furnished by which one can "calculate with certainty the present revenues of the Establishment."

Whoever reads attentively the Stacpoole Returns will perceive, with regret, that the object which Parliament sought to attain by ordering those Returns, has not been effected. If satisfactory replies to the seven or eight different inquiries of Mr. Stacpoole had been given, a body of information would have been afforded, which, taken in conjunction with the information supplied by previous returns, would have, perhaps, rendered unnecessary the labours of the new Church Commission. A true account of the "aggregate revenues of the Church in Ireland, whether derived from land, rent-charge, or any other source," ought to include—beside rent-charge, the actual letting value of lands and houses, and the income of the Ecclesiastical Commissioners—all those "other" sources of income, such as pew rents, local voluntary subscriptions, parochial endowments, and funds (whence the stipends of curates are often paid), and the sums to which the clergy are legally entitled as chaplains to various public institutions. The aggregate amount of this income from "other" sources wholly ignored by the Commissioners, is very great, and it is impossible, without an accurate knowledge of it, to draw any correct comparison between the pecuniary resources of the Established Church in Ireland and the actual work it has to perform. But neither the Diocesan Registrars nor the Ecclesiastical Commissioners seem to have been able or desirous to collect or communicate the required information. Some of the registrars, indeed, appear to have entertained more liberal views than the Commissioners, for they answer, in some respects, the inquiries of Parliament much more minutely than the Commissioners do. The value of the registrars' return is, however, materially affected by their frequent inaccuracy and the want of any uniform plan. The Ecclesiastical Commissioners seem not to have met the inquiries of Parliament in a generous spirit, for they confessedly "limited their return to their official knowledge," a knowledge of certain items of the gross and net value of the livings arranged for a special and limited purpose; the imposition of ecclesiastical tax. When the Commissioners are called on for a return "of the value of each living," they reply with a tabular view of the gross and net value as it appeared in their own books; and when asked for a return of "the aggregate amount of the revenue of the Established Church, whether derived from land, rent-charge, or any other source," they give precisely the same answer, only omitting the tables. They regard nothing as "Church revenue" except what "goes into the pockets" of incumbents, and even deny the status of clergymen to the unbeneficed ministers, for they speak—apologetically—of "adding the curates to the clergy." The returns, moreover, which they do give are deceptive in many particulars. The gross value of livings is not the gross value, being in one respect too much, for it includes some items—as, for instance, part of the endowments of perpetual cures—which are counted twice over, and in another respect too little, for it omits many items of clerical income, which by law belong to incumbents, although they do not enter into the calculations for imposing ecclesiastical tax. The net value is altogether deceptive, for it excludes the incomes of the greater part of the curates, and contains a statement calculated to convey a most erroneous idea of the value of the greater number of livings. The Ecclesiastical Commissioners concluded their Parliamentary Return by an assertion that 1,070, out of a total of 1,510 livings, were under 300 l. a year, and they conclude their "Observations" by the same assertion, that "no less than 1,070 of the 1,510 livings" are "under 300 l. a year gross." Any one who cares to test the accuracy of this assertion may easily do so by reckoning in the gross value column in the Commissioners' Return the livings which are under 300 l. a year. They will be found to be not 1,070, but 824 in number. There are, indeed, 1,070 livings which are not taxed by the Commissioners; but their exemption from tax is not in all cases due to the reason which the Commissioners assign.

These

These 1,070 or 1,072 untaxed livings are to be found in the third net column of the Commissioners' Return. Some of them are untaxed, not because they are under 300 l. a year gross, but because they have not been "vacant since the passing of the Church Tax Acts." Of such livings are Ardrea, worth 486 l. net; Charlestown, worth 302 l. net; Desertlyn, worth 361 l. net; Donoghmore, worth 956 l. net; Drumcree, worth 833 l. net; Kildress, worth 602 l. net; and Tullaniskin, worth 376 l. net. Others, among these 1,072 livings, are untaxed, not for the reason given by the Commissioners—namely, that they are "under 300 l. a year gross"—but because their net value, after legal deductions, is under 300 l. a year. Of this kind of untaxed livings are the Deanery of Armagh, worth 316 l. gross; Baronstown, worth 330 l. gross; Clonoe, worth 330 l. gross; Collon, worth 375 l. gross; Dunleer, worth 377 l. gross; Keady, worth 312 l. gross; and Kilsaran, worth 342 l. gross. Here are 14 instances, drawn from the Commissioners' Return, and occurring, all of them, in the single diocese of Armagh, which conclusively disprove the statement made by the Commissioners in their return, repeated in their "Observations," and so much relied on by those who understate the amount of Irish Church revenues—that there are actually 1,070 out of 1,510 livings whose gross value is under 300 l. a year.

The errors and inconsistencies in the "Stacpoole" Returns, exhibited both by the Registrars and the Commissioners, are deplorably numerous. The same parish is returned by the Registrar as worth 1,166 l., and by the Commissioners as worth 150 l. gross, and 399 l. net! A certain deanery is said by the Commissioners to be worth 854 l. gross, and 228 l. net, while the Registrar asserts the same deanery to be worth only 66 l. 10 s. 10 d. In many dioceses the Registrars and Commissioners give identically the same value to livings, while in other dioceses the Registrars and Commissioners assign, to the same livings, valuations differing from each other by as much as 70 l. per living. The Registrars sometimes omit a living altogether. The Commissioners ignore vicarages choral. It is impossible, therefore, to believe the "Stacpoole" Returns to be wholly true, and it would be improper to describe them as wholly false. But it is evident that the Commissioners' Returns, however they may give, occasionally, the true value of a living, contribute little towards our knowledge of "the aggregate amount of the revenues of the Established Church, whether derived from land, rent-charge, or any other source."

— No. 3. —

LETTER from Dr. Brady to the Commissioners, dated 8th June 1868.

To the Ecclesiastical Commissioners for Ireland.

My Lords and Gentlemen,

I BEG to acknowledge the receipt of your letter, dated the 3rd January, in which, as a reply to my letter of the 21st of December last, you state that "as the value of Church property in Ireland is now the subject of public inquiry before a Royal Commission," you "consider any private discussion on the subject would be out of place." Were it my desire to dispute the justice of your conclusion on merely personal grounds, I might do so. Your "Observations" on my public letter to the "Times" were, kept "private," as far as I was concerned, for nearly two years, by your refusal to let me see them, although they were "printed for private circulation" by order of your Board, distributed among those for whom you prepared them, and publicly used by the officer of the Church Institution, a body whose tactics were denounced in the House of Peers by an Irish bishop as mischievous to the Church in Ireland. You lately sent me an unexpected copy of those "Observations," wherein you charge me with erroneous and "unfounded" assertions, and now, having received my reply, you neither modify, retract, nor substantiate your charges.

With the statement, that a "private discussion" as to the revenues of the Established Church would be "out of place," I entirely concur, though not merely for the reason you allege, namely, that these revenues are now the subject of public inquiry before a Royal Commission. Why you should have thought of a private discussion, I am unable to comprehend. But on the general question of the expediency of discussion at present, your decision, and the reason of it, seem to call for comment. It is startling to find discussion deprecated concerning Church property because it now forms "the subject of public inquiry before a Royal Commission." To most persons this would appear a strong reason why it should be discussed. The inquiry of the Royal Commission, so far as yet is known, is not more public than that of the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, of which the result appears in the "Stacpoole" Returns of 1864, and the "Murphy" Returns of 1867, both of which returns, owing chiefly to their defective arrangement, have tended rather to mislead than instruct public opinion. Indeed the latter return is worse than useless; for, in consequence of its including, without distinguishing, some, but not all, voluntary subscriptions, among the sums expended by the Commissioners, it gave occasion to an English writer to underrate the liberality of Irish churchmen in contributing to the erection of new churches. The Royal seem to follow the example of the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, and to seek their information in the same way by circulars issued to the clergy. With respect, however, to some items of inquiry, the Ecclesiastical Commissioners have arranged, and perhaps rightly, to be themselves the exclusive medium of furnishing information to the Royal Commission. The "Observations" of the Ecclesiastical Commissioners have, it appears, failed to induce the Royal Commissioners to exclude pew rents and glebe houses from their inquiry; and it is certain that the enormous "income of the Ecclesiastical Commissioners for Ireland" is not to be deemed a lay property. But there are other sources of income which the "Stacpoole" Returns omitted, but which ought not to be excluded from the Royal investigation. The present seems the proper time for ascertaining these and other important particulars, which it will be too late to discuss in, perhaps, a year hence, when the Royal Commission shall have closed its labours by submitting its returns to Parliament.

Indeed, a distinguished member of your Board, the Bishop of Ossory, evidently considers it by no means "out of place" to discuss at present the subject of Church property; for although the Royal Commission has only commenced its inquiry, he has given circulation to a new edition of his pamphlet, called "The Case of the Established Church in Ireland," in which appear, besides other extraordinary assertions, some most erroneous statements, based apparently upon a misapprehension of the returns of the Ecclesiastical Commissioners. Thus, at page 10 of his "Case," the Bishop, mistaking the number 1,510, which is the number of Irish livings returned by his brother Commissioners, for the number of clergymen in 1863, which was 2,132, labours to prove false and absurd an assertion which is perfectly true, namely, that in Ireland, in 1863, there was one clergyman to every 325 Church people. "This," writes the Bishop, who evidently multiplied 325 by 1,510, instead of by 2,132, "would give 490,750 as the whole Church population of Ireland," and would reduce that population "by 202,250, nearly one-third of the entire." Again, at page 23 of his "Case," the Bishop betrayed by the "Stacpoole" Returns of the Commissioners, estimates the number of "parochial clergy" at 1,510, thus totally ignoring the curates, and then proceeds to compare the net income of Irish livings, as stated by the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, with the gross incomes of English incumbents. It is, of course, improper to compare an Irish net income, which remains to the incumbent after payment of curates' salaries and other items, with a gross income out of which such items have to be paid. But to find the income of the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, and many other items of Church revenue, amounting, confessedly, to much more than 100,000 £., omitted from "the true state of the Established Church in Ireland," as depicted by an Ecclesiastical Commissioner, is altogether astonishing. At this grave juncture a deep responsibility would lie upon any persons, but especially upon any churchmen, who would allow their own supposed interests to stand in the way of justice and the general welfare. Good men, indeed, will differ as to the course that should be adopted at the present crisis, but all must agree in believing that the country should have clearly before her the facts, on which her course of action should be founded. Yet many attempts have been made, not unsuccessfully, to conceal the truth concerning the state of the Irish Church, and to mystify public opinion. Far be it from me to accuse the Ecclesiastical Commissioners for Ireland of such attempts, but it is evident that they have not afforded that ample information which the Legislature and the country have a right to expect at the hands of a public Board.

I remain, &c.

ROMAN CATHOLIC LAITY (IRELAND).

RETURN to an Order of the Honourable The House of Commons, dated 12 March 1868 ;—for,

COPY “ of the DECLARATION of the ROMAN CATHOLIC LAITY of Ireland, sent by the Earl of Fingall to the Chief Secretary for Ireland.”

DECLARATION.

WE, the undersigned Irish Catholic Laymen, deem it our duty to contradict publicly the assertion that we do not feel aggrieved by the present Ecclesiastical Settlement of Ireland.

We feel with reference to that settlement as our Protestant fellow-countrymen in England, Ireland, and Scotland would feel if they were subjected to a like injustice.

The dignity of the religion and of the people of Ireland demands religious equality; and we are convinced that without religious equality there cannot be generated and secured that respect for law, and those relations of mutual goodwill, which constitute the true foundation for national prosperity.

NOTE.—The sums set down in the above state of the value of unlet sittings are the differences between the gross rentals of the several churches as they stood at Martinmas 1860, except St. George's, and the amounts of the seat rents actually received in the several years. In this way the value of unlet sittings is stated at the very highest possible rate, as no allowance is made for the royalty abatement still given in certain churches. For instance, in Greenside Church a value is placed on unlet sittings, while, in point of fact, as may be seen from the Numerical Returns, there have been no unlet sittings in that church for the last five years.

REVISED CODE (1868).
OF
PRIVY COUNCIL ON EDUCATION.

PRELIMINARY CHAPTER.

1. A sum of money is annually granted by Parliament for public Education in Great Britain.
2. This sum is administered by an establishment called the Education Department.
3. The head of the Education Department is the Lord President of the Council, assisted by a member of the Privy Council, who is called the Vice-President of the Committee on Education, and who acts under the direction of the Lord President, and for him in his absence (Order in Council, 25 February 1856, Act 19 & 20 Vict. c. 116).
4. The object of the grant is to promote the education of children belonging to the classes who support themselves by manual labour.
5. The means consist in aiding voluntary local exertion, under certain conditions, to establish or maintain schools, which are either :
 - (a.) For the instruction of children (elementary) ; or
 - (b.) For training schoolmasters and schoolmistresses (normal).
6. In elementary schools, the children attend from the homes of their parents, and charge is taken of them during the school hours only.
7. In normal schools, entire charge is taken of the students.
8. Every school aided from the grant must be either :
 - (a.) A school in connexion with some recognized religious denomination ; or
 - (b.) A school in which, besides secular instruction, the Scriptures are read daily from the authorized version.
9. Aid to establish schools is given by grants towards the cost of building, enlarging, improving, or fitting up, elementary school-rooms and dwellings for elementary teachers. Aid is not given to establish normal schools.
10. Aid to maintain schools is given by grants to the Managers conditional upon the attendance and proficiency of the scholars, the qualifications of the teachers, and the state of the schools.
11. The aid given to maintain schools is known as "Annual Grants," being annually payable, at a fixed time, to each school allowed to receive them.
12. No grants are made to schools which are not open to inspection by inspectors appointed by Her Majesty in Council on the representation of the Committee of Council on Education.
13. The Committee of Council consults the religious or educational bodies which are mentioned in Article 30 before making representations to Her Majesty for the appointment of inspectors to visit schools in connexion with those several bodies.
14. The inspectors do not interfere with the religious instruction, discipline, or management of schools, but are employed to verify the fulfilment of the conditions on which grants are made, to collect information, and to report the results to the Committee of Council.
15. No annual grant is paid, except on a report from the inspector, after a periodical visit, showing that the conditions of the grant have been fulfilled.
16. The Committee of Council, at the time of agreeing to make annual grants to an elementary school, informs the managers in what month to look for the inspector's annual visit. This month remains the same from year to year, unless the Committee of Council informs the managers of a change. The inspector gives notice of the day of his visit beforehand to the managers.
17. Annual grants are issued to each elementary school only once per annum. The year for this purpose is reckoned as ending with the last day (inclusive) of the month preceding that fixed for the inspector's annual visit.
18. Schools which have received aid for building, but are not receiving annual grants, are inspected as often as the periodical inspection of the schools receiving annual grants permits.
19. The managers of schools fulfilling the conditions of Articles 4, 6, and 8, may apply for the benefit of Article 18, without having received, or applying for, any grant.

20. The duration of the period, over which the right of inspection extends, depends upon the degree of permanency of the object for which the grant is made.

(a.) If the grant is made for erecting, enlarging, or improving a school, the right of inspection is secured by a clause inserted in, or endorsed upon, the school deed, and is co-extensive with the interest conveyed by that deed.

(b.) If the grant is annual only, the inspector's visit may at any time be declined by the managers, on forfeiting the grant depending upon it.

21. No undertaking must be commenced in general reliance upon the aid to be obtained from the Parliamentary grant. Separate applications, in the form of proposals, must, in the first instance, be addressed to the Secretary, Committee on Education, Council Office, London, S.W.

Full instructions are thereupon issued according to the particulars of the application.

The promoters, or managers, must appoint one of their own body to act as correspondent with the Education Department. Teachers cannot act as correspondents for the schools in which they are employed.

CHAPTER I.

GRANTS TO ESTABLISH ELEMENTARY SCHOOLS.

BUILDING.

22. Aid is not granted to build new elementary schools unless their Lordships are satisfied—

(a.) That there is a sufficient population of the labouring class which requires a school in the vicinity.

(b.) That the religious denomination of the new school is suitable to the families relied upon for supplying scholars.

(c.) That the school is likely to be maintained in efficiency.

(d.) That the buildings, at the time of application, have not been begun nor contracted for, and that no trust deed has been executed.

23. The grants made by the Committee of Council for building, enlarging, improving, or fitting up elementary schools, are not to exceed any one of the following limits, viz. :—

1st Limit.—The total amount voluntarily contributed by proprietors, residents, or employers of labour in the parish where the school is situated, or within a radius of four miles from the school. Such contributions may be in the form of (a.) Individual subscriptions;

(b.) Collections in churches or chapels in the same parish, or within the distance of four miles from the school;

(c.) Materials, at the price allowed for them by the contractor, or at which sold off;

(d.) Sites given without valuable consideration (the value to be certified by two professional surveyors);

(e.) Cartage (the value to be certified by the parochial surveyor of roads).

2nd Limit.—2s. 6d. per square foot of internal area in new school-rooms and class-rooms.

3rd Limit.—65*l.* for each teacher's residence.

24. The site, plans, estimates, specifications, title, and trust deed, must be previously approved by the Committee of Council.

25. The balance of expenditure which is not covered by the voluntary local contributions and by the public grant, taken together, may be made up from any other sources that are available, such as the proceeds of endowment, or subscriptions which are not local.

26. Grants are not made for rooms intended to be used on Sundays only; nor for rooms under places of worship; nor to pay off debts for building; nor in consideration of former expenditure for building; nor for maintenance of buildings; nor for improving or fitting up schools which have already received the maximum amount allowable under Article 23.

27. The extension of the area of existing school-rooms to receive more scholars, and the addition of teachers' dwellings to existing school-rooms, are treated pro tanto as new cases under Article 23.

28. No application can be entertained if the approved estimate (Article 24) falls below 20*l.* in small rural schools (Article 133), or 50*l.* in other schools.

The Site.

29. The site must be—

(a.) In extent,
Not less than 1,200 square yards.

(b.) In situation,
1. Not unhealthy, nor noisy.
2. Within convenient distance from the homes of the scholars.

(c.) In tenure,
Fee simple (Acts 4 & 5 Vict. c. 38., and 12 & 13 Vict. c. 49).

(1.) Without incumbrance, or rights reserved over the surface.

(2.) If with reservation of minerals, the party in whom the fee simple of them is vested must covenant to make compensation in the event of damage, and the grant made by the Committee of Council must be the first charge upon such compensation; the whole of which is to be applied as the Secretary of State for the Home Department may direct in furtherance of the trust for a school.

(3.) If subjected to powers of leasing, sale, or re-entry, the lease or sale must not be without the written consent of the Secretary of State for the Home Department, nor the re-entry without first repaying any grant which may have been paid in respect of the premises.

(4.) Leaseholds are not admissible, if fee simple can be obtained. The term must not be less than 99 years, and there must be no onerous covenants, nor more than nominal rent.

(5.) Copyholds must be enfranchised (Act 12 & 13 Vict. c. 49. s. 6).

The Trust Deed.

30. The trust deed must declare the premises to be granted in trust for the education of the poor, and for no other purpose whatever. It must also provide for the legal ownership of the premises, and for the inspection and management of the school, according to one or other of the precedents settled for: Church of England Schools, British Schools, Established Church of Scotland Schools; Wesleyan Schools, Free Church (Scotland) Schools, Roman Catholic Schools, Jewish Schools, Episcopal Church (Scotland) Schools, Undenominational Schools (belonging to none of the previous classes, but in which the Bible is read daily from the authorized version).

31. When the trust deed has been executed according to a draft approved and sealed by the Committee of Council, and (when necessary) enrolled or registered, a copy of it, including all signatures, attestations, and endorsements, must be made on plain unstamped parchment, and lodged in the Education Office.

32. When the application is for a grant to enlarge, improve, or fit up, an existing elementary school already conveyed in trust, the deed must be a legal conveyance of the land, and not at variance with any of the principles which determine the approval of new deeds. The right of inspection must be permanently secured (Act 7 & 8 Vict. c. 37. sections 1 and 2), and there must be no powers or reservations to which the Act 18 & 19 Vict. c. 131 cannot be applied, and which might become prejudicial to the school.

The Plans.

33. The plans (with specification and estimate), when approved and sealed, may be returned to the promoters for use, but must be lodged in the Education Office before a grant is paid.

Payment of Grants for Building, Enlarging, Improving, or Fitting up Elementary Schools.

34. The amount of the grant is not announced until after the draft trust deed and plans have been sealed.

35. The grant must be accepted or declined within 14 days.

36. The grant is paid on presentation of a certificate (with balance sheet annexed), by the Building and Managing Committees of the school, setting forth that the building and conveyance are completed, and that the money in hand, raised by absolute donations, will, when added to the grant, meet all claims, and finally close the account.

37. Grants under 50*l.* are treated as lapsed, if unpaid at the end of nine months, and grants above 50*l.* at the end of eighteen months, from the date of announcing them.

CHAPTER II. GRANTS TO MAINTAIN SCHOOLS.

PART I. ELEMENTARY SCHOOLS.

SECTION I.

ANNUAL GRANTS CONDITIONAL UPON THE NUMBER AND PROFICIENCY OF THE SCHOLARS, THE NUMBER AND QUALIFICATIONS OF THE TEACHERS, THE STATE OF THE SCHOOLS, AND THE DESTINATION OF THE PUPIL-TEACHERS.

38. Schools may meet three times daily ; viz., in the morning, afternoon, and evening.

39. Schools which do not meet more than once daily cannot receive grants.

40. The managers of schools may claim at the end of each year, defined by Article 17 :

(a.) The sum of 4s. per scholar according to the average number in attendance throughout the year at the morning and afternoon meetings, not being less than 400, of their school, and 2s. 6d. per scholar according to the average number in attendance throughout the year at the evening meetings, not being less than 40, of their school.

(b.) For every scholar who has attended more than 200 morning or afternoon meetings of their school :—

1. If more than six years of age 8s., subject to examination (Articles 46 and 48).

2. If under six years of age, and present, except in united schools (Article *138²), on the day of the examination, 6s. 6d., subject to a report by the inspector that such children are instructed suitably to their age, and in a manner not to interfere with the instruction of the older children.

(c.) For every scholar who has attended more than 24 evening meetings of their school 5s., subject to examination (Article 46, a).

*40¹. The average number of scholars in attendance for any period is found by adding together the attendances (Article 41) of all the scholars for the same period, and dividing the sum by the number of times the school has been open within the same period ; the quotient is the average number in attendance.

41. Attendance at a morning or afternoon meeting may not be reckoned for any scholar who has been under instruction less than two hours, nor attendance at an evening meeting for any scholar who has been under instruction less than one hour and a half.

42. Evening attendances may not be reckoned with morning or afternoon attendances in making up the prescribed minimum of 200 or 24 attendances.

43. Evening attendances may not be reckoned for any scholar under 12 years of age.

44. Every scholar attending more than 200 times in the morning or afternoon, for whom 8s. is claimed, forfeits 2s. 8d. for failure to satisfy the inspector in reading, 2s. 8d. in writing, and 2s. 8d. in arithmetic (Article 48).

*44¹. Evening scholars may be examined by the inspector at the time of his visit (Article 16), or, when more convenient, at another time under the direction of the managers (Articles 142-9).

45. Every scholar attending more than 24 times in the evening for whom 5s. is claimed forfeits 1s. 8d. for failure to satisfy the inspector in reading, 1s. 8d. in writing, and 1s. 8d. in arithmetic (Article 48).

46. Every scholar for whom the grants dependent upon examination are claimed (Article 40, b 1, and c,) must either—

(a.) Be examined according to one of the following standards (Article 48), and, except evening scholars, not be presented for examination a second time according to the same or a lower standard ;† or

(b.) After having been presented for examination in Standard VI. must satisfy the inspector in some specific subject of secular instruction, provided for in the time tables of the school in use throughout the past year (Article 17), beyond Standard VI.

47. Under any Half Time Act, 100 attendances (Article 41) qualify individual scholars for the grant offered by Article 40, b :—

(a.) Upon examination.

(b.) Without examination, after they have satisfied the inspector according to the highest standard (Article 48), but continue to attend school under the Act.

*47¹. In calculating (Article 40¹) the average number in attendance, the attendances (Article 41) of half time scholars reckon for no more than those of other scholars.

* Thus numbered, in order to preserve (for purposes of reference and quotation) the numbering of such Articles as are not substantially altered.

† See Supplementary Rules, page 25, columns VIIIa., VIIIb.

A sentence from the same paragraph, slowly read once, and then dictated in single words.	A sentence slowly dictated once by a few words at a time, from the same book, but not from the paragraph read. A sum in simple addition or subtraction, and the multiplication table.	A sum in any simple rule as far as short division (inclusive).	A sum in compound rules (money).	A sum in compound rules (common weights and measures).	A sum in practice or bills of parcels.

49. The grant may either be withheld altogether, or reduced, for causes arising out of the state of the school.

50. The inspector does not proceed to examine scholars in reading, writing, and arithmetic for the grant, until he has first ascertained that the state of the school does not require it to be withheld.

51. The grant is withheld altogether,—

- (a.) If the school be not held in a building certified by the inspector to be healthy, properly lighted, drained, and ventilated, supplied with offices, and containing in the principal school-room at least 80 cubical feet of internal space for each child in average attendance.
- (b.) If the principal teacher be not duly certificated (Article 67) and duly paid. Teachers certificated before 31st March 1864, and who have not otherwise agreed with their employers, are duly paid if they receive not less than three times the grant allowable upon their certificates in Articles 64–5 of the Code of 1860, and they have a first charge to the extent of this grant, being one-third of such due payment, upon the money received by the managers, under Article 40.

Exceptions :—

1. United schools (Article 136).
2. Infants, in a separate room, whose average number in attendance throughout the year (Article 17) does not exceed 40, and who form part of one school under a certificated teacher in the same premises.
- (c.) If the girls in the school be not taught plain needlework as part of the ordinary course of instruction.
- (d.) If the registers and accounts be not kept with sufficient accuracy to warrant confidence in the returns.
- (e.) If, on the inspector's report, there appears to be any primâ facie objection* of a gross kind. A second inspection, wherein another inspector (or inspectors) takes part, is made in every such instance, and if the grant be finally withheld, a special minute is made and recorded of the case.
- (f.) If three persons at least be not designated to sign the receipt for the grant on behalf of the school.

52. The grant is reduced,—

- (a.) By not less than one-tenth nor more than one-half in the whole, upon the inspector's report, for faults of instruction* or discipline on the part of the teacher, or (after one year's notice) for failure on the part of the managers to remedy any such defect in the premises as seriously interferes with the efficiency of the school, or to provide proper furniture, books, maps, and other apparatus of elementary instruction.
- (b.) By sums of 10%, for every 40 or 80, after the first 50, of the average number of scholars in attendance, unless there be either one pupil-teacher fulfilling the conditions of Articles 81–9 for every such 40 scholars, or one certificated or assistant teacher fulfilling the conditions of Articles 67 and 91–3 respectively for every such 80 scholars.

The forfeiture is reduced from 10% to 5% if the failure to comply with these Articles be confined to the examination of a pupil-teacher (Article 88); but this reduction is made only once for the same pupil-teacher, and not in successive years for the same school.

Pupil-teachers cannot be apprenticed in schools under teachers certificated in the lower grade of the fourth class (Articles 131–2), nor in united schools (Articles 135–140).

* In Church of England Schools the Order in Council of 10th August 1840, and the instructions to inspectors relative to examination in religion, which are founded upon it, are included under this paragraph.

(c.) By its excess above,—

1. The amount of school fees and subscriptions ; or
2. The rate of 15s. per scholar according to the average number in attendance,

} in the year defined by Article 17.

(d.) By the amount of any annual endowment (Article 93³).

53. If the excess of scholars has arisen from increased attendance of children since the last settlement of the school staff (Articles 62, 63), the forfeiture prescribed by Article 52 (b), does not accrue.

*53¹. The reduction prescribed by Article 52 (d) is suspended, as long as the grant and the endowment together do not make a total sum exceeding the rate of 15s. per scholar according to the average number in attendance in the year defined by Article 17.

54. (For the Article formerly 54 see 54¹). The grant is increased at the rate of 1s. 4d. per examination satisfying the inspector (pass) in reading, writing, or arithmetic (Article 48), up to any number of such examinations, not exceeding 120, on the following conditions, viz. :—

(a.) The number of teachers must have allowed, throughout the past year (Article 17), at least one certificated or one assistant teacher, fulfilling respectively the conditions of Articles 67 and 91–3, for every 80 scholars, or one pupil-teacher fulfilling the conditions of Articles 81–9 for every 40 scholars, after the first 25 of the average number of scholars in attendance.

(b.) The number of passes in reading, writing, and arithmetic must—

1. exceed 200 per cent. of the annual average number of scholars in attendance who are over six years of age. In schools where the calculation of average attendance is made indiscriminately upon scholars above and scholars under six years of age, the school registers of age are to determine in what ratio the average number in attendance is to be divided.
2. fall under Standards IV.—VI., to the extent of at least one-fifth part of the whole number of passes.

(c.) The time tables of the school, in use throughout the past year (Article 17), must have provided for one or more specific subjects of secular instruction beyond Article 48. The inspector must name the specific subject or subjects in his report, and must state that at least one-fifth part of the average number of scholars over six years of age have passed a satisfactory examination therein.

*54¹. (This Article was numbered 54 in the Code of 1867. It has expired except with regard to Scotland, and is verbally altered to adapt it to its now limited application.) Pupil-teachers engaged with the consent of the Committee of Council on Education according to the form of indenture in use under the Code of 1860, and the masters or mistresses by whom they are instructed, have a second charge for their several stipends and gratuities so long as their service fulfils the conditions prescribed by the Code of 1860, upon the money received by the managers under Article 40; and in case the money so received shall not be sufficient to meet the second charge upon it, the Committee of Council will add the sum requisite to make up the deficiency.

55. In every school receiving annual grants, there must be provided, out of the school funds, besides the ordinary registers of attendance,—

(a.) A diary or log-book.

(b.) A portfolio wherein may be laid all official letters, which should be numbered (1, 2, 3, &c.) in the order of their receipt.

Diary or Log Book of School.

56. The diary or log-book must be stoutly bound and contain not less than 500 ruled pages.

57. The principal teacher must daily make in the log-book the briefest entry which will suffice to specify either ordinary progress, or whatever other fact concerning the school or its teachers, such as the dates of withdrawals, commencements of duty, cautions, illness, &c., may require to be referred to at a future time, or may otherwise deserve to be recorded.

58. No reflections or opinions of a general character are to be entered in the log-book.

59. No entry once made in the log-book may be removed nor altered otherwise than by a subsequent entry.

60. The inspector will call for the log-book at his annual visit, and will report whether it appears to have been properly kept throughout the year.

61. The inspector will not write any report on the good or bad state of the school in the log-book at the time of his visit, but will enter therein with his own hand the full name and standing (certificated teacher of the — class, or pupil-teacher of the — year, or assistant-teacher) of each member of the school establishment. The inspector will not enter the names of pupil-teachers respecting whose admission the Committee of Council has not yet pronounced a decision.

62. The summary of the inspector's report when communicated by the Committee of Council to the managers must be copied into the log-book by the secretary of the latter, who must also enter the names and description of all teachers to be added to, or withdrawn from, those entered by the inspector, according to the decision of the Committee of Council upon the inspector's report. The secretary of the managers must sign this entry.

63. The inspector before making his entry of the school establishment in the following year will refer to his own entry made in the preceding year, and also to the entry which is required to be made by the secretary of the school pursuant to Article 62, and he will require to see entries in the log-book accounting for any subsequent change of the school establishment.

*63¹. A log-book must be kept in each united school (Article 140 b.)

SECTION II.

TEACHERS REFERRED TO IN THE PRECEDING SECTION.

64. The recognized classes of teachers are,—(a.) Certificated teachers. (b.) Pupil-teachers. (c.) Assistant teachers.

65. Lay persons alone can be recognized as teachers in elementary schools.

Certificated Teachers.

66. Teachers in order to obtain certificates, must be examined (Article 130), and must undergo probation by actual service in school (Articles 73, 74).

67. Certificates are of four classes. The fourth (lowest) class consists of an upper and a lower grade (Article 131), and includes special certificates for teachers of infants (Article 122). No certificate is issued above the fourth class. Certificates are raised to the higher classes by good service only (Article 78).

Examination.

68. Teachers are examined for certificates as means of distributing the Parliamentary grant to schools. The examination is not open to candidates for professional diplomas only.

69. Examinations are held in December of each year at the several training schools under inspection (Articles 119 and 128). The relative proficiency of the candidates according to examination is recorded upon their certificates, but does not affect the class of them (Article 67).

70. A syllabus, for male and female candidates respectively, of the course of study, may be had on application to the Committee of Council.

71. The names of teachers desiring to be examined must be notified by the managers of their schools to the Committee of Council before the 1st day of November preceding the examination.

72. Candidates admissible to be examined for certificates must be,—

(a.) Students in normal schools under inspection (Articles 94, 119, and 120-1); or,

(b.) Teachers who, besides satisfying Articles 68 and 71, are upwards of 22 years of age, and have either—

1. completed an engagement as pupil-teacher satisfactorily; or,
2. obtained at least two favourable reports with an interval of one year between them upon the school in which they are still employed.

Probation.

73. Candidates for certificates, after successfully passing their examination, undergo probation (that is to say), they must, as teachers continuously engaged in the same schools, obtain two favourable reports from the inspector, with an interval of one year between them; and, if the first of these reports be not preceded by service of three months (at the least) since the examination, a third report, at an interval of one year after the second report, is required.

74. One favourable report is sufficient after the examination, if the candidate, being continuously engaged in the same school, has obtained two favourable reports in consecutive years immediately preceding the examination.

75. Teachers under probation (Articles 73-4) satisfy the conditions which require that schools be kept by certificated teachers.

76. If the second (or third) report is favourable, a certificate of the fourth class is issued, and remains in force (unless recalled under Articles 79, 80) for the next five years; after which interval, it is open to revision, according to the intermediate annual reports; and so on after each further period of five years until the first class is reached.

77. No teacher who has changed more than once from one school to another during the five years preceding revision can be advanced to a higher class.

* Thus numbered, in order to preserve (for purposes of reference and quotation) the numbering of such Articles as are not substantially altered.

78. Re-examination is not permitted to candidates once passed, unless they fall under Article 131.

Concurrence of Managers and Inspector.

79. The managers must annually state whether the teacher's character, conduct, and attention to duty have been satisfactory.

80. The inspector must annually report whether the teacher's school is efficient in organization, discipline, and instruction.

Pupil-teachers.

81. Pupil-teachers are boys or girls employed to serve in a school under inspection on the following conditions, namely:—

(a.) That the school is reported by Her Majesty's Inspector to be—

1. Under a duly certificated master or mistress (Articles 67 and 131).
2. Held in suitable premises.
3. Well furnished, and well supplied with books and apparatus.
4. Divided into classes, and skilfully instructed.
5. Under good discipline.
6. Likely to be maintained during the period of engagement.

(b.) That the pupil-teachers be not less than 13 years (completed) of age at the date (see marginal note 6) of their engagement.

(c.) Be of the same sex as the principal teacher of the school, or department of a school, in which they are employed; but in mixed schools, or departments of schools, under a master and mistress, female pupil-teachers may receive instruction out of school-hours from the master, on condition that the mistress be invariably present during the whole time that the lessons are being given by the master, who must be husband, father, son, or brother of the mistress, and not both young and unmarried.

(d.) Be presented to the inspector for examination at the time and place fixed by his notice (Article 16).

(e.) Pass the examinations and produce the certificates specified in Article 88.

(f.) That the managers enter into an agreement in the following terms:—

To be stamped with a stamp of 2s. 6d.

1. The said managers agree to engage the said pupil-teacher to serve under a certificated teacher during the usual school hours in keeping and teaching the said school, but so that the said pupil-teacher shall not be obliged to serve therein more than six hours upon any one day, nor more than 30 hours in any one week. Sunday is expressly excluded from this engagement, and all duties intended to be performed by the pupil-teacher on that day are left to be separately agreed upon.

2. This engagement shall begin on the first day of⁶ _____ 186____, and shall end on the last day of⁷ _____ 188____, but if the said pupil-teacher shall, with the consent of the other parties hereto, attend one of the examinations held by Her Majesty's inspectors of schools for admission into Normal Schools in December next preceding the last-mentioned date, this engagement may end on the 31st day of the said month of December.

3. The said pupil-teacher shall be paid as wages⁹ _____ per¹⁰ _____ in the first year, and this sum shall be increased by⁹ _____ per¹⁰ _____ in each subsequent year of the engagement, but such increase may be stopped at the discretion of the managers of the said school for the time being for the unexpired remainder of any year after receipt of notice from the Committee of Council that the said pupil-teacher has failed to pass the examination, or to fulfil the other conditions, of a pupil-teacher according to the standard of the preceding year as prescribed in the Articles of the Code of the said Committee applicable to the case.

4. The said pupil-teacher either while the school is not being held, or as one of the scholars (if any) attending the school for instruction in the evening, shall receive, without charge, from the certificated teacher of the said school for the time being, special instruction during five hours per week, of which hours not more than two shall be part of the same day. Such special instruction shall be in the subjects in which the said pupil-teacher is next to be examined pursuant to the said Articles.

5. 6. The said pupil-teacher enters into this engagement freely and voluntarily on h⁵ _____ own part, and with the privity and consent of the said surety.

7. The said surety agrees with the said managers, their executors, administrators, and assigns, to clothe, feed, lodge, and watch over the said pupil-teacher during the continuance of this engagement in a manner befitting the same.

N.B.—This agreement should be deposited with the school papers (Article 55). The surety should have either an executed duplicate (which requires a second stamp), or at least a certified copy. The agreement exists only between the persons who sign it. If any of them are changed (by removal of managers, or otherwise), forms and instructions for a new agreement (with stamp) may be obtained upon application (Article 21) to the Committee of Council.

82. The Committee of Council on Education is not a party to the engagement, and confines itself to ascertaining, on the admission of the pupil-teacher and at the end of each year of the service—

(a.) Whether the prescribed examination is passed before the inspector.

(b.) Whether the prescribed certificates are produced from the managers.

83. Whatever other questions arise upon the engagement may be referred to the Committee of Council on Education (provided that all the parties agree in writing to be bound by the decision of Their Lordships as final), but, otherwise, must be settled like any other matter of hiring or contract.

84. Vacancies in the office of pupil-teacher, however occasioned, which occur in the course of any year (Article 17), must not be filled up until after the next examination by the inspector. In the meantime, the candidate or candidates must be engaged by the week only as monitors, and the memorandum of agreement, Article 81 (f), must not be executed until after notice from the Committee of Council (Article 62) to the managers that the conditions of admission to pupil-teachership are fulfilled in each case.

85. Temporary monitors engaged by the week, pursuant to Article 84, for the supply of vacant pupil-teacherships during a current year (Article 17), satisfy Article 52 (b), provided that—

(a.) A sufficient number of candidates to complete the requisite proportion of teachers to scholars pass the inspector's next examination for admission (Article 88) to permanent engagements; and—

(b.) The vacancies have not been occasioned by voluntary causes (i.e., causes for which any of the parties to the agreement can be held responsible) before the fourth year's examination has been passed.

86. Except in the cases provided for by Article 85, each vacancy in a pupil-teachership during a current year (Article 17) works a forfeiture under Article 52 (b).

89. Female pupil-teachers, before admission to apprenticeship, must produce a written attestation from the schoolmistress and managers that they possess reasonable competency as sempstresses ; and, at the annual examinations, must bring certified specimens of plain needlework to the inspector, together with a statement from the schoolmistress specifying whether they have been receiving practical instruction in any other kind of domestic industry. The inspector, at the time of examination, or afterwards, will obtain the opinion of some competent person upon the merit of the needlework.

Pupil-teachers who have successfully completed their Apprenticeship.

90. At the close of the apprenticeship pupil-teachers are perfectly free in the choice of employment. Any person properly interested in knowing the character of a pupil-teacher may apply to the Committee of Council for a testimonial, declaring that the pupil-teacher has successfully completed an apprenticeship ; or the pupil-teacher, if willing to continue in the work of education, may become an assistant in an elementary school (Article 91), or may be examined as a candidate for admission into a normal school (Articles 103–111), or may be provisionally certificated for immediate service in charge of small rural schools (Articles 132, 133).

*90¹. The managers of schools, wherein it appears from the inspector's last report that the number of teachers throughout the year (Article 17) has been sufficient to satisfy Article 54, a, may claim grants,—

1. At the rate of 10*l.* for every male pupil-teacher admitted (Articles 105–110) into a normal school from candidates placed by examination in the first class, and 5*l.* for every male pupil-teacher so admitted from candidates placed in the second class ; also
2. For every male pupil-teacher who, having been admitted (Articles 105–110) into a normal school, is at the end of his first year's residence placed in the first or second division (Articles 119, 121, 102³) ; viz., 8*l.* for every such pupil-teacher placed in the first division, and 5*l.* for every such pupil-teacher placed in the second division of students.

Assistant Teachers.

91. Pupil-teachers who can be certified, pursuant to Article 90, to have completed their apprenticeship with credit, may serve as assistants in schools in place of pupil-teachers, without being required to be annually examined. But such assistants cease to fulfil the conditions of Article 52 (b), if at any time the inspector reports them to be inefficient teachers, or if they fail to produce from the managers, and from the principal teacher, of their school, the same certificates of conduct, attention to duty, and obedience, as are required from pupil-teachers.

92. Vacancies caused by the withdrawal of assistants in the course of any school year (Article 17) must be supplied by the appointment of temporary monitors, pursuant to Articles 84, 85 ; but if another assistant, qualified according to Article 91, be appointed before the inspector's next examination, the temporary monitors who preceded such appointment are not required to be examined.

93. Assistants are left entirely at liberty to make their own terms with their employers, both as to hours and wages.

SECTION III.

ENDOWMENTS.

*93¹. An endowed school is one deriving income from property inalienably appropriated to it, or to education.

*93². Endowed schools, in order to be admissible to receive either grants or inspection, must fulfil the conditions of Articles 4, 6, and 8.

*93³. Annual Grants (Article 40) to endowed schools are reduced by the amounts of their income (Article 52 d.) from endowment ; but the reduction is suspended as long as the grant and the endowment together do not make a total sum exceeding the rate of 15*s.* per scholar according to the average number in attendance in the year defined by Article 17 (*Article 53¹).

* Thus numbered in order to preserve (for purposes of reference and quotation) the numbering of such articles as are not substantially altered.

PART II.

NORMAL SCHOOLS.

SECTION I.

94. A normal school includes—

(a.) A college, for boarding, lodging, and instructing candidates for the office of teacher in schools for the labouring classes; and (b.) A practising department, in which such candidates may learn the exercise of their profession.

95. No grant is made to a normal school unless the Committee of Council is satisfied with the premises, management, and staff.

96. No grant is made for building, enlarging, improving, or fitting up the premises of normal schools.

SECTION II.

GRANTS TO NORMAL SCHOOLS.

97. To the practising departments (Article 94, b.), the same annual grants (Article 40) are made as to other elementary schools fulfilling the conditions of Articles 4, 6, and 8.

98. To the colleges (Article 94, a.), annual grants are made of 100*l.*, in five successive payments of 20*l.* per annum for every master, and of 70*l.* in five successive payments of 14*l.* per annum for every mistress who, having been trained in them, during two years, has, since December 1862,—

(a.) completed the prescribed period of probation (Articles 73–6), and become qualified to receive a certificate in a school fulfilling the conditions of Articles 4, 6, and 8, or 94; or

(b.) been reported by the proper department in each case to have completed a like period of good service as an elementary teacher in the Army or Royal Navy, or (within Great Britain) in Poor Law Schools, Certified Industrial Schools, or Certified Reformatories.

99. Masters and mistresses who have been trained for one year only may obtain certificates after probation (Articles 73–6), or may be reported by the proper department (Article 98, b.), upon the same terms as others; and five annual grants, of half the amount specified in Article 98, may be made for them to the colleges in which they were trained, provided—

(a.) they completed their training before 1st January 1864; or

(b.) are teachers of infants, having—

1. received a complete and special course of training for that service in their colleges, which must have been previously recognized by the Committee of Council as providing such a course; and

2. undergone their probation (Articles 73–6) in infant schools.

100. The annual grant to each college in 1868, consists of 20*l.* or 10*l.* (in the case of females 14*l.* or 7*l.*) for each teacher who, having been trained in it during two years, or during one year conformably to Article 99 (a.), has, within the five years 1863–7, become qualified, or been reported, as required by Article 98, or 99 (b.).

101. In 1869, the year 1863 of the five years 1863–7 will be replaced by the year 1868.

102. The annual grant to each college must not exceed—

(a.) 75 per cent. of the expenditure, certified in such manner as their Lordships may from time to time see fit to require, of the last preceding year; or such proportionately larger sum as Article 102⁷ may allow.

(b.) 50% for each male student, and 35% for each female student, in residence respectively, for continuous training throughout the year in which it is being paid.

*102¹. The number of students in continuous training must not exceed,—

(a.) In England and Wales, the number of students for whom accommodation was provided in 1862.

(b.) In Scotland, the actual number in training in 1862.

*102². The sum payable in each year, conformably to Article 102, is ascertained in January; and out of this ascertained sum an instalment is paid for students examined in the preceding December (Article 119), according to the scale set forth in Article 102³, as soon as the result of that examination has been declared. The remainder of the said ascertained sum is paid in equal parts on 31 March, 30 June, 30 September, and 31 December.

*102³. The instalments payable under Article 102² in respect of each student examined are determined according to the following scale:—

At the End of	For Candidate placed by Examination in each Division.	Instalment to be allowed to College (in the case of Females, Two-thirds of these Sums).
First year's residence - - {	1	20 0 0
	2	16 0 0

Second year's residence - - {	1	24 0 0
	2	20 0 0
	4	16 0 0

*102⁴. The payments in respect of students examined in December, as set forth in Article 102³, are paid although the College may not be re-opened in the following year.

*102⁵. An account is kept from year to year in the following form :—

*102^b. All sums appearing in column 9 are applied to the payment of the sums appearing in column 8.

*102⁷. The amount appearing in column 5 is increased proportionately to any increase in the number of students (Article 107) resident for continuous training (Article 120) throughout the year in which the grant is being paid. The increased number of students must not exceed the maximum defined by Article 102¹.

* Thus numbered in order to preserve (for purposes of reference and quotation) the numbering of such articles as are not substantially altered.

SECTION III.

ADMISSION INTO NORMAL SCHOOLS.

103. A competitive examination of candidates for admission into each normal school is annually held at it in December, by one or more of the inspectors during the week following the examination for certificates (Article 119).

104. The examination extends to the subjects required at the end of a pupil teacher's apprenticeship (Article 88).

105. The candidates are selected, and admitted to the examination, by the authorities of each normal school on their own responsibility, subject to no other conditions than that the candidates—

(a.) Intend bonâ fide to adopt and follow the profession of teacher in schools fulfilling the conditions of Articles 4, 6, and 8, or 94, or 98, b ;

(b.) having been pupil teachers, have successfully completed their apprenticeship ; or

(c.) not having been pupil teachers, are more than 18 years old.

106. All candidates who obtain the minimum number of marks are arranged in two classes in order of merit, irrespectively of their having been pupil teachers or not.

107. The authorities of each normal school may propose to the Education Department for admission any candidate declared to be admissible pursuant to Article 106.

109. Before candidates are admitted—

(a.) The medical officer of the normal school must certify the state of their health to be satisfactory, and whether they are free from bodily lameness, defect, or deformity ; and,

(b.) They must sign a declaration signifying their intention conformably to Article 105.

110. The authorities of each College settle their own terms of admission.

111. Upon proof by the authorities of any College that candidates have not fulfilled the conditions set forth in Articles 98-9, contrary to a declaration signed by them on admission into the College, the Committee of Council will refuse to grant teachers' certificates (Article 76) to such candidates, or to admit them to probation for certificates (Articles 73-5).

* 112-118.

SECTION IV.

EXAMINATION OF CANDIDATES ADMITTED INTO NORMAL SCHOOLS.

119. An examination of the resident students is held in December at the several Colleges in the week preceding the examination for admission (Article 103). The day fixed for the commencement of this examination is printed on the syllabus (Article 70) from year to year.

120. No student may be presented for examination except such as, at the date of their admission, satisfied Article 105, and have been resident throughout the whole year. No such student may be left out.

121. The students have a different examination according as they are males or females, or are at the end of a first or second year of residence.

122. The first year's syllabus for females includes special subjects for the teachers of infants. Candidates who pass in these subjects, and complete their probation (Articles 73-6,) in schools for infants, receive special mention thereof (stamp) on their certificates.

* 123, 124.

125. At the end of the first year's residence, students who fall into the fourth division (Article 102³), are required to take up the first year's subjects again (viz., at the end of the second year), but in such cases the instalments to the College, and the certificates which the students may obtain as teachers (Article 76), are respectively at the rate (Article 102³) and in the form (Article 130) of the first year.

126. The principal is at liberty, by notice in writing to the Committee of Council before 30th June in each year, to designate any student who may have appeared in the third division at the end of the previous (first) year's residence, as proper to be examined again upon the same terms as the students included in the fourth division ; but such designation on the part of the principal does not affect the privileges attached to the student's rank in the previous examination.

* 127.

* Retained, in order to preserve (for purposes of reference and quotation) the numbering of those articles which are not substantially altered.

SECTION V.

USE MADE OF EXAMINATIONS IN NORMAL SCHOOLS FOR AWARDING TEACHERS' CERTIFICATES.

128. Teachers qualified to be examined for certificates, according to Articles 68, 71, and 72, receive notice to attend the examination held pursuant to Article 119.

129. Teachers attending examinations pursuant to Article 128 may, at their option, take the papers of the first or second years' students (Article 121).

130. No candidate (Article 72) can obtain a teacher's certificate without passing one of these examinations, but the order of the candidates according to examination, except the fourth division (Article 131), is honorary (Articles 67 and 69).

Students who pass successfully through two years of training in normal schools receive special mention thereof (stamp) on their certificates.

131. Candidates (whether students or acting teachers), who are placed by examination in the fourth division (Article 102³), receive their certificates in the lower grade of the fourth class (Article 67). Such teachers are not recognized, under Article 81a, for the superintendence of pupil-teachers until they have risen to a higher certificate either by re-examination (Article 78), or good service (Articles 76-7).

*131¹. All teachers at present registered as competent to instruct pupil teachers are included in the fourth class, upper grade, of certificated teachers; all other registered teachers, and all scheduled students acting as teachers, are included in the fourth class, lower grade.

PART III.

SPECIAL PROVISIONS.

SECTION I.

SMALL RURAL SCHOOLS.

132. Pupil teachers who fulfil the conditions of Article 90, may, upon special recommendation by the Inspector, and upon consideration of their last examination papers, be provisionally certified in the lower grade of the fourth class (Article 131) for immediate service in charge of small rural schools (Article 133), but after their 25th year of age (completed) their provisional certificates must have been exchanged for permanent certificates (Article 66), or are ipso facto cancelled.

*132¹. The provisional certificate (Article 132) is confined to an entry of the pupil teacher's name in a register kept by the Committee of Council on Education, and does not involve the issue of any certificate to the pupil teacher.

133. Small rural schools—

- (a) Must not contain more than 1,200 square feet of superficial area in the whole of the school-rooms and class-rooms; or
- (b) Must not have an annual average attendance of more than 100 scholars.

135. Any number of schools fulfilling the conditions of Articles 4, 6, and 8,

- (a) Not being less than two, nor more than six;
- (b) Of which no one has within one and a half miles of it, a population of more than five hundred;
- (c) Of which the aggregate number of scholars is not less than forty (annual average); and
- (d) Of which each has its own resident teacher;—

may be united under the superintendence of one certificated master or mistress, who must spend two clear hours at the least in each week at each school during its ordinary time of meeting, or, if the number of united schools be less than six, such longer time per week as twelve hours divided among the united schools will give to each.

* Thus numbered, in order to preserve (for purposes of reference and quotation) the numbering of articles not substantially altered.

136. The resident teacher of each of the united schools is not required to be certificated.

137. The superintending teacher must have been trained for two years in a Normal School (Article 94) under Government inspection, must have been placed not lower than the third division in the examination (Articles 119-121) at the end of the second, year, and must have received a certificate after the usual probationary service (Articles 73 and 76).

138. The day scholars of all the united schools must be assembled once per annum, with their resident and superintending teachers, at some school-room under inspection, for examination by one of Her Majesty's inspectors, in the same manner as if they formed one school (Articles 16, 17).

*138². Children under six years of age, who are qualified by attendance for the grant under Article 40, b, 2, must be entered in the schedules, but they need not appear in person at this examination, but will be inspected at their several schools (Article 140).

Children (of whatever age), who have not attended often enough (200 times) to be entered in the schedules, need not appear at this examination, but will be inspected at their several schools (Article 140).

139. The whole of the united schools must be represented by one official correspondent, and by one treasurer for the receipt of annual grants (Article 40).

140. The inspector, before or after examining (Article 138) the children, visits the several schools and makes a special report upon each of them. If he reports (inter alia) that Article 40, b, 2 is not satisfied in regard to the infants (Article *138²), the grant for them in that school is withheld.

141. Articles 38-63¹ apply, in all respects not specially excepted, to each united school, but

- (a.) pupil-teachers cannot be apprenticed (Article 81) in them (Article 136); and
- (b.) the superintending (Article 137) as well as the resident (Article 135 d) teacher must join in keeping the log-book (Articles 56-63¹) of each united school.

SECTION II.

EVENING SCHOLARS.

142. The managers of any school to which annual inspection has already been promised (Article 16) may apply in writing to the Committee of Council on Education, to be furnished with printed papers and instructions for holding an examination of their evening scholars (Articles 38, 39).

*142¹. Only one examination per annum of evening scholars is held in the same school, and it may be held at any time of the year, provided that, between any two of such examinations, there intervene—

- (a) the inspector's annual visit (Article 17); and also
- (b) forty, or more, meetings of the school in the evening (Article 40*a*).

143. The applicants must pledge themselves that (exclusively of all teachers of the candidates) at least two managers—or, if only one manager, then such manager, and at least one other responsible person—shall be present during the whole of the examination, and shall conduct it in every respect according to the instructions accompanying the examination papers.

144. The examination papers are sent under an official seal, and must not be unsealed except in the examination room, and in the presence of the candidates immediately about to use them.

145. The written exercises, all of which must be upon paper, having been securely sealed up in the presence of the candidates before leaving the examination room, under the seals of the two persons holding the examination, must be forwarded, by the next post, to the Education Department, and transmitted thence to the inspector of the School.

* Thus numbered, in order to preserve (for purposes of reference and quotation) the numbering of articles not substantially altered.

146. The exercises of the evening scholars transmitted to the inspector are not returned by him to the Committee of Council except as part of his next annual report on the whole school (Article 16), and the grant for the examination of the evening scholars is not paid except as part of the next annual grant to the whole school (Article 17).

148. In order to ensure the presence of a responsible manager to receive the examination papers, the managers of each school, in which a special examination of evening scholars is to be held, must renew their application (Article 142) every year to the Committee of Council. The day fixed for the examination must allow the interval required by Article *142¹.

149. The inspector of the school is at liberty to attend, without notice, at the time fixed for the examination (Article 142), and to hold it in person.

CHAPTER III.

REVISION OF CODE.

150. The Committee of Council on Education, in the course of each year, as occasion requires, may cancel or modify articles of the Code, or may establish new articles, but may not take any action thereon until the same shall have been submitted to Parliament, and laid on the Table of both Houses for at least one calendar month.

151. In January of each year the Code shall be printed in such a form as to show separately all articles cancelled or modified, and all new articles, since the last edition, and shall be laid on the Table of both Houses within one calendar month from the meeting of Parliament.

(Signed) MARLBOROUGH,
Lord President of the Council.

ROBERT MONTAGU, on Education.

47. (b.) Without examination, after they have satisfied the inspector according to the highest standard (Article 48),* but continue to attend school under the Act.

54. (For the Article formerly 54 see 54¹). The grant is increased § at the rate of 1s. 4d. per examination satisfying the inspector (pass) in reading, writing, or arithmetic (Article 48), up to any number of such examinations, not exceeding 120, on the following conditions, viz. :—

- (a.) The number of teachers must have allowed, throughout the past year (Article 17), at least one certificated or one assistant teacher, fulfilling respectively the conditions of Articles 67 and 91-3, for every 80 scholars, or one pupil-teacher fulfilling the conditions of Articles 81-9 for every 40 scholars, after the first 25 of the average number of scholars in attendance.
- (b.) The number of passes in reading, writing, and arithmetic must—

99. Masters and mistresses who have been trained for one year only may obtain certificates after probation (Articles 73-6), upon the same terms as others.

100. *The grants specified in the Articles 98-9 will not come into full operation before the year commencing 1st January 1868. Provisional arrangements for the years 1864-7 are included in Article 101.

101. *In January 1864 was ascertained—

- (a.) What had been the average annual sum paid to each College on account of students examined in December 1860-1-2, and of Queen's scholars, certificated assistants, and lecturers resident in the years 1861-2-3. This sum remains constant in the calculations which follow in this Article.
- (b.) What number of teachers trained in it during two years, or during one year conformably to Article 99 (a), had, in 1863, become qualified, or been reported, as required by Article 98, or 99 (b).

The annual grant to each College was—

In 1864, four-fifths of the said average annual sum, together with 20*l.* or 10*l.* (in the case of females 14*l.* or 7*l.*) for each teacher so qualified or reported in 1863.

In 1865, three-fifths of the said average annual sum, together with 20*l.* or 10*l.* (in the case of females 14*l.* or 7*l.*) for each teacher so qualified or reported in 1863-4.

In 1866, two-fifths of the said average annual sum, together with 20*l.* or 10*l.* (in the case of females 14*l.* or 7*l.*) for each teacher so qualified or reported during the three years 1863-5.

In 1867, the number will be ascertained of teachers so qualified or reported during the four years 1863-6; in 1868, the number during the five years 1863-7.

In 1867, the grant to each College will consist of one-fifth of the said average sum, together with 20*l.* or 10*l.* (in the case of females 14*l.* or 7*l.*) for each teacher so qualified or reported during the four years 1863-6.

In 1868, of 20*l.* or 10*l.* (in the case of females 14*l.* or 7*l.*) for each teacher so qualified or reported during the five years 1863-7.†

In 1869, and in each subsequent year, the earliest year of the five will be replaced by the year last ended.

* Temporary provisions expired.

† If A = the average sum paid in 1861-3, and T the number of teachers on each of whom £x. is to be allowed, the following formula expresses the result:—

$$\text{Grant for 1864} = \frac{4}{5} A + \text{£}x T (1863).$$

$$\text{,, ,, 1865} = \frac{3}{5} A + \text{£}x T (1863-4).$$

1. At the rate of 10*l.* for every male pupil-teacher admitted (Articles 105-110) into a normal school from candidates placed by examination in the first class, and 5*l.* for every male pupil-teacher so admitted from candidates placed in the second class; also
2. For every male pupil-teacher who, having been admitted (Articles 105-110) into a normal school, is at the end of his first year's residence placed in the first or second division (Articles 119, 121, 102³); viz., 8*l.* for every such pupil-teacher placed in the first division, and 5*l.* for every such pupil-teacher placed in the second division of students.

99. Masters and mistresses who have been trained for one year only may obtain certificates after probation (Articles 73-6), or† may be reported by the proper department (Article 98, b), upon the same terms as others.

100. The annual grant to each college in 1868, consists of 20*l.* or 10*l.* (in the case of females 14*l.* or 7*l.*) for each teacher who, having been trained in it during two years, or during one year conformably to Article 99 (a), has, within the five years 1863-7, become qualified, or been reported, as required by Article 98, or 99 (b).

APPENDIX II.

SUPPLEMENTARY RULES.

A copy of the following Supplementary Rules is sent to the correspondent of the School by the Inspector at the same time as notice of his visit (Article 16).

RULE 1.—In column II. of the Examination Schedule the names of the qualified scholars must be entered class by class, beginning with the lowest scholar in the lowest class.

RULE 2.—The entries in column VII. must show where one class ends and another begins. The number denoting each Class is to be written only once; dots (".") are to be put for each repetition of it, until the next higher class begins. There must be no intermixture of classes.

RULE 3.—The entries in column VIII b. will show where one standard ends and another begins. The number denoting each standard is to be written only once; dots (".") are to be put for each repetition of it until the next higher standard begins. There must be no intermixture of standards.

RULE 4.—The end of each standard in column VIII b. need not (although, of course, it may) coincide with the end of each class in column VII. Compare the entries opposite to No. 6 who ends a class, but not a standard; No. 8 who ends a standard but not a class; No. 16 who ends both a class and a standard (this is preferable).

RULE 5.—The managers need not present all the scholars who in each class are qualified for examination by number of attendances; but those whom they present at all must be presented in the classes to which the school registers prove them to belong, unless they fall as "Exceptions" under Rule 6.

RULE 6.—The children who, for whatever reason, are presented under a lower standard than that which an examination of the school according to the above rules assigns to their class, must be entered last in the schedule under the title of "Exceptions," otherwise they will violate Rule 2 or 3. No child is to be placed among the "Exceptions" unless there is some special excuse for doing so, such as previous illness, &c. Prima facie, every child who is not fit to be examined in its own class has been wrongly placed there for instruction.

RULE 7.—The Inspector is directed to refuse to examine Schools wherein Rule 2 or 3 is violated. He will in such cases proceed to inspect the School, and will report to the Committee of Council why he has left column IX. (his Report on each candidate) in the Examination Schedule blank.

RULE 8.—No grant will be paid to a School (not being one for Evening Scholars or Infants only) unless one class—i.e. all who are to be examined as members of one class according to Rule 5—be presented at least as high as Standard III.

RULE 9.—A deduction of at least one-tenth will be made from the grant to a School (not being one for Evening Scholars or Infants only) unless one class—i.e. all who are to be examined as members of one class, according to Rule 5—be presented above Standard III.

RULE 10.—Entries in column VI. have reference to Article 4 in the Revised Code, and do not exclude children from the grant whose parents, though not supporting themselves by their own manual labour, yet are of the same means and social level as those who do so; such as shopkeepers who have only petty stocks, and employ no one but members of their own family.

* Temporary provisions expired.

The occupation of all parents who do not support themselves by their own manual labour must be entered in column VI.

A well marked line (see No. 12 in specimen Schedule) $\parallel$ may be drawn under all entries in column VI., which are thought to be fairly within the meaning of Article 4.

A separate list of the names against which these underlined entries are made, with a brief statement of the reasons which have induced the managers to underline them, must be filed with the examination Schedule, and handed to the inspector on the day of his visit.

In determining whether the line may be drawn under the several entries or not, cases of doubt may be resolved according to the answers to one or more of the following inquiries :—

(a.) Does A.B. work for himself, or for a master? if for himself, does he employ apprentices or journeymen? This will apply to masons, carpenters, tailors, blacksmiths, mariners, fishermen, &c.

The class denoted by Article 4 supports itself by its own manual labour only, and not by profit on the labour of others.

(b.) Would it be unreasonable to expect him to pay 9d. per week for the schooling of each of his children?

This payment equals about 30s. per annum, the estimated cost (Royal Commissioners Report, page 345) of elementary instruction in a day school.

(c.) Does he rank, and associate with, the working men, or with the tradesmen of the place?

Simple policemen, coastguards, and dock and railway porters, may commonly be regarded as labouring men. But petty officers in those services, excisemen, pilots, and clerks of various kinds, present more difficulty, and must be judged of according to the answers to the preceding inquiries.

RULE 11.—To find the average number of scholars in attendance at a school for any period, ADD TOGETHER the total number of attendances (see Rule 12) marked in the Class Registers within the period, and DIVIDE the sum BY the number of times which the school has been open within the same period; THE QUOTIENT is the average number in attendance.

This calculation should be made first, for the whole school, and then separately for those scholars only who do not fulfil Article 4. See Rule 10, suprà, and note † in pp. 2, 3, 4 of the Form IX. The divisor will be the same in both cases.

RULE 12.—Attendance at a morning or afternoon meeting may not be reckoned for any scholar who has been under instruction less than two hours, nor attendance at an evening meeting for any scholar who has been under instruction less than one hour and a half (Article 41). The Class Registers at each meeting of a school must be marked and finally closed before the minimum time constituting an attendance begins. The inspector will inquire whether this rule has been observed (Article 51, d).

RULE 13.—No child's name should be kept on the Admission Register after a fortnight's continuous absence without inquiry from the parents whether the child has been withdrawn. The names of children withdrawn (whether they are so, the answer of their parents will decide) should be cancelled at once in the Registers, and not included in the returns of age and stay at school; but the attendances (if any) opposite to such names in the Class Registers, must be counted under Rule 11., suprà, and the whole number of such names must be counted for the return "left in past year."

$\parallel$ In the following transcript of part of the Examination Schedule, Columns II., VII., and VIIIb., are filled up, by way of example, according to Rules 2 and 3. Of course, the other columns must not, in practice, be left blank; and the actual numbers, presented in each class, will generally be much larger.

RETURN to an Address of the Honourable The House of Commons, dated 7 December 1867;—for,

“RETURN (so far as can be given or estimated) of the Number of CHILDREN in INSPECTED SCHOOLS in the Year ending the 31st day of August 1867, distinguishing how many of such CHILDREN belong to FAMILIES which are considered as POOR.”

(Mr. Ayrton).

Ordered, by The House of Commons, to be Printed, 14 February 1868.

RETURN (so far as can be given or estimated) of the Number of CHILDREN in INSPECTED SCHOOLS
 CHILDREN belong to FAMILIES

This Return is made up in two ways, lettered respectively (A.) and (B). The Return (A.) is calculated on actual Returns resting on direct testimony. The Return (B.) is calculated on the Numbers of Children paying School Fees in the different classes of Schools, and shows pretty accurately in which classes the greater part of the really poor Children are to be found.

* Article 4. "The object of the grant is to promote the education of Children belonging to the classes who support themselves by manual labour."

† The number 17,567 is arrived at as follows:—9,825 out of 770,015 children who have attended school 200 days and upwards in the year are returned by the Managers as not falling under Article 4. The same ratio is assumed to hold throughout the entire number of scholars, and 17,567 is the fourth term of the proportion 770,015 : 9,825 :: 1,376,882 : x (the books). This calculation would give an over-estimate, if the Managers made their returns with due strictness, because the children who attend best include more than a proportionate part of those of better rank. But against this source of error may be set the great laxity of the Managers in making this part of their Returns. See Report of Committee of Council, 1864-5, pp. xxi.-ii.

‡ No Return can be made for Scotland. The Code of 1860 is still in force in that part of Great Britain, so far as the mode of payment is concerned. The Grants in Scotland continue to be paid per teacher, not directly per scholar. The forms in use do not distinguish the scholars according to their social rank. The proportionate number of scholars from the middle or higher classes in aided schools is certainly greater in Scotland than England. It is a national custom of Scotland for children of all but the very highest classes to be sent to the same elementary schools.

METROPOLITAN PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

RETURN to an Address of the Honourable The House of Commons, dated 25 November 1867;—for,

“ COPY of LETTER from Mr. Ayrton to the President of the Council respecting METROPOLITAN PUBLIC SCHOOLS.”

LETTER from Mr. Ayrton, M. P., to Lord Granville, President of the Committee of Council on Education, respecting the REPORT of the ROYAL COMMISSION on the PUBLIC SCHOOLS in the METROPOLIS.

To the Right Hon. Lord Granville, President, &c. &c.

My Lord,

I AVAIL myself of Mr. Bruce's suggestion to place before you in writing my views respecting the Metropolitan Public Schools, which have recently been the subject of inquiry. As you have doubtless read the Report of the Royal Commission on these schools, I will only notice very briefly the leading facts which are there set forth at length.

1. Westminster School has no separate endowment, but is maintained at an expense of about 2,000 l. a year out of the funds of the Dean and Chapter of Westminster, which now amount to 60,000 l. a year. The school buildings and playground are provided free. The school is a mixed boarding and day school. About 130 boys receive a classical education, 40 of them being also maintained. These 40 boys pay 17 l. 17 s. a year for their education, the others 26 l. 5 s., and those who board pay 68 l. 5 s. a year in addition.

2. St. Paul's School is supported by an endowment vested in the Mercers' Company, now producing a gross income of 9,500 l. a year, which will in a few years be greatly increased. The school buildings are free. It is exclusively a day school, at which 153 boys receive a classical education without payment.

3. The Charter House is maintained out of the endowments vested in the governors, amounting to about 22,700 l. a year, of which about one-half may be applied to the purposes of the school. The buildings and playground are also provided free. It is a mixed boarding and day school for a classical education; 44 boys are maintained and educated free, and the other boarders at a charge of 80 l. to 90 l. a year.

4. The Report notices the great difference between public schools in London and in provincial towns, but without entering fully into all the circumstances, and arrives at this conclusion:—“ Archdeacon Browne is of opinion that in order to maintain a large school in London, it must be made principally a day school, and that everything must be sacrificed to the day school principle. We are disposed to concur with him in this opinion, and to deduce from it the conclusion that as day schools are what London principally wants, the course which would be most for the interests of London would be to improve and enlarge the schools which are to be treated as day schools, and to remove the boarding schools to a distance.”

5. Nevertheless, the Report, instead of treating the question of Metropolitan Schools in a comprehensive manner, as a separate question, on the basis which it rightly suggests as the true one, mixes up the Metropolitan and Provincial

Schools in its general recommendations, without distinction. Had the Commissioners fully investigated the grounds of the importance of day schools in the metropolis, it would have been made apparent why they are so much desired. I will only notice those grounds shortly.

6. In London there is a very large professional class, and also a very large class of residents, who desire to qualify their sons for professional and other intellectual pursuits; but the professional class consists, to a great extent, and the other class to a much greater, of persons unfortunately possessed of very limited means. They are compelled to keep up a certain establishment at a much greater expense relatively than in provincial towns or in the country; they cannot contract and expand this establishment as their children may be absent or at home. Thus the cost to them of their children at home is mainly the expense of the additional food, and even this extra expense is in some measure compensated for by their being able to maintain a more comfortable table. A comparison of all the heads of expense would show a considerable balance in favour of children living at home even as compared with boarding at the cheaper schools. But it would seem from the facts stated in the report that the cost of maintaining pupils as boarders at the public schools is so great, or the charge for it so high, that none but the more wealthy can afford it. In addition to the sum charged for boarding at school, there are contingent expenses of a considerable amount.

7. The number of persons in the metropolis to whom these remarks apply cannot be easily estimated, but I believe it amounts to many thousands; and the question I now wish to submit for your consideration is whether it is not desirable to deal with the public schools in the metropolis in the manner which will best meet their case.

8. There are not only all the great public schools, but there are numerous other grammar schools in all parts of the metropolitan counties, some of them, like Tonbridge, well endowed, which can be resorted to with great facility. Many of them admit of considerable extension; and they may be regarded as sufficient to satisfy the wants of those who can afford to send their children to boarding schools. No necessity exists for adding to the number of endowed boarding schools in the provincial towns or rural districts.

9. After making due allowance and deduction from the gross amount of the endowments, every one must be struck with the slight impulse given to education and the trifling results which accrue from the large resources of the public schools in question. The increase of their endowments is chiefly due to the great increase of the metropolis, but no attempt has been made to improve their establishments in the manner best calculated to meet the wants which have been created by that increase. The fact that such institutions as King's College and London University Schools have been established by voluntary support, and have been eminently successful, is a cogent proof, no less than the City of London School, both of the nature of the want and of the propriety of the reform which I venture to suggest.

10. Unfortunately these unendowed schools, like Cheltenham and all similarly formed institutions, are compelled to resort to the practice of affording a diversified education, because they are obliged to humour the wishes of their various supporters. At the same time they have not resources enough to provide separate schools for the rival claims of those who want classical, and those who prefer what is called modern, education. It is only by taking advantage of the resources of endowments that this unwholesome tendency may be combated and a sounder system introduced.

11. The amount charged to students in these new institutions is but little more than the average of that paid at Westminster. This shows how little the public benefit by the present system at the great endowed schools.

12. Already attempts to deal with this question piecemeal have been begun. The trustees of the Charter House propose to submit a Bill of their own next Session. Considering the relations of the Ecclesiastical Commission to the cathedral funds, we may expect some further isolated arrangements respecting the endowment and management of Westminster School. But if regard be had to

to the enormous increase of these funds, may it not be fairly asked whether the school is not entitled to some share of the increase, which is admitted to be beyond the ecclesiastical requirements of the cathedral ?

13. I would propose that all the three London Schools shall be dealt with in a comprehensive manner, with the view of providing day schools of the highest order.

14. In treating of the nature of the education which should be carried on in the public schools, the report directs attention to the question of modern education, and suggests that various subjects should be grafted on the scheme of classical education now prevailing in the grammar schools. This suggestion is entirely at variance with the views contained in Mr. Gladstone's letter, which clearly points out the dangers and evils likely to flow from this kind of rivalry between two systems of education when brought into conflict in the same school.

15. Whilst the evidence shows that the majority of the pupils are unable, within the limits of the ordinary school opportunities, to compass a moderate education in the two dead languages and mathematics, the report proceeds on the assumption that boys possess an almost unlimited capacity for learning. It assumes that the schools are maintained for the benefit of the few who are gifted with remarkable genius and ability, instead of the many of average intelligence; while not a few are below the average.

16. The introduction of more than one system of instruction into a school appears to me to be an arrangement which may be excused as a misfortune when the necessity for it exists, but which should be carefully avoided as an evil when the necessity can be obviated by more suitable management.

17. In the metropolis the number of boys requiring different kinds of education is so great, that there would be no difficulty in filling many schools of different kinds, if the schools were the best adapted to their circumstances, and were conducted in such a manner as to inspire the public with confidence that they were the best of the kind.

18. Instead of attempting to teach anything and everything in one school, I should propose to divide education into two entirely separate systems, to be carried on in separate schools: the one the existing classical system, and the other the modern system. I need only remark of the former, that I do not now propose to modify it, for any improvement of which it may be susceptible would not be peculiar to the London schools.

19. I do not, however, use the term "modern education" in the sense in which it is so often understood, as mere instruction in modern knowledge, for I see no reason why education should not be conducted on the basis of modern languages with as much accuracy, mental training, and discipline, and with as much regard to all branches of literature, as on the basis of dead languages. Whether English, together with French, German, or any other living language, should be taught, or after one language has been partially acquired, the study of another should be begun—as Greek is commenced after some progress has been made in Latin—are questions of detail to be determined on a careful consideration of many matters which it would be premature to discuss.

20. Admitting that the language and literature of Europe are not in some respects equal to Latin or ancient Greek, the real question is whether any living language, coupled with our own, is a sufficient medium for literate, moral, and æsthetic education. Living language will at least possess this advantage, that its cultivation will be kept alive amongst the classes for whom it is proposed, whilst the dead languages would be buried and forgotten.

21. If a foreign language be taught by educated Englishmen, as I think it should be, it may be objected that it would be learnt with an imperfect pronunciation. But a dead language is learnt with a pronunciation so widely different from that with which it is supposed to have been spoken, that a Roman would have failed to understand the Latin, and an Athenian would have never recognised the Greek, uttered in the English schools. It would require no intellectual effort at any time afterwards to correct the defective pronunciation of a living language.

22. Natural science should also be made a basis for the education of the faculties of perception, discrimination, reason, and judgment. It is easy to guard against the degenerating of such an education into the mere acquisition of information, if the beginning be made with inorganic chemistry and the laws of physics, to be taught with precision, and the course ascend to the rigid investigation of physical phenomena and problems.

23. To these studies might of course be added the higher arithmetic and pure mathematics, which, again, could be made the basis of a considerable degree of education, if they were so treated in the schools, instead of being regarded as a kind of adventitious accomplishment, to be acquired at the pleasure of the pupils or in an unsystematic manner.

24. According to my idea, therefore, a modern school is one in which modern language, mathematics, and natural science would be the basis or medium of exact education, and in which the course would be pursued as high as the age of attendance would admit.

25. The study of drawing would in many cases be a necessity rather than an accomplishment, and considerable allowance of time would have to be made for other special acquirements not forming part of the school course of education.

26. I need not advert to religious instruction, as it would continue in the new schools on its present footing.

27. Without doubt, in the metropolis, there are thousands of persons who would be glad to send to such a day school children whose education is at the present time miserably conducted, and, indeed, thrown away, between equally imperfect efforts to pursue a classical and modern education in combination, within the period of time during which they are able to be maintained at school.

28. The industry and commerce of the country are, I think, actually suffering from a want of knowledge of modern languages amongst the commercial, and of science amongst the manufacturing, classes. But if, year by year, a few hundreds of youths could be received into English counting-houses thoroughly instructed in modern languages, and into English factories thoroughly imbued with natural science and mathematics, who would in time rise to be the directors of commerce and industry, a great want would be supplied, and a very great service would be rendered to the whole community.

29. Considering the care that is now bestowed on modern education on the Continent, it is a subject of grave concern whether foreign merchants and manufacturers are not obtaining advantages over our own from their better knowledge of modern languages, and of the principles of natural science and mathematics. In what proportion travelling agents abroad are foreigners, it is difficult to estimate, but the foreign houses established in England for the purposes of carrying on our commerce not only spread themselves through the interior, but constantly increase in numbers; we are frequently surprised at the great progress that is made abroad in various arts and manufactures, due to the science of those by whom they are conducted. It is time that some public effort should be made to place our commerce and industry on an equal footing in respect to education with that of foreign nations. This question concerns not merely the merchant and the master manufacturer, but the millions who are dependent upon the intelligence with which their affairs are conducted. It may be thought that this is an exaggerated view of the subject, but it is better to err on the side of improvement and progress than of indifference and stagnation.

30. Each system of education is not only desired by thousands of persons who have different objects in view, or belong to different classes, but these classes are for the most part grouped together in different parts of the metropolis. West of Charing Cross and the British Museum, the desire for classical education would prevail, while east of that line and on the southern side of the Thames, modern education would be preferred.

31. I would therefore propose that advantage should be taken of the opportunity tunity of reforming the London public schools to deal with them in a comprehensive spirit for the purpose of promoting education in the metropolis. Without now inviting assent to any particular plan, I suggest one rather by way of illustration, in the hope that investigation and discussion may lead to the development of some scheme which may meet with general approbation.

32. Instead of the funds being employed, to gratify a love of patronage, in the formation of free schools, I would suggest that they should be expended in the solid establishment of schools, and that each boy should pay a moderate sum for his education, until, by the exhibition of superior merit, he became entitled to a free scholarship in the school. The scholarship would then operate as a stimulus to parents to send their children to the schools, and to the boys to obtain it. The effect would thus be much greater than the mere limit of its money value, and the funds would admit of a large expansion of the schools.

33. I consider that the endowments would be sufficient to establish at least six schools, which I should distribute as follows:—

St. Paul's School would remain as at present a central classical school.

The Charter House would remain as a central modern school.

Westminster would remain as a classical school for the rapidly-increasing district of the south-west.

Another classical school should be founded in the north-west as a branch of St. Paul's.

One modern school should be founded in the north-east, and another modern school on the south-east—that is, on the south side of the Thames—as branches of the Charter House.

Thus, whilst the general requirements of each district were provided for in its local school, those residents in the district who might desire the other system would be accommodated as far as possible in the central school of that system.

34. A further stimulus might be given to these schools by extending competition for the scholarships to the students of all the schools on the same system.

35. The number of scholarships and fellowships at the Universities which have now been thrown open to all students is so great that there seems to be no necessity for appropriating any portion of the school funds to the maintenance of scholars there, which is, in fact, only upholding the evil practices which it was the object of University reform to abolish. At all events, considering the very small number of boys who are in the higher class of a public school, the number of scholarships should be very limited, and should only be granted when a high standard of merit is attained.

36. The Report also questions the suitableness of the present governing bodies of the schools, but I think fails to suggest any adequate remedy. If the London schools were treated separately, the means of providing a more active supervision over their educational arrangements could be readily found in the University of London, whose council, being expressly constituted for the purposes of supervising education, could readily undertake the duty of assisting the trustees in the performance of their duty to the public. It would be premature to discuss the precise manner in which this suggestion could be carried out, and, indeed, my present object is not to mature a plan, but to urge the prosecution of further inquiries to ascertain what could be accomplished.

37. I have purposely abstained from noticing Mr. Ilare's able Report on the Blue Coat School, because it involves very different considerations from those which I have here entertained. That school not having been established for the purpose of giving high education, but for the purpose of educating and maintaining poor children, I regard it as nothing more than an establishment like the orphan asylums. Indeed, it would seem to have been intended to meet the want which is now completely provided for by the separate schools maintained out of the poor-rates. The original purpose of the charity having ceased, the governors have applied its funds for the relief of the poor of the trading and professional classes. This institution might serve a very useful purpose in relieving real cases of distress amongst this class, if the funds were properly administered. I do not suggest that they should be still further misappropriated for the purpose of educating those for whom a gratuitous education is not necessary.

38. I hope, therefore, that the Government will not proceed with any measure which may treat all the public schools on the same footing, but that they will regard metropolitan schools as entirely distinct in their character and circumstances from the others, and will acquiesce in whatever course may be deemed desirable for the purpose of legislating for them in a comprehensive spirit.

39. It had occurred to me that a Committee of the House of Commons might be appointed to take the Report of the Commission into consideration, so far as it relates to the metropolis. There is the more reason for adopting this course, as metropolitan views were in no degree represented in the Commission, but in the House of Commons there are several metropolitan Members who are peculiarly well qualified to investigate and report on the subject, which they would approach with a due sense of responsibility.

The Return is arranged in Counties Proper, to correspond with the Returns annually presented to Parliament by the Committee of Council on Education. In cases where the Registration County differs from the County Proper, and a Census District is therefore in two or more Counties Proper, Notes are added to shew where the rest of the District or Union will be found.

In cases where no sufficient Returns of the Rate in the £. to the Relief of the Poor in the separate Parishes of a Union have been furnished by the Clerks to the Guardians, the Average for the whole Union is inserted. All these cases are distinguished by a †.

^a Sheerness British School.—In reply to inquiry Messrs. Hughes, Hooker, and Brittainham state "Your application for a return by the managers is sent on to us as acting for the freeholders of this building. The school, as a British school, was entirely discontinued about 20 years ago on the opening of national schools in the place, which attracted both scholars and subscriptions. After some five years of disuse the freehold of the building was purchased by some of the managers who had advanced money for a time to keep the school open as a British school, and they have since been in receipt of the rents. The building is now used partially as a Freemasons' Lodge and partly by a local schoolmaster."

^b Now merged in one of the schools receiving annual grants.

^a Little Tew National School.—No return of average attendance. A school-house, for building and improving which, grants of 30*l.* in 1836, and 10*l.* in 1846 were made, is now let as a cottage. It is vested in the incumbent and churchwardens of the parish by deed dated 25th October, and enrolled in chancery 7th November 1836. The present incumbent has built a new school-house on land of his own, and states that Exeter College, Oxford, grantor of the site of the old school, contemplates selling it. The Act 4 & 5 Vict. c. 38, s. 14, applies to the case.

Robert W. Nevill, Esq., to the Commissioners of Charities for England and Wales.

Gentlemen,

Tamworth, 11 February 1867.

I BEG to call your attention to a notice of motion by Sir Robert Peel "For Copies of Memorials, &c. addressed to Charity Commissioners respecting the condition and circumstances of the 48 Tamworth Charities."

I beg also to call your attention to a school in Tamworth, established by the first Sir Robert Peel: have the trustees presented the usual accounts to the Charity Commissioners?

I have, &c.

John Francis Woody, Esq., to the Charity Commissioners.

Gentlemen,

The Moat, Tamworth,
24 April 1867.

WHILST you are inquiring into the disposal of the funds of the charities of this town, perhaps you will think well to make inquiries into the disposal of the funds belonging to the school endowed by the first Sir Robert Peel.

In Palmer's "History of Tamworth" (date 1845), page 439, there occurs the following:

"In the year 1820 the first Sir Robert Peel founded, entirely at his own expense, a school conducted on the National plan, for the instruction of a hundred poor boys, providing them at the same time with clothes, and giving to each a shilling loaf weekly. This excellent establishment was supported by the founder during his life, and in his will he bestowed upon it an ample endowment, by leaving for its maintenance the sum of 6,000*l.* The complete control of it he placed in the hands of his eldest son," the late Sir Robert Peel.

The late Sir Robert Peel rebuilt the school-house on two separate occasions, and enlarged the basis of control and supervision.

If I am rightly informed, trusts, such as Rawlett's, pay to this school.

An investigation into the application of the funds of this charity seems to be necessary; for there is an impression that a portion of the funds is not applied to the purposes of the endowment.

Are there a hundred boys at the school? In case of increase of capitation charges, does the increase go to the master? Does the increase go into Sir Robert Peel's private pocket? How are the funds of this charity applied at the present time?

The subject seems to require investigation.

I am, &c.

SIR ROBERT PEELE'S SCHOOL (TAMWORTH).

WHITWORTH SCHOLARSHIPS.

COPY of MINUTE of the Lords of the Committee of Council on Education, relating to the ENDOWMENT of THIRTY SCHOLARSHIPS by Mr. Whitworth.

Science Form, No. 279.
South Kensington, March 1868.

Science and Art Department of the Committee of Council on Education, South Kensington.

At Whitehall the 27th day of March 1868.

By the Right Honourable the Lords of the Committee of Her Majesty's Most Honourable Privy Council on Education.

MY Lords consider Mr. Whitworth's letter to the First Lord of the Treasury, dated 18th March 1868. In this letter Mr. Whitworth offers to found 30 scholarships of the annual value of 100 l. each, to be applied for the further instruction of young men, natives of the United Kingdom, selected by open competition for their intelligence and proficiency in the theory and practice of mechanics and its cognate sciences, with a view to the promotion of engineering and mechanical industry in this country; and he expresses hopes that means may be found for bringing science and industry into closer relation with each other than at present obtains here.

It is unnecessary now to repeat the thanks which the First Lord of Her Majesty's Treasury and the Lord President of the Council have already conveyed to Mr. Whitworth for his generous offer, which they are convinced the country will fully appreciate.

Mr. Whitworth proposes that these scholarships should be tenable on conditions to be defined by a deed of trust regulating the administration of the endowment fund during his life, and that thereafter the management of this fund, subject to the conditions specified therein, should rest in the Lord President of the Council or other Minister of Public Instruction for the time being.

It is the wish of my Lords to see provision made in several large centres of manufacturing industry in the United Kingdom for affording to all classes of Her Majesty's subjects ample opportunities for acquiring instruction in the sciences which are applicable to productive industry. My Lords are of opinion that by the union of local and private efforts, supplemented as far as is proper by State assistance, this provision will be best made.

This will be rendered easy if the munificent example set by Mr. Whitworth shall be extensively followed by others.

My Lords will be happy to receive any further suggestions from Mr. Whitworth should he desire to make them, and to be informed if the Department can render him any assistance in carrying out his liberal intentions.

WHITWORTH SCHOLARSHIPS.

MR. WHITWORTH'S SCHOLARSHIPS FOR MECHANICAL SCIENCE.

At Whitehall the 5th day of May 1868.

By the Right Honourable the Lords of the Committee of Her Majesty's Most Honourable Privy Council on Education.

My Lords read Mr. Whitworth's letter of 4th May 1868, transmitting a memorandum on his scholarships, and on the establishment of 60 exhibitions of 25 l. for the present year, preparatory to the competition for his scholarships, and requesting that the Science and Art Department may conduct the necessary examinations and correspondence.

Their Lordships have great pleasure in acceding to Mr. Whitworth's request, and giving every assistance in their power in carrying out his patriotic munificence.

Sir,

Manchester, 4th May 1868.

REFERRING to your letter of March 28th, by which you transmit to me a copy of the Minute which the Lords of the Committee of Council on Education had passed in acknowledgment of my endowment of scholarships for promoting mechanical science, and to the concluding sentence of the Minute which invites further suggestions, and offers to render assistance in carrying out the intentions of the endowment;

1. I beg leave to enclose, for the information of the Lords of the Committee of Council on Education, a memorandum on the subject of the endowment, which I trust will meet with the approval of their Lordships, and that they will cause it to be circulated, and the necessary correspondence arising out of it to be conducted by the Science and Art Department.

2. I would beg leave to ask the Lords of the Committee of Council on Education to undertake the examinations for these scholarships.

3. As respects the preparation of the necessary details for the examinations in the use of tools, I am willing to be responsible myself, with the aid of friends, and I propose to obtain the consent of a few gentlemen to advise with me from time to time in whatever may arise in the future for my consideration.

4. In reply to the invitation of their Lordships to submit any suggestions, I venture to submit for consideration whether honours in the nature of degrees might not be conferred by some competent authority on successful students each year, thus creating a faculty of industry analogous to the existing faculties of divinity, law, and medicine. I am of opinion that such honours would be a great incentive to exertion, and would tend greatly to promote the object in view.

5. I venture further to express a hope that the Government will provide the necessary funds for endowing a sufficient number of professors of mechanics throughout the United Kingdom.

6. In conclusion, I inform you that the necessary arrangements for securing the endowment have been made, and I have given instructions for the preparation of the draft of a deed of trust, which will be sent for the approval of the Lord President.

MEMORANDUM ON SCHOLARSHIPS FOR MECHANICAL SCIENCE.

To be competed for in May 1869.

I. HAVING offered to the Lords of the Committee of Council on Education to "found 30 scholarships of the annual value of 100 l. each, to be applied for the further instruction of young men, natives of the United Kingdom, selected by open competition for their intelligence and proficiency in the theory and practice of mechanics and its cognate sciences, with a view to the promotion of engineering and mechanical industry in this country," I propose that the following should be the general arrangements in the first instance which may be modified after the first competition has taken place in May 1869.

II. That the 30 scholarships of 100 l. each should be open to all of Her Majesty's subjects whether of the United Kingdom, India, or the colonies, who do not exceed the age of 26 years, and be held either for two or three years, as experience may prove to be desirable; that 10 scholarships should be competed for and awarded in May 1869, at the annual national examinations in science, provided that a sufficient number of candidates prove themselves to be competent; that the successful candidates should be required to spend the period of holding the scholarships in the further satisfactory prosecution of the studies and practice of mechanical engineering, and pursue their studies according to the spirit of the endowment, making periodical reports of them; that the student should state where he proposes to pursue his studies, the Lord President of the Council deciding if the proposal can be allowed, also if the student's progress be satisfactory, and the manner in which it shall be tested from year to year. In deciding if the plan of study proposed by the student be satisfactory, as much latitude as possible may be allowed. If the student wish to complete his general education instead of continuing his special scientific study, he may be permitted to do so. He may go to the universities or colleges affording scientific or technical instruction, or he may travel abroad. The successful artisan should be encouraged to study theory, and the successful competitor in theory aided in getting admission to machine shops and other practical establishments. All further details would be hereafter prepared and issued by the Science and Art Department.

III. The candidates must be of sound bodily constitution.

IV. The first competition should be in the following theoretical subjects:—

- | | |
|---|-------------------------------------|
| 1. Mathematics (elementary and higher). | 4. Physics. |
| 2. Mechanics (theoretical and applied). | 5. Chemistry, including metallurgy. |
| 3. Practical plane and descriptive geometry, and mechanical and freehand drawing. | |

And in the following handicrafts:—

- | | |
|------------------|---------------------------------|
| 1. Smith's-work. | 3. Filing and Fitting. |
| 2. Turning. | 4. Pattern making and moulding. |

V. No candidate should obtain a scholarship who has not shown a satisfactory knowledge of all the following theoretical subjects:—

- | | |
|----------------------------|---|
| 1. Elementary mathematics. | 3. Practical plane and descriptive geometry and freehand drawing. |
| 2. Elementary mechanics. | | with

with the power to use one or more of the following classes of tools :—

- a. The axe.
- b. The saw and plane.
- c. The hammer and chisel.

- d. The File.
- e. The Forge.

I propose that the maximum number of marks obtainable in the theoretical subjects and those obtainable by the most skilled workman should be about equal.

VI. My object in devising the foregoing scheme has been, while requiring a practical acquaintance with a few simple tools as a sine qua non, to render the competition accessible on fairly equal terms to the student who combines some practice with his theory, and to the artisan who combines some theoretical knowledge with perfection of workmanship.

PREPARATORY EXHIBITIONS of 25*l.* for the Year 1868.

VII. As the scholarships scheme can only come into full operation by degrees, I propose from the fund ultimately available for the scheme at once to create 60 exhibitions or premiums, of the value of 25*l.* each, tenable until April 1869, and to place them at the absolute disposal of the governing bodies of the following educational institutions and towns, in order that they may award them to youths under 22 years of age, who may thus be aided to qualify themselves, and must undertake to compete for the scholarships of 100*l.* in May 1869.

VIII.—

8 Exhibitions to Owen's College, and
2 to the Grammar School, Manchester, the seat of my Workshops.

3 University of Oxford.
3 University of Cambridge.
3 University of London.

And one to each of the following universities, colleges, and public schools :—

University of Durham.
University of Dublin.
University of Edinburgh.
Watt Institution, Edinburgh.
University of Glasgow.
Andersonian University, Glasgow.
University of St. Andrews.
University of Aberdeen.
To each of the Queen's Colleges at Belfast, Cork, Galway, Ireland.
King's College, London.
University College, London.
Eton.
Harrow.
Rugby.
Charter House.

Westminster.
Winchester.
St. Paul's, London.
Merchants Tailors.
Christ's Hospital.
City of London.
Shrewsbury.
Marlborough.
Cheltenham.
Chester.
Clifton.
Brighton.
Liverpool.
2 to the College of Preceptors.
3 to the Science and Art Department.

I propose that the following exhibitions shall be given to artisans only :—

3 to the Society of Arts.

Also one for artisans to each of the following towns :—

Birmingham.
Bristol.
Swansea and Cardiff.
Halifax or Huddersfield.

Leeds.
Northampton.
Sheffield.

and if there be any of the above unapplied, they may be given by the Science and Art Department to any other scholastic institution which makes satisfactory arrangements for affording instruction in mathematics and mechanics, freehand and mechanical drawing.

IX. I would point out that the exhibitions to artisans may perhaps be increased to 50*l.* for the year, by connecting them with the Science and Art Department, under the Minute of the 21st December 1867.

MINUTE ON MR. WHITWORTH'S OFFER TO ENDOW SCHOLARSHIPS.

At Whitehall, the 27th day of March 1868.

By the Right Honourable the Lords of the Committee of Her Majesty's Most Honourable Privy Council on Education.

My Lords consider Mr. Whitworth's letter to the First Lord of the Treasury, dated 18th March 1868. In this letter Mr. Whitworth offers to found 30 scholarships of the annual value of 100*l.* each, to be applied for the further instruction of young men, natives of the United Kingdom, selected by open competition for their intelligence and proficiency in the theory and practice of mechanics and its cognate sciences, with a view to the promotion of engineering and mechanical industry in this country; and he expresses hopes that means may be found for bringing science and industry into closer relation with each other than at present obtains here.

It is unnecessary now to repeat the thanks which the First Lord of Her Majesty's Treasury and the Lord President of the Council have already conveyed to Mr. Whitworth for his generous offer, which they are convinced the country will fully appreciate.

Mr. Whitworth proposes that these scholarships should be tenable on conditions to be defined by a deed of trust regulating the administration of the endowment fund during his life, and that thereafter the management of this fund, subject to the conditions specified therein, should rest in the Lord President of the Council or other Minister of Public Instruction for the time being.

It is the wish of My Lords to see provision made in several large centres of manufacturing industry in the United Kingdom for affording to all classes of Her Majesty's subjects ample opportunities for acquiring instruction in the sciences which are applicable to productive industry. My Lords are of opinion that by the union of local and private efforts supplemented as far as is proper by State assistance, this provision will be best made.

This will be rendered easy if the munificent example set by Mr. Whitworth shall be extensively followed by others.

My Lords will be happy to receive any further suggestions from Mr. Whitworth should he desire to make them, and to be informed if the Department can render him any assistance in carrying out his liberal intentions.

17, Wilton-place, Belgrave-square,
8 May 1841.

My Lord,

I HAVE the honour of transmitting to your Lordship, for the purpose (pursuant to your promise expressed at our last interview) of submitting it, in your capacity of Chief Secretary for Ireland, to the consideration of the Cabinet, the substance of my frequent communications with your Lordship relative to the proposition for establishing Provincial Colleges in Ireland, recommended in the Report of the Committee of the House of Commons "on Foundation Schools and Education, Ireland," presented to the House, 9 August 1838; and since that period repeatedly urged on the attention of the Legislature and the Government by public meetings, deputations, memorials, and petitions, followed by personal conferences with his Excellency the Lord Lieutenant, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, and with your Lordship.

After such demonstrations, but more particularly after the ample manner in which I endeavoured to lay the whole measure, in all its bearings, at our late interview, before your Lordship, and the concurrence you appeared to express on that, as on former occasions, in the leading provisions of the plan, it will be hardly necessary (and if so, not so much for your Lordship's information as for that of other members of the Government less familiar with the subject) to do more than to recall to your attention some of the more prominent considerations on which the measure is founded, and to present a brief but distinct abstract of the object of the proposed institutions, the advantages to which they lead, the organization by which these advantages may be attained, and the means, financial or otherwise, by which such organization can be effected and rendered permanent.

The duty of the Government to provide education for the people, and the right of the people to demand the most extensive and efficient discharge of this duty on the part of the Government, is now very generally recognised. There is nothing which should restrict the application of this principle to one class only.

The great importance of well educating the lower class is admitted. We seem less impressed with the equal importance of well educating the upper and middle; yet on their example and influence, on their virtue and knowledge, depend the knowledge and virtue of the lower. By them are regulated our laws and their execution; a large portion of our civilization and advancement; most of the higher moral and intellectual workings of the State come directly from them.

We cannot, without danger to the interests of all, leave them in comparative mental inferiority to the masses over whom they assume to rule, and whom they are bound to guide.

This is especially true in reference to the middle class, and at no period more so than at the present. At no period has a well-educated middle class been more required. There is every day in our great works and markets, from increase of population, communication, knowledge, capital amongst the people, a greater demand for all branches of practical science and skill, a wider field for all capacities, a greater necessity for enlightenment and virtue, to advance and combine the interests and feelings, whether as check, link, or guide, of the other two orders of the State.

This has not yet been sufficiently attended to, I regret to say, in Ireland. While provision has been made to a considerable extent, and under wise regulation and an active administration, for the education of the lower classes, the education of the middle, as far at least as the Legislature and the Government are concerned, has been neglected. No institutions at all adequate to their present, still less to their prospective wants; no intermediate department of sufficient value or extent between the elementary school and the university; no good preparatory system for specially professional purposes (with one or two exceptions) is to be found in operation. The diocesan and royal schools, as will appear from the Report of the Committee, are little more than classical high schools for the use of the university, and by their actual constitution very restricted.

The Academical Institution of Belfast, indeed, approximates to the character of such an establishment, but it is only an approximation, and at best, a solitary exception. In Leinster, Connaught, and Munster there is no institution of the kind; that, is none supported by public funds. One, and one only, in Ulster!

This deficiency is still more seriously felt from the constitution of the University itself. Without meaning here to impugn the character or conduct of that learned body, I must still beg it to be remembered, that it is the only university in Ireland; and if not from its studies, at least from its emoluments and higher honours and dignities (intended and valuable only as stimulants to general intellectual exertion), the larger mass of the population are altogether debarred. It may be true that such was the object of its original constitution, and that the fact of the fellows being required, with the exception of two, to take orders, necessarily precludes the possibility of admitting Catholics to such situations.

This, however, is no reason why the scholarships should not be opened; why new scholarships, and above all, why new fellowships, to which Catholics should be equally admissible, should not be founded; or if this be considered not only an inadvisable modification, but altogether a subversion of the institution, it is no reason why another, or others, should not be established, not exposed to these objections, but fitted to the wants, and open to the admission (in its largest sense) of all classes and creeds of the population. It is a grievance unheard of, I believe, in any other country in Europe, that for a population of 8,000,000, one university only should be provided; still less that from all the higher advantages of that university seven-eighths of that very population, for whom it is presumed it was designed, should be peremptorily excluded.

An impartial Government, governing a nation, and not a faction, is bound to look to this anomaly, with a view of speedily and efficiently correcting its injustice, or remedying and supplying its defects; or if this be found impracticable, which I do not admit; if without violating the very essentials of its existence, all creeds cannot be admitted to the full benefits of the present Irish University, it is surely called on to establish a second university more Irish, to which all Irishmen shall be admissible, or at least such an aggregate of secondary colleges of the same description as may supply the want of this university.

It must also be remembered, that even were the present Irish University thrown open to all creeds and classes in all its departments, it is by its actual organization very incompletely adapted to afford that formal or peculiar kind of instruction, or to honour or recompense its cultivation, which is more immediately required, especially in the present altered state of society, by the middle classes.

It may be urged, indeed, that there is a sufficiency of private establishments to

to obviate the necessity of legislative or Government assistance; and that if either should intervene in the case of Ireland, it would be called on to extend a similar boon to England and Scotland.

With your Lordship's knowledge of the subject, I hardly think you will lay much stress on either of these objections. The first was generally urged (for a long period with too much success) against all State interference with elementary schools. The State has decided to act on the opposite conviction, and has had no reason (nor the public, let me add,) to repent of this decision. But there are reasons why, in the case of academical establishments, this objection should be allowed even less weight than in that of elementary. Most of these establishments are necessarily sectarian; almost all proprietary. The first, from their very nature and object, must be narrow and exclusive; the second feeble and fluctuating. For amplest proof of both assertions, I refer to the evidence taken before our Committee. Even where it practicable to obviate both these defects, much more to be effected would still remain behind; their number, teachers, instruction, (both as to matter and manner,) their funds, so far from being adequate, are considerably below the necessities of a country with half the amount of inhabitants and civilisation ascribed to Ireland.

The second objection appears still more futile. England and Scotland are tolerably well provided already; they have not yet, at least, preferred any prayer, as Ireland has done, for the establishment, extension, or reform of such institutions. If by any circumstance either should be induced to follow her example, the Government will, I am disposed to hope, deem it a pleasure as well as a duty to meet the prayer in the same spirit in which it is made. So far from dreading such demand, they will consider by whom, and for what it is urged. It is the people themselves who ask, and what they ask for is education, that is, for virtue and knowledge; in other words, for those very blessings which it is the end of all good government to secure, and a desire for which it ought to be the aim of every wise government to infuse. Financial considerations are, of course, not to be excluded; but this is a prudent as well as generous expenditure. Whatever is spent in improving the hearts and heads of a people (presuming the application to be judicious), is well spent. Pounds, shillings, and pence are exchanged for the morality, knowledge, skill, order, and happiness of the community. Nor can I well see how, consistently with their principles and conduct in reference to other branches of education, the Government and Legislature can deny their sympathy and aid to this. I do not see why a contribution from the State to a parish school or an university, in aid of the exertions of either, should be just and wise, and yet should be deemed neither when vouchsafed to the intermediate institution, to the college or the academy. The "let alone," or voluntary system, and the "no system at all," may or may not be good; but once surrendered, it is surely imperative, where still attempted in any instance to be retained, to define the grounds which are supposed to justify the exception. The Government appears every day more inclined to extend its encouragement. I need not go farther than the recently proposed increase of grant for the establishment of schools of design. That this is a wise and just feeling, few will venture to deny; it is at least worth inquiry whether it would not be equally so to extend similar encouragement to the establishment of academies and colleges.

There is one circumstance indeed which would go far to warrant the Government in standing back, that is, the opposition or indifference of the people themselves, and it is judiciously regulated that before any such boon shall be offered for acceptance, there shall be a reasonable certainty that it will be acceptable. Without such precaution, these grants will seldom fructify to good, sometimes indeed to evil. The Government require the test of declarations on the part of the people, and, what is less liable to mistake, of contributions. Both these tests have been amply furnished by the people of Ireland. I have only to refer your Lordship to evidences with which you are already familiar, to the testimony of witnesses before the Committee, to the report of the Committee itself, to the manner in which that report, especially that portion of it which referred to Provincial Colleges, was received immediately on its appearing in Ireland; to the two great meetings, the one held at Cork, the other at Limerick, on the question, convened on requisitions, which if we are to regard the combination of rank, talent, and respectability, the union of all classes, creeds, and professions, which they presented, were unexampled till that hour in Munster; to the resolutions and speeches at these meetings; to the memorials and petitions which followed, not only from those cities, but from every county in the province; to the memorials presented by a most respectable deputation to the Lord Lieutenant (the Marquess of Normanby); to the conference with his successor; to the successive meetings held in this city last year by the noblemen and representatives of the south of Ireland, all unanimous in their urgent applications to the Government; to the deputation from that body and on their behalf, headed by Lord Monteagle, to your Lordship; and finally to the several interviews with which I have been honoured by you and the Chancellor of the Exchequer, at the earnest solicitation of the memorialists;—I have only, I say, to refer your Lordship to these proofs, and the numerous and instructive documents with which they were accompanied, and in all of which the same deep conviction of the necessity of such establishments, the same anxiety to see them commenced, the same dispositions to contribute exertions and funds to their support are evinced, in order to place beyond all doubt the existence of both of the tests in question—an eager desire for the proposed plan, and a perfect willingness to aid in its execution.

It was from an early impression indeed of the prevalence of these feelings amongst the people that the Committee first directed its attention to this question. To meet these feelings in such a manner as might best tend to secure the object had in view, elicit the co-operation and sympathy of the people, and at the same time that it offered aid, should scrupulously avoid squandering the assistance of the State, was the chief purport of their inquiries. The plan to which they led was sketched briefly, but clearly, in their Report. It now becomes my duty to again solicit your Lordship's attention to the principal provisions of that plan.

The Committee purposed to supply the wants detailed above by a regularly graduated system of academical institutions; by county academies in each county, provincial colleges in each province, and by special professional schools distributed where most required throughout the country.

The second of these branches comes at present under consideration.

The Committee proposes for the establishment of this branch, in the words of the Report, "That there gradually be established and maintained at the public expense one college at least (of the description referred to) in each of the four provinces of Ireland, under the name of Provincial Colleges."

The object of these institutions is to provide a higher kind of education, calculated either, 1st. to prepare for entering the University; or 2nd. to fit the pupil for that special career, professional or otherwise, to which he may be destined.

This object is to be attained, 1st. by an appropriate course of instruction; 2nd. by an appropriate collegiate organization.

I.—INSTRUCTION.

It is proposed to retain the decision and arrangement, both as to subjects and modes of instruction (though of course on a more extended scale) recommended by the Committee in the case of county academies.

It is as follows:

1. Instruction, to be conveyed in courses; these courses to be—

- (A.) Literary.
- (B.) Scientific.
- (C.) Religious.

The last separate for the several communions, under the guidance of their respective pastors. This whole question is a matter for grave consideration, both as to principle and application.

2. These courses to be severally divided into two classes,—

- (A.) Obligatory.
- (B.) Non-Obligatory.

The obligatory to comprise such amount of instruction as may be required by all, no matter to what situation destined. The non-obligatory, such special instruction as may be necessary to prepare the pupil for any of the particular professions into which society is divided, and which must therefore be left to the the choice (dependent of course on his prospects and purposes) of the pupil or his relatives. The first embraces the foundation of general knowledge, the second aims at its special application. It is not very consistent with common sense to compel a pupil to study branches for which he may have little occasion hereafter, to the neglect or exclusion possibly of others which, to him at least, may be of vital importance. If he does not study, if he does not use or want it, it is not quite just he should be required to pay. Intellectually and financially considered, this arrangement is preferable to that adopted in the majority of our existing institutions. It enables any student to obtain the best education, for his special views, at the lowest cost, and thus in the widest and strongest sense improves and extends education.

It is proposed that this instruction, whether obligatory or non-obligatory, should be communicated on the plan adopted in the German Gymnasias, i. e. by public lectures, followed by class examinations, in each of the branches into which the course may be divided. For each of these branches, when in full efficiency, one professor will be required; it is possible, however, that at the outset especially, one professor may be able to conduct two or more cognate classes without inconvenience.

In order still more to facilitate to as large a portion as possible of the population, the attainment of these advantages, it is proposed that no boarders should be taken into the college, but that with the exception of chambers for the professors, and apartments for the officers and servants, the building should be applied to the public purposes exclusively of the institution.

The students will thus reside in town either with their own families or in lodging-houses under the inspection and control of the college, and sanctioned by its approval, for this particular purpose.

The college, it is intended, should be liberally provided with, not only the usual literary and scientific apparatus, with a public library or libraries, a museum (antiquarian and philosophical), a laboratory, observatory, botanical gardens, &c. &c., but also with a gallery of casts, engravings, and, if possible, of paintings, not so much for professional purposes, as with a view to a more pure and profound cultivation of historical and literary taste.

II.—ORGANIZATION.

It is proposed, as already stated, that to each branch of the several courses one professor should be attached; these professors are to form the Corpus or Senatus Academicus, the deliberative body of the college, with equal ranks and rights. From this senatus or corpus of the professors, the rector and other officers are to be chosen by election, for such period as may hereafter be determined on, subject to the approval of the Government.

It is proposed that the professors, in the first instance, should be nominated by the Government, but that future vacancies should be filled up by the selection of Government from three candidates presented by the corpus of the professors, the candidates to be determined by public "concordat," or what would be perhaps preferable, that the corpus should appoint the successful candidate, reserving a veto (the grounds to be expressed) to the Government.

The number of professors, it is calculated, will at first not exceed 12; but this number may be increased either by the creation or endowment of particular chairs, in proportion as circumstances may require, by the Government, the province, bodies corporate, or private individuals.

The emoluments of the professors to consist of—1. Fixed salary, granted by the province, or proceeding from endowment, or from both. 2. Fees from pupils for their respective courses. 3. Chambers in the college.

Their rights, powers, functions, and duties to be determined by a statute and charter to be given hereafter.

It might be advisable to grant not only a charter of incorporation, but power to confer degrees under the authority of a central board of examiners, composed partly of members of the different colleges, partly of persons eminent for literary or scientific acquirements nominated by Government.

The principle of aggregation has already been recognised and successfully acted on in the establishment of the University of London; there is no reason why an University of Ireland might not be established, especially under the peculiar circumstances of the University of Dublin, on a similar basis.

6 RETURN RELATIVE TO PROVINCIAL COLLEGES (IRELAND).

All classes and religious denominations to be admissible, not only to the instruction, but to the honours, dignities, and emoluments of the college.

The college to be under the inspection of Government, and to be required to furnish annual reports of income, expenditure, progress, &c., for the purpose of their being laid before Parliament.

The point next for consideration is the means by which it is proposed to carry this plan into execution.

They are twofold: 1. Means for establishing; 2. Means for maintaining, when established, these institutions.

The true principle on which both should rest, and which should regulate both, has, in more than one part of their Report, been distinctly pointed out by the Committee. There should be joint contribution of funds and labour between the State on one side (or more properly the public at large, of which it is the representative and administrator) and the inhabitants of the locality more immediately proposed to be benefited, on the other.

The application of this principle in the present instance is not difficult.

To the State more properly belongs the establishing, to the locality the maintenance of educational institution. The grounds for such distinction and allocation of duties are obvious; experience every day confirms them.

It is proposed (keeping this principle and its application always in view) to request the Government, acting on the part of State, to take the initiation.

From estimates furnished, it is calculated that from 15,000 l. to 20,000 l. would be sufficient, with due economy, to defray the establishing of a moderately-sized provincial college in the south of Ireland, comprising under that head, purchase of a small quantity of land, the erection of plain substantial buildings, an outfit on a limited scale sufficient for a commencement, &c. &c. In the vicinity of a large and flourishing city (and it ought not to be at any great distance from one, taking into view the convenience of the student), this estimate might, to a certain degree, be increased, but not to that extent as to militate materially against its general accuracy, whilst on the other side should be taken into account the chances which may exist of donations of land and building materials from bodies corporate or individuals, which would proportionally diminish these same charges.

It is proposed that this sum should be granted in toto by Parliament, the Government, as in the case of Belfast, introducing it into the Annual Estimates; or if Parliament should refuse the whole, that a portion thereof should be asked for in the way of aid, as in the case of roads, harbours, &c. &c. partly executed from the contributions of the people.

Considering that it is not proposed to commence with more than one Provincial College; that the expenditure is for once only, and not annual, and that Parliament has withdrawn grants formerly made for purposes of an analogous nature in the south of Ireland, it is not too much to hope that a grant not exceeding the amount just specified, will not appear either to the Government or the Legislature excessive.

If, however, either should require, whether as a preliminary test of the sympathy of the people, or as a means of diminishing the amount demanded from the State, that a portion of the sum should be met by donations or subscriptions from the locality, there is no reason to doubt that the province would contribute 5,000 l., provided they were ensured 15,000 l., the balance of the total sum of 20,000 l. necessary for the establishment of these institutions.

These estimates apply exclusively to the first foundation: we have yet to consider the expenses of maintenance, and from what resources these expenses may be defrayed.

The expenses of maintenance may be comprised under the head of salaries of professors, officers, and servants of the college; maintenance and repair of buildings, support and augmentation of libraries, museums, collections, garden &c. &c.

The whole of these charges, it is calculated, could be covered by a sum not exceeding 2,500 l., or at most 3,000 l. a year.

It is proposed to raise this sum by half annual assessment on the province; the mode of raising it to be by presentment through the grand juries of the respective counties, to be divided proportionally to the valuation of each.

This course is analogous to that already sanctioned by the Legislature for maintenance of diocesan schools and district lunatic asylums, in Ireland.

Were

Were the grand juries representative bodies, it might, perhaps, be advisable to leave to their choice the levy and amount of this assessment; as, however, at present constituted, it appears, more safe, and more likely to secure the permanence of these colleges, to adopt the course pursued for the maintenance of lunatic asylums, of the constabulary, &c. i. e. to make the presentment compulsory.

This assessment could be collected at the same time, and in the same manner, as other grand-jury taxes, and transmitted to the party or parties appointed for the financial administration of the college, as is the practice in reference to institutions maintained by county assessment.

It is submitted that such a tax, spread as it would over so large a population as that of an entire province, of comparatively trifling amount, and levied without any new or vexatious interference, would hardly be objected to by the great body of the ratepayers, especially when taken in conjunction with the advantages accruing to, or within the reach of all, from these institutions.

It is also to be anticipated that the funds of the college would most likely not continue to be limited to these means only, but that they would daily augment from other sources.

The college should have power to receive bequests and endowments, subject to such regulations as might be deemed necessary to provide for their due application.

The Munster Provincial College, there is reason to think, would very probably receive ere long, from the liberality of the inhabitants of the province, endowments in the shape of burses, exhibitions, lectureships, &c. &c.; not to speak of donations of libraries, objects of natural history, &c. &c. There is at present, at Cork, a large collection of casts from the antique, presented to the Cork Institution by George the Fourth, which might be transferred with advantage to the proposed college.

The Report does not prescribe the number or extent of these institutions, but leaves both, not without reason, to the determination of circumstances. It is advisable, however, that not more than one should be undertaken at first: a single collegiate institution would be likely to combine a much greater efficiency and economy, a higher character, and a greater extent of teaching, than under present circumstances is likely to be attainable in two distinct but necessarily inferior institutions.

Holding this in view, it became a question amongst the promoters of the measure, in the event of one college only being fixed on for Munster, in what part of the province it would be most advisable to have it established. Some transient exhibitions of natural but honourable rivalry took place, as your Lordship must have observed in examining the documents already laid before you; but there is every reason to believe that all differences of this description would at once disappear the moment the Government and the Legislature seriously took up the question, and that every county in the province would willingly acquiesce in the adoption of any site the State should deem right to select for the purpose.

It is not for me of course to point out the mode in which this plan can best be carried into operation. If I may venture to suggest, I humbly conceive it could be promptly and satisfactorily effected by a Parliamentary grant of 20,000 l. or 25,000 l., the application of which might, if necessary, be made conditional, on donations or subscriptions to the amount of 5,000 l., the whole aggregate sum to be vested in the Board of Public Works for the purpose of being applied, under the guidance of the Board of Education, to the establishing a college in Munster. A short Bill, on the model of similar ones granted for Ireland, might be so framed as to enable and require the grand juries of the respective counties of the province to levy, rateably on their several districts, the assessment to the amount and for the purposes above stated, as soon as the college should be declared open by official proclamation from the Lord Lieutenant.

These two measures would efficiently assure the establishing and maintenance of the college. A statute and charter of incorporation to be drawn up by commissioners appointed for the purpose, would regulate and guarantee, on the principles already detailed, both in reference to the institution and organization, its future constitution.

I trust, my, Lord, I have placed before you, (and in doing so before the Cabinet,) with sufficient clearness, the chief bearings of this important subject, and that I have at last succeeded, after the many communications I have had with you already on every one of the points to which I have just endeavoured to call your attention, in impressing your Lordship with the necessity, the object, the nature, the advantages, but more especially with the practicability (which seemed to be so much doubted) of establishing and maintaining, not one, but in time a series of Provincial Colleges in Ireland. For my own part, sensible as I am how little weight attaches to my opinion, I still venture to state, that every day that passes, and every person with whom I converse, adds only to my conviction, so often expressed before, that a greater boon could not be conferred on the country, blessing him that takes and him that gives; a nobler monument could not be left behind them by the Government—more tending to the virtue and happiness of the people, to the quiet and prosperity of the country—more likely to be valued, and more valuable; but above all, more cheap and more practicable, than the execution of the project which not I, but a Committee of the House of Commons, here submits to your consideration. Nor do I stop here: with the opinions I entertain of the duties of the governing to the governed, I respectfully assert, that in this matter there is not, nor ought there to be, room for choice: the people have a right to demand this gift, and having demanded it as they have done, the Government and the Legislature are bound to grant it. I do, therefore, not only earnestly request, but ardently hope, that your Lordship, with that regard which you so often express for the moral and intellectual advancement of Ireland, will bring these suggestions, as early as possible, under the consideration of the Cabinet, and thus enable me to say, to the very many urgent applications and inquiries which I have from time to time received, and had so much difficulty in answering, that not your Lordship only, but the Government generally, have at heart, as truly as any one of the petitioners, the object of their prayer, and wait with anxiety the first opportunity to carry it into execution.

QUEEN'S COLLEGE (CORK).

RETURN to an Order of the Honourable The House of Commons, dated 5 August 1867;—for,

RETURN “of the Number of DAYS during the last Five SESSIONS of QUEEN'S COLLEGE, CORK, during which the PRESIDENT attended the COLLEGE, and also the Number of DAYS during which he was in RESIDENCE: together with the Dates of the Commencement and Ending of each Session.”

First.—The Number of Days during the last Five Sessions during which the President attended the College.

No record being kept of the attendances of the President in the College, the number of such cannot be given; but the President was in attendance on all occasions when his presence was required for the transaction of College business.

Second.—The Number of Days during which the President was in Residence during the last Five Sessions.

In May 1852 a large portion of Queen's College, Cork, including most of the Lecture-rooms, was destroyed by fire. At that time the President, in order to prevent any interruption to the instruction of the Students or to the general business of the College, gave up his residence to the Board of Works, to be converted into Lecture-rooms for the Professors; and it was employed as such for college and other public purposes, until the new buildings were completed and made ready for use. The President's Residence was re-fitted and made available for re-occupation only at the commencement of the last Session, 1866-67. During the above period the President, when in Cork, occupied rooms in the town, and continued to do so during last Session, although using his apartments in the College for all business and official purposes.

No record being kept of the private arrangements of the President, the number of days of his residence in Cork cannot be given.

Third.—The Dates of Commencement and Ending of the last Five Sessions of Queen's College, Cork.

THE following Table gives the dates required:—

The Most Rev. Dr. Leahy and Dr. Derry to the Earl of Derby.

My Lord,

WE have been deputed by the Irish Catholic Archbishops and Bishops to enter into communication with Her Majesty's Government, and to apply in their name for a charter and endowment of the Catholic University, as well as for such ulterior concessions as shall place the Catholics of Ireland on a footing of perfect equality with their fellow-subjects of other denominations, as regards academical education.

We have further to add, that a discretionary power to treat of this whole matter with the Government has been confided to us, without any limit or restriction, save the occurrence of what we might deem a difficulty of great moment.

In fulfilment of the duty entrusted to us, we beg, in the name of the Irish Catholic Archbishops and Bishops, to bring this grave question under your Lordship's notice and that of your Government, and respectfully to request that you will be pleased to inform us, at the fitting time, what are or may be the intentions of Her Majesty's Government, that we may communicate them to our brother prelates.

Most Rev. Sir,

REFERRING to your letter of the 23rd of October, in which you state that you have been deputed by the Irish Roman Catholic Archbishops and Bishops to enter into communication with Her Majesty's Government in reference to the subject of University education, I beg to enclose you a copy of a confidential memorandum with respect to the proposal which I announced in the House of Commons on last Tuesday, and which we hope to carry into effect, I have now the honour to inform you that I shall be happy, on the part of the Government, to receive from you any communication in writing, or otherwise, which you may be pleased to make to me on this very important subject.

The Most Rev. Dr. Leahy to Lord Mayo.

My Lord,

Thurles, 19 March 1868.

I HAVE the honour to acknowledge the receipt of your Lordship's letter of the 14th, intimating your readiness to receive, on the part of Government, any communication, in writing or otherwise, which I may have to make with reference to the Catholic University question.

I should at once have replied to your Lordship's letter, but that in any dealing or explanation with Government respecting this question, I am associated with a brother Prelate, the Right Rev. Dr. Derry, whence it was my duty to apprise him of the communication I had had the honour to receive from your Lordship.

I now beg to inform your Lordship that Dr. Derry and myself will do ourselves the honour to wait upon you on an early day next week, probably on Tuesday.

Your Lordship's letter enclosed a printed paper, setting forth the constitution of the intended Catholic University. A personal interview will afford us an opportunity for stating our opinions in reference to it. For the present I shall, therefore, advert to a few points only :—

1. There is no provision saving the authority of the Catholic prelates in matters appertaining to faith and morals; nor is the constitution so framed, as far as I can see, that under it such authority could be freely exercised.

2. As a sequel to the foregoing, there appears to be no effective provision for the appointment of professors or other officers sound in faith and morals, or for the removal of such persons as might prove to be heterodox or immoral.

3. Such definitive appointment is vested, not in the Catholic bishops, but in the senate, which is objectionable.

4. The bishops ought to possess the power of at least an absolute negative on such appointments. I am not prepared to say that would suffice.

5. In the constitution of the senate there is too much of the lay element, too little of the clerical.

6. The Chancellor named in the first instance by Government would, I presume, be his Eminence Cardinal Cullen. That would be due to his rank and position in the Catholic church. After the first instance, the Chancellor ought to be elected by the senate, not, as is proposed, by convocation, and ought to be one of the four archbishops. A spirit of party might by-and-by animate the body of the graduates, and a person unfit for the high office of Chancellor might be elected were the office open to all.
body

7. The number of the Senate is set down at 20; yet, from its constitution, one would think it ought to be variable. The number of the Senate is made up of two elements, one invariable, the other variable; the former being 18, the latter being the heads of the affiliated colleges. Were the number to be fixed at 20, it would follow that at no time could there be in the Senate more than two heads of affiliated colleges.

8. A great objection to the proposed scheme is, the want of a suitable endowment.

[Mem.—On the 24th March Dr. Leahy and Dr. Derry, after a lengthened interview with Lord Malmesbury and Lord Mayo at the Irish Office, in which they stated their views, agreed to put their opinions in writing, which will be found in the following letter:—

The Most Rev. Dr. Leahy and Dr. Derry to Lord Mayo.

My Lord,

Thurles, March 31, 1868.

HAVING been deputed by the Roman Catholic Prelates of Ireland to treat with Her Majesty's Ministers concerning a charter and endowment for the Catholic University of Ireland, we had the honour of a personal interview with your Lordship and the Right Honourable the Earl of Malmesbury, in which we submitted our views respecting the plan of a Catholic University announced by your Lordship in your place in Parliament, and more fully developed in the course of the explanations which passed between us on the occasion of our interview.

Having been requested by your Lordship to commit to writing the views which we put forward in conversation, we now beg to submit the following statement, premising that it is not intended to be a complete draft of the plan of a Catholic University independent of foregone explanations; but, assuming as understood those parts of the plan with reference to which no difference of opinion was expressed, it sets out the alterations which we think it desirable or necessary to have made in the project as presented to us. Whilst we state our opinions, and offer suggestions with respect to the special plan proposed by your Lordship's Government, we wish to say in passing that the plan most acceptable to the Catholic Prelates of Ireland would be a modification of the existing Catholic University.

And, first, the new University, we are decidedly of opinion, ought to be not simply a University for holding examinations and conferring degrees, but ought furthermore to be a teaching University, having its own full staff of professors, men of the highest mark in every department of letters and science, who should deliver courses of University lectures open to the students of the several colleges affiliated to the University. By delivering and publishing lectures such eminent Professors would not only maintain a high standard of excellence in the University's own academic halls, and in those of the colleges affiliated to it, but would, moreover, excite a wholesome rivalry throughout the republic of letters. Furthermore, it is avowedly in the contemplation of Government to create a university which from the outset shall be able to enter into active competition with the older universities. But without a full staff of eminent university professors, the realisation of the benevolent and enlightened views of the Government would be simply an impossibility. The senate would, as a matter of course, appoint the university professors.

Besides teaching through its own professors, the proper functions of the university would be to determine the subjects of all university examinations, matriculation, middle, and degree, to appoint university examiners, to confer degrees, to determine what colleges should be affiliated to it, &c. &c.

That the whole system of the university and its affiliated colleges may work harmoniously, it is necessary clearly to define from the outset their mutual relations. Highly approving of the principle of independence upon which the Government proposes to found the university, we conceive that the same principle of independence ought to be extended to the affiliated colleges in relation to the university. The colleges ought to be perfectly free as regards their internal concerns, the appointment of rector, professors, and other officers, the course of studies, the rules and regulations: in a word, they ought to be wholly independent of the university in everything except what might appertain to university examinations, and the conferring of degrees. Whilst none of the purposes of a university on the one hand, nor the interest of the colleges on the other, demand any further control over the colleges on the part of the university, to vest in the senate the power even of a simple veto on the appointment of the professors or other officers of the colleges would be not only uncalled for, but an undue interference with the freedom of the colleges. It would be scarcely justifiable in the supposition that the colleges would be unendowed by the State. It is only on the strength of an endowment that the State, acting through the university, could pretend to any right to inquire into, not to say to interfere in, the internal concerns or administration of the colleges.

The constitution of the university as proposed by Government is, that the senate shall consist of 20 members, a Chancellor, Vice Chancellor, four Roman Catholic Bishops, the President of Maynooth College, six laymen, five representatives of the university faculties, and the heads of colleges affiliated to the university. It will be observed that the fixed members are 18 in number, and that, if 20 be the whole number of members, there will be room only for two heads of affiliated colleges. Believing it was not meant to limit that class of members to two, we respectfully recommend that all heads of affiliated colleges be members of the senate. They would be the natural bonds of union between the university and the colleges.

In a Roman Catholic University the Chancellor should be a Bishop. Though in a Mixed University that high office might be fitly open to laymen, in a professedly Catholic University, it is not so; for the ecclesiastical dignity of a bishop would insure for him as Chancellor deference and respect as well as inspire a degree of confidence that might not be so readily yielded to a layman or an ecclesiastic of the second order. The eligibility of Bishops alone to the office of Chancellor is attended with this further advantage—that it would be much less difficult to determine the relative pretensions of Bishops than of the far greater number of distinguished laymen scattered up and down through the country, besides that there would be less room for rivalry and for the clashing of opinions. In the Irish Roman Catholic hierarchy there is, at present one who, as Cardinal, ranks first, the Cardinal Archbishop of Dublin, and who, irrespectively of his high rank, is eminently fit to fill the office of Chancellor. It is respectfully submitted to the Government that he should be appointed the first Chancellor of the new University.

We are strongly of opinion that, after the first nomination by the Crown, the Chancellor should be elected by the Senate, not by Convocation. A vacancy in the Chancellorship might occur before a body of graduates would have grown up to furnish what must be nominally the chief element of Convocation. And, when that body would have grown large enough to be worthy of the name of Convocation, it would be inexpedient to leave to its suffrages, influenced, perhaps, by other considerations than that of the public interest, the selection of a person to fill the highest office in the University. It would be inexpedient too, for this further reason, that, the body of graduates being the dominant power in Convocation, and having to choose between bishops, any contention between them as to the relative merits of bishops, anything like a pitting of bishop against bishop, would be not only very inconvenient but unseemly in the highest degree. The more limited, the more experienced, and the graver body of the Senate is much to be preferred for a trust in every way so important. We purpose no alteration as regards the mode of appointing the Vice-Chancellor.

We ask that the election of the six laymen, who are to be members of the Senate, shall, after the first nomination by the Crown, rest with the Senate itself, and not with Convocation. The reasons already assigned for a like alteration in the plan, as regards the election of Chancellor, for the most part apply to that now proposed, and perhaps some of them with even greater force. It is natural to think that a better selection would be made by the mature unimpassioned judgment of the senate, comprising, as it would, the representatives of the university faculties, the heads of the affiliated colleges, the President of the College of Maynooth, the four bishops, the Chancellor and Vice-Chancellor, than would be made by graduates, young men swayed, perhaps, by political or personal influences, by party feeling, passion, or prejudice.

In the course of your Lordship's statement, you observed that the presence in the senate of four bishops, and of the President of Maynooth College, together with the circumstance that all the members of the senate should be Roman Catholics, afforded a sufficient guarantee for the safety of faith and morals. We duly appreciate the desire of the Government to provide an adequate guarantee for that purpose, and on behalf the Irish bishops we very willingly record their sense of the kindly disposition thus evinced. But it is our duty to state, for the information of Her Majesty's Government, that the safety of faith and morals in the university can only be secured by recognising in the bishops as members of the senate the right, which as bishops they possess, and which all Catholics must acknowledge them to possess, of pronouncing authoritatively on matters of faith and morals. That right belongs to them, and to them alone, as compared with laymen, and even ecclesiastics of the second order. According to the doctrine and discipline of the Catholic Church, it is not competent for laymen, not even for clergymen of the second order, however learned, to judge authoritatively of faith and morality. That is the exclusive province of bishops. As faith and morality may be injuriously affected either by the heterodox teaching of professors, lecturers, or other officers, or by their bad moral example, or by the introduction of bad books into the university programme, the very least power that could be claimed for the bishops on the senate, with a view to the counteraction of such evils, would be that of an absolute negative on such books, and on the first nomination of professors, &c. &c., as well as on their continuing to hold their offices after having been judged by the bishops on the senate to have grievously offended against faith or morals. It will be observed that the power here claimed relates solely to matters intimately connected with morality and doctrine.

This will be better understood by supposing a case in which the power claimed for the Bishops would come into play—the case of a candidate for a university chair, judged by the Bishops to be of unsound faith; if they have not the power to pronounce him ineligible; if he be elected to the office against their protest, as he might be, supposing them not to have at least the power of a veto on his appointment; a professor declared to be unsound in faith would be placed in a position to teach false doctrine in a Catholic University, governed by a senate of which four Bishops would be members. It could not have been intended that the faith of Catholics—and what is said of faith may be said of morals—should be thus openly outraged; on the contrary, we are well assured that the Government, in proposing the plan of a Catholic University, desired and desires that it should be so framed as to be conformable to the doctrine and discipline of the Catholic Church, and that in its constitution Catholic students should have adequate security for their faith and morals. It is, as, already stated, an essential part of that doctrine and of that discipline that Bishops, and Bishops alone, should pronounce with authority upon matters involving faith or morality; and, therefore, however strange it might at first sight appear to recognise in the Episcopal members of the senate, a special power denied to their fellows on the senate, it is not only reasonable but necessary once, we assume that it is the purpose of Government, as we believe it is its purpose, to found a Catholic University on Catholic principles, or, at least, in conformity with them.

Should Protestants, or persons of a religious denomination other than the Roman Catholic, become students of the university, or of any of its colleges, we are not against providing in the constitution of the university that they should not be required to attend any Roman Catholic observance, or to be present at any religious lecture or teaching, to which they or their parents or guardians might object. Whilst such security is provided against any undue interference with their religious belief, it would, on the other hand, be unreasonable, as well as inconsistent with the idea of a Catholic University, to deny or to restrict the liberty of the professors to treat in a Catholic sense of history, ethics, law, or other subjects, in so far as they have a special bearing on religion or religion on them. To preclude the professors with so dealing with such subjects in a professedly Catholic University or College, would be to introduce there the principle of abstention from special religious views which characterizes mixed Universities and Colleges, and which is a necessity growing out of their constitution.

For the present, appreciating the difficulty Government might experience in carrying an endowment for the colleges affiliated to the university, we abstain from pressing for such endowment; though, so long as Trinity College possesses immense wealth, and the Queen's Colleges receive 26,000 l. a year from the public purse, the claim of the Catholics of Ireland to a liberal endowment for the purposes of academical education is unquestionable. But on the supposition that the university shall have a full professional staff, as already recommended, it follows as a matter of course that provision should be made for the payment of their salaries, for lecture halls, and for the scientific, and other apparatus required for their teaching. And, for the better encouragement of the cultivation of letters and science, the university must needs have at its disposal a fund for the foundation of scholarships and the distribution of prizes. It is unnecessary to allude to ordinary university expenses, such as the payment of university examiners and officers the charges incident to the holding of examinations, &c. &c. Without such expenses the university could not act, or even exist.

MEMORANDUM drawn up by the Earl of Mayo.

THE Roman Catholic Bishops and Archbishops of Ireland, in a letter to Sir George Grey, dated January 14, 1866, and published in Parliamentary Paper 84, Session 1866, make the following statement:—

“We have to observe that the Roman Catholics of Ireland have long laboured under the greatest disadvantages with respect to education. In past times all their educational establishments were suppressed, and laws were enacted prohibiting them to establish schools at home, or to send their children for education to the Continent. The effects of this penal legislation still remain; and Catholics, deprived of the endowments of former times, are left without any institution supported by the State, in which they can, with safety to faith and morals, cultivate the higher studies and take out academical degrees.”

They further say that Trinity College was founded by Queen Elizabeth as a bulwark of the Protestant religion,—is largely endowed; and they state in detail the particulars of that endowment.

They then refer to the Queen's Colleges established in 1847, and express in the strongest terms their disapproval of the course and system of instruction given therein.

They further state the advantages which Graduates of Trinity College and the Queen's Universities are entitled to by their degrees, and say that “all Catholics aspiring to the professions just mentioned must submit to these inconveniences, or if they wish to avoid them must enter a university founded to maintain the ascendancy of the Established Church in Ireland, or institutions condemned by their own Church. It is to be added that these unfair conditions are imposed quite irrespectively of proficiency in literature, science, or law.

“It being evident from the statements just made that the existing institutions recognized by the State do not put university education within the reach of Irish Roman Catholics on terms of which they can safely avail themselves, or on principles approved by their religion, we, their pastors, aided by their generous contributions, determined to supply this great want, and established the Catholic University of Ireland.”

They then describe the position of the institution, and recommend that a charter should be granted to it, a draft of which they enclose.

Sir George Grey states in his letter of the 10th of January that, having had under their consideration the draft of the charter contained in the memorial, Her Majesty's Government regret that they are unable to grant it in the form in which it is proposed; but state further that if the Roman Catholic University is to receive a charter from the Crown, in the opinion of Her Majesty's Government it should not be entirely composed of ecclesiastics, and should contain a considerable number of laymen.

Sir George Grey further says that the Government hope that no practical difficulty will be found in a revision of the terms of the charter, with a view to meet the objections to the form in which it has been proposed, and further expresses his willingness to suggest the form in which they think the charter might properly be granted.

In a letter of the 14th February, Sir George Grey states that he hopes in a short time to be able to comply with Archbishop Cullen's request by transmitting him a copy of the new charter for the university.

It does not appear from the correspondence that any further steps were taken in the matter.

The supplemental charter of the Queen's University was, however, subsequently granted.

This resulted in complete failure, as the injunction granted in the Rolls Court, Dublin, prohibiting the Senate from making any use of it, has been made perpetual.

Admitting, therefore, that a just claim exists for the creation of a university of a denominational character, which should offer to those whose conscientious scruples prevent them taking the advantage of the instruction offered in Trinity College or the Queen's Colleges, it is proposed to found a new university, which should, as far as circumstances would permit, stand in the same position to Roman Catholics that Trinity College does to Protestants; that is to say, that the governing body should consist of, and the teaching should be conducted mainly by, Roman Catholics, but that full security should be taken that no religious influence should be brought to bear on students who belonged to another faith.

It is not intended to reproduce exactly a counterpart of Trinity College, but it is considered to be indispensable that a lay element of much power and influence should be introduced into the governing body of the new university.

It is most desirable that the character and composition of this body should be settled at the outset, so that the institution should be based on clear and intelligible principles.

The success of a university depends very much on its independence, its self-reliance, its autonomy. Direct Government control over the conduct of a great educational institution would not in this country be successful.

If, therefore, a Roman Catholic university is founded, it should be constituted in such a manner as, while it would be almost independent of State control, it would be subject to the constant influence of public opinion, and governed by a body who, acting in the light of day, would be likely to frame its rules and conduct its teaching so that the new university would enter at once into active competition, on equal terms, with the older universities of the world.

The proposal now made is as follows :—

That a charter for a Roman Catholic university should be granted to the following persons, to be named in the charter :—A chancellor, a vice-chancellor, four prelates, the President of Maynooth, six laymen—the heads of the colleges proposed to be first affiliated,—and five members, to be elected one by each of the five faculties in the affiliated college or colleges. The respective faculties in the colleges voting separately as regards the faculty, but the members of the same faculty in the several colleges voting together.

This would be the constitution of the first senate.

The future senate should be formed as follows :—

A chancellor to be elected by convocation. A vice-chancellor to be appointed by the chancellor. Four prelates to be nominated by the Roman Catholic Hierarchy, the President of Maynooth. Six laymen to be elected by convocation—the heads of the affiliated colleges. Five members elected by the faculties, as before-mentioned. The senate would be twenty in number, all being members of the Roman Catholic Church. Convocation to consist of the chancellor, senate, professors, and graduate.

To the university thus constituted should be given the power of granting degrees, of holding university examinations, of determining what colleges should be affiliated to itself, the course of study to be pursued, and the subjects of examination in the middle and degree examinations; but leaving to the colleges the appointment of their rectors, professors, &c., subject only to the approval of the senate. With regard to the colleges, the utmost freedom should be given, the only condition made being, that while religious instruction might be freely imparted to Roman Catholics by the professors and fellows, no student of another faith should be required to attend any Catholic religious observance, or should be subject to teaching in any religion except his own.

Until the colleges are firmly established it may be proper to postpone the question of endowment. It is one of great difficulty, and need not form an indispensable portion of the plan.

It may, however, be necessary to ask Parliament to provide a sufficient sum for the payment of the expenses of the examinations for the foundation of a certain number of university scholarships, and the giving away of prizes; and also the payment of the salaries of certain officers and servants of the university, and perhaps some provision for a university hall and examination rooms.

— No. 9. —

Earl of Mayo to the Most Reverend Archbishop Leahy.

Most Reverend Sir,

Irish Office, London, 11 May 1868.

I HAVE the honour to inform you that I have brought your letter of the 31st March under the consideration of Her Majesty's Government, who have given to its contents their most careful attention.

I regret that unavoidable delay has occurred in sending a reply, as it was impossible for the Government to consult upon the matter before the Easter recess, and my return to London only took place on the 27th ultimo.

The alterations which you suggest in the plan for the creation of a new university proposed by the Government, are very important, and may be shortly described as follows :

1. That the veto of the Senate of the university over the appointment of the professors and other officers of the affiliated colleges is uncalled for, and ought not to be maintained.

2. That the Chancellor should always be a Prelate.

3. That the first Chancellor should be Cardinal Archbishop Cullen.

4. That the Chancellor should, after the first nomination by the Crown, be elected by the Senate, and not by Convocation.

5. That the election of the six lay members of the Senate should rest with that body, and not with Convocation.

6. That the episcopal members of the Senate should have an absolute negative on the books included in the university programme; and, on the first nomination of the professors, lecturers, and other officers, and that they should also have the power of depriving them of their offices should they be judged by the bishops to have done anything contrary to faith and morals.

It appears to Her Majesty's Government that the adoption of these suggestions would materially alter the character of the proposal made by me in the House of Commons, which was to create a university having for its principal object the education of the lay members of the Roman Catholic Church, and their preparation for entrance into the various professions, civil or military. The clerical and lay elements being each adequately represented in the governing body, and the offices being filled up as far as possible by a system of free election.

With regard to the first proposal, Her Majesty's Government think it to be indispensable that the appointment of all heads or professors of the affiliated colleges should be subject to the approval of the governing body of the university.

This is considered to be necessary, in order to secure unity of action and uniformity of practice between the colleges and the university, which is to be their centre and head.

The second proposal is, that the Chancellor of the new university should be a bishop.

This, in the opinion of Her Majesty's Government, would be inconsistent with one of the fundamental principles of such an institution, namely, that the future head of the governing body should be elected by the university at large.

It would be impossible to recognise fully this principle were the choice of the electors to be limited to the members of any single profession or class.

In the nomination of the first Chancellor it was intended to name a layman of rank, influence, and position.

Her Majesty's Government are of opinion that ample provision is made for the admission to the Board of the members of the hierarchy, and they are not disposed to add to the number of the bishops already named in the proposal.

It would be impossible also to consent to the proposal, that the future Chancellor should be elected by the Senate and not by Convocation.

Her Majesty's Government believe that the high officer who is to preside over the university should derive his power and influence by free election from the whole body of the graduates, and the Government cannot think that any arrangement would be satisfactory which would exclude any of the members of the university from taking part in the election of the individual who is to fill the highest office in the institution.

Her Majesty's Government attach great importance to the election of the six lay members of the Senate by the whole body of Convocation; and they consider that a governing body, which would have the power of filling up vacancies amongst themselves without reference to the university at large, would not command that public confidence which is so essential in the constitution of such an assembly.

The proposition that the episcopal members of the Senate should possess any power greater than that of their lay colleagues, is one that Her Majesty's Government cannot entertain.

It would establish a system of education essentially different from that which was intended, and, therefore, the Government cannot agree to give to any of the members of the Senate a power over teaching, books, discipline, or appointments which is not enjoyed equally by all.

The object of the Government was to create an institution which, although denominational in its character, would be thoroughly independent, self-governed, and free from any external influence, either political or religious.

The proposals made in your letter would strike at the very root of these principles, and I am, therefore, with extreme regret, obliged to inform you that the recommendations contained in that letter cannot be entertained.

The Most Rev. Archbishop Leahy.

The Most Rev. Archbishop Leahy and the Right Rev. Bishop Derry to the Earl of Mayo.

My Lord,

Thurles, 16 June 1868.

IT is but due to ourselves to call your attention to the explanations recently given by yourself in answer to Sir John Gray's question, and by another noble Lord in the Upper House, both referring to the broken off, if ever to be resumed, negotiations concerning a charter for a Catholic University. These negotiations, the public is now fully aware, were entered upon in consequence of the declared intentions of the present as well as the late Government to remove in part the educational disabilities under which the Catholics of Ireland labour; and they were conducted, so far as they went, by your Lordship, aided by the Earl of Malmesbury, on the part of the Government, and by us on the part of the Catholic prelates of Ireland. Not only was public attention excited, but much satisfaction was felt when it became known that Government was prepared to confer with the Catholic prelates of Ireland, through two of their number, upon the important subject in question. The negotiations went on smoothly, but very slowly, through the first stages, and then were suddenly stopped short, naturally causing something like a shock to public expectation proportioned to the suddenness of the abrupt and unlooked-for termination of the business, supposing it to be the termination. Then came the Parliamentary explanations from the Earl of Malmesbury and your Lordship, to which we now desire to call your attention.

If we may trust to the reports which have appeared in the public journals (and there seems to be no reason for doubting their correctness), the Earl of Malmesbury's explanation was a misrepresentation of the facts involved, purely accidental, we are willing to believe, nevertheless real; for, as reported, he said the negotiations ended in nothing, because the bishops rejected the plan proposed by Government; whereas, the fact was, that they ended, if they have ended, in nothing, because the Government rejected the suggestions which you had invited us to offer. And then, as regards your Lordship's explanation in answer to Sir John Gray's question, though far be it from us to impute anything like an intention to mystify or mislead, that explanation seems to leave it doubtful upon whom should rest the responsibility, whatever it be, of breaking off the negotiations, upon you or upon us. We desire to set the facts in their true light before the public, and so to correct the misinterpretation in the one case, and to remove the doubt in the other.

We do, then, assert that the negotiations were not broken off by us, or because we had rejected the plan proposed by the Government, and consequently that we have not to answer for it if they have ended in a “most lame and impotent conclusion.” At our interview with your Lordship and the Earl of Malmesbury you invited us to commit our views to writing, in order that they might be submitted to the consideration of Government. You did not give us to understand, neither did we then or since give you to understand, that this statement of ours was to be regarded as our last word, in a negotiation but just opened, and upon a subject which, from its very nature as well as the divergence of views apparent at the outset, demanded a further interchange of ideas, a fuller discussion, if the whole business was to end in anything. Not a word of ours, spoken or written, indicated that we had taken ground from which nothing could induce us to recede. We were prepared to do what parties conducting a negotiation in good faith must be prepared to do, listen to reason; and, as far as possible, make concessions as well as demands. Assuredly, there was nothing to make you think that in my right reverend brother and myself you had to do with persons who would demand everything and concede nothing: who would hold tenaciously to their own once-expressed opinions, but would pay no heed to anything you might have to say on the other side; and that therefore you might regard our statement of the 31st of March as the final and unalterable expression of our views. It was not, my Lord, intended by us to be final, nor was any such thing conveyed by us, directly or by implication. If it was final, it was your acting, in the name of the Government, who made it final. After waiting for a considerable time, we will not insinuate for the purpose of seeing how far the bare offer of a charter for a Catholic university might be made to subserve political exigencies, you, in the name of the Government, as if to cut away all ground for any further treating, rejected every one of the suggestions which you had invited us to make; and, without more ado, you had the correspondence printed and submitted to Parliament. You it was, then, my Lord, not we, who brought the negotiation to an abrupt termination, if terminated it has been.

That this business should have been terminated, if so it be, in a manner as abrupt as it was unlooked-for, and without any benefit whatever resulting to the Catholic public, such as was anticipated at the first starting of it, has naturally enough produced a deep sense of disappointment. We leave it to the public to pass its verdict upon the whole transaction, offering little or no remark ourselves beyond a statement of the facts. But, as one of the negotiating parties, and maintaining as we do that we did not break off the negotiations, we conceive we have a right to ask you as the other party; and we do ask you, my Lord, whether you consider what has taken place between us as final. Your reply will put beyond question upon whom rests the responsibility of an abrupt as well as abortive termination of this whole business, and it is but right that whatever responsibility may attach to it in the eyes of the public should lie upon the really responsible party.

It is our intention to publish this letter.

— No. 2. —

Earl of Mayo to the Most Rev. Archbishop Leahy.

Most Rev. Sir,

Irish Office, 30 June 1868.

I BEG to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 16th instant, calling my attention to the answer recently given by me to Sir John Gray's question in the House of Commons, and that given by Lord Malmesbury in the House of Lords, in reference to the communications which have passed between us concerning a charter for a Roman Catholic university, and complaining that the negotiations on the subject were broken off by me in an abrupt and unexpected manner.

It becomes my duty to call your attention briefly to the events which have taken place with regard to the proposals made by the Government in this matter.

On the 12th March, I announced in the House of Commons, that it was the intention of Her Majesty's Government to propose that a charter should be given to a Roman Catholic University.

I said, that up to that time, we had entered into no negotiations or communications with anyone, but that keeping in view the principles we thought indispensable, namely, that there should be in the institution an influential lay element, and that the elective principle should be fully recognised, we were prepared prepared to listen respectfully and carefully to all suggestions that were made to us, and to endeavour to suit the new university to the requirements of those for whose benefit it was intended.

On the 14th March, therefore, I addressed to you a note referring to your letter to the Earl of Derby of the 23rd October 1867, in which you stated, that you had been deputed by the Roman Catholic archbishops and bishops of Ireland to enter into communication with Her Majesty's Government on the subject of a charter for the Roman Catholic university.

I said that I should be happy, on the part of the Government, to receive from you any communication which you might be pleased to make on the subject.

On the 19th March I received a letter, in which you put forward several objections to the proposed scheme, stating, at the same time, that you would do me the honour of waiting upon me during the ensuing week.

A lengthened interview took place on the 24th March at the Irish Office, in which you and your right reverend colleague repeated, to a great extent, the objections put forward in your letter of the 19th.

To these objections Lord Malmesbury and I listened with respectful attention; and, at the close of the interview, we requested you to place those opinions in writing at greater length, and in greater detail than you had done in your first letter.

A letter, dated the 31st March, was subsequently received, in which, with great clearness and frankness, you set forth the alterations which you recommended should be made in the framework of the new institution, as it was described in a memorandum which I had the honour of placing in your hands.

The alterations which you said that you considered necessary were principally based on the assumption that there was not sufficient scope given in the constitution of the university and its governing body for the exercise by the Roman Catholic prelates of their authority in matters appertaining to faith and morals, or over the books that were to be used by the students.

In order, therefore, fully to provide for the exercise of that episcopal control which you appear to deem essential, you said that it was not competent for laymen or even clergymen of the second order, however learned, to judge authoritatively of matters relating to faith and morality, and that the very least power that could be claimed for the bishops in the senate would be that of an absolute negative on the use of all books that might be deemed objectionable, and a power of veto on the first nomination of the professors of the university, as well as an authority for their dismissal.

You also made propositions with regard to the election of the chancellor and the members of the senate, which would practically have put an end to anything like a system of free election on the part of the general body of the university.

I apprised you in my letter of the 11th May, delayed, as I then informed you, by my unavoidable detention in Ireland, and my consequent inability to consult my colleagues, that these proposals could not be entertained; and on the 17th I received from you a note, which was but a simple acknowledgment of my letter.

As no intimation was afterwards given of your desire to continue the correspondence, and as no notice beyond formal acknowledgment was taken of my last letter, I could come to no other conclusion than that the communications were at an end.

On the 29th of May, therefore, in answer to a question from Mr. Murphy, I stated in the House of Commons that the correspondence which had been laid upon the Table of the House had shown that the conditions which Her Majesty's Government thought necessary to attach to the granting of a charter to a Roman Catholic University had been declined by the right reverend prelates who were deputed to act in the matter on the part of the Roman Catholic hierarchy of Ireland, and that therefore we had come to the conclusion that the matter should be considered entirely at an end. The answer given by the Earl of Malmesbury in the House of Lords on the same night, though somewhat different in words, was substantially to the same effect.

Again, on the 12th June, in reply to Sir John Gray, after referring to the dates of the communications which had taken place, I made a similar answer, and stated that it was not our intention to take any further steps in the matter.

It could not have been supposed that a correspondence conducted in such a manner, extending over so considerable a period of time, and terminating in the way it did, was intended by you to have been re-opened.

The questions, as to which differences arose, involved matters of the highest principle. Speaking on behalf of the Roman Catholic prelates of Ireland, you laid down in the clearest manner the maxims on the subject of university education which you considered necessary for the safety of the faith and morals of the youth of the country.

We could not have supposed that requirements sanctioned by such high authority, so repeatedly made and so clearly expressed, could have been put forward only to be withdrawn.

Under these circumstances, I can only repeat the answer I have already given in the House of Commons, that it is not the intention of Her Majesty's Government to take any further steps in the matter.

The Most Rev. Archbishop Leahy.

Gentlemen,

Donaghadee, 13 February 1868.

I HAVE the honour to forward herewith a Statement of the Elementary Education Committee of the Presbyterian Church in Ireland, in regard to the revised school books published under the direction of the Commissioners of National Education; and to request that you will lay the same before the Board at its next meeting.

I have also to request that you will be good enough to direct the attention of the Commissioners to the request with which the statement closes.

Presbyterian Church in Ireland.

STATEMENT.

THE Elementary Education Committee of the General Assembly have examined the revised school books published last year under the direction of the Commissioners of National Education; and, whilst acknowledging these books to be in some respects an improvement upon those previously in use, they consider certain lessons in them as highly objectionable, and such as should not be taught in schools under Presbyterian management.

The Committee direct special attention to the following passages:—

No. 1.—Book II., page 180.

“ Her beads while she numbered,
Her baby still slumbered,
And smiled in her face as she bended her knee;
Oh, blessed be that warning,
My child thy sleep adorning,
For I know that the angels are whispering with thee.
And whilst they are keeping Bright watch o’er thy sleeping,
Oh, pray to them softly, my baby, with me.

No. 2.—Book IV., page 84.

“ Sweet were his words when last we met,
My passion I as freely told him;
Clasped in his arms I little thought
That I should never more behold him.
Scarce was he gone, I saw his ghost,
It vanished with a shriek of sorrow,
Thrice did the water-wraith ascend,
And gave a doleful groan through Yarrow.”

No. 3.—Book IV., page 169.

“ And it would be highly meritorious in the eyes of our Saviour if such misery could be averted. I have such faith and trust in finding grace before God if I die to save my townsmen, that I name myself a first of the six.”

No. 4.—Book IV., page 173.

“ Soon after, the good lady made the sign of the cross on her breast, and having recommended to God the king and her youngest son Thomas, who was present, gave up her spirit, which I firmly believe was caught by the holy angels and carried to the glory of heaven; for she had never done anything by thought or deed that could endanger her losing it.”

"Yet consider man as he is found in the world, and owning, as you must own, that the many do not act by rule or principle, and that few do honour to their Maker; seeing, as you see, that the enmities, frauds, cruelties, oppressions, injuries, excesses, are almost the constituents of human life; knowing, too, the wonderful capabilities of man, yet their necessary frustration, in so brief an existence, can you venture to say that the Church's yoke is heavy, when you yourselves, viewing the universe from end to end, are compelled by the force of reason to submit your reason to the confession that God has created nothing perfect; a world of order which is dead and corruptible; a world of immortal spirits which is in rebellion."

No. 6.—Book IV., pages 354-5.

"God's will! I pray thee wish not one man more,
By Jove, I am not covetous for gold.

No faith, my coz, wish not a man from England
God's peace! I would not lose so great an honour."

No. 7.—Book IV., pages 363-4.

"He respects piety and devotion; he even supports institutions as venerable, beautiful, or useful, to which he does not assent. Not that he may not hold a religion too, in his own way, even when he is not a Christian. Sometimes he acknowledges the being of a God; sometimes he invests an unknown principle or quality with the attributes of perfection. And this deduction of his reason, or creation of his fancy, he makes the occasion of such excellent thoughts, and the starting point of so varied and systematic a teaching, that he even seems like a disciple of Christianity itself."

No. 8.—Book IV., page 407.

"He introduces himself. He all but concurs, according to his good pleasure and in his selected season, in the issues of unbelief, superstition and false worship, and changes the character of acts, by his over-ruling operation. He condescends, though he gives no sanction, to the altars and shrines of imposture, and he makes his own fiat the substitute for his sorceries. He speaks amid the incantations of Balaam; raises Samuel's spirit in the witch's cavern; prophecies of the Messiah by the tongue of the sibyl, and baptizes by the hand of the misbeliever. He is with the heathen dramatist in his denunciations of injustice and tyranny, and his auguries of Divine vengeance upon crime; even in the unseemly legends of a popular mythology he casts his shadow, and is dimly discerned in the ode or epic, as in troubled water or in fantastic dreams."

Upon these extracts the Assembly's committee observe:—

First. That in sanctioning them for the use of schools the Commissioners of National Education must be held as desiring to imbue the minds of the young with the principles they contain, and to commend to them the practices they describe.

Second. According to the recognised standards of the Presbyterian Church, some of the doctrines and practices thus inculcated, such as praying to angels, making the sign of the cross, &c., are "unscriptural and pernicious"; whilst in the lesson (extract No. 5), an authority is assigned to the Church, which is contrary to the Word of God, and inconsistent with Presbyterian principles. In the judgment of the committee the Church is there represented as not imposing a heavy yoke when, for example, she requires her adherents to accept what is contrary to reason and common sense, on the ground that there are things in the world which reason cannot comprehend.

Third. As these lessons are appointed to be read and, if necessary, explained in all the schools of the Board, conscientious teachers of different denominations will be constrained to denounce or commend, as the case may be, the principles and practices involved, and thus bitter controversy will be introduced into the common schools of the country.

Fourth. The committee believe that the Commissioners of National Education appointed by the Legislature to administer a united system, in sanctioning these extracts to be read as part of the ordinary school business during which all children, of whatever denomination they may be, are required to attend, are not only guilty of a flagrant breach of faith with Protestant teachers and managers, but have adopted a course of procedure which, if persisted in, must inevitably issue in the destruction of united education, and the introduction of denominationalism.

Fifth. Other lessons, as given above, though not teaching denominational peculiarities, are yet liable to the gravest objection. For example, that in extract, No. 2, (page 84, fourth book) gives a sanction to popular superstition, and is in other respects suggestive of evil to youth. That in extract, No. 6, contains, what appears to the committee, profane exclamations, which would be highly pernicious as examples to the rising generation. The lesson in extract No. 7 misrepresents what the committee believes to be the character of an "educated gentleman"; and insinuates that a person may be all that is implied in the terms, and be a religious man, without even being a Christian; whilst, in extract No. 8, amid certain obscure and misty statements, which no child attending an ordinary school could understand, there are expressions which, if they have any meaning at all, are either pantheistic in their tendency, or would make the Divine Being the direct agent of evil.

For these reasons the Assembly's committee respectfully request the Commissioners to withdraw these books from circulation, and to see that in any future revision the fundamental principles of the system, as a system of united education, shall be fully kept in view. Should this request be granted, the committee would wish to be informed, at as early a period as possible, as they have refrained from agitating the subject until the Commissioners should have an opportunity of seeing their statement.

National Education.

My dear Sir,

Ballycorn, Sunday.

I AM obliged to be absent on inspection, and cannot attend the book committee, but I have spoken to Mr. Macdonnell, and we both agree about the book of poetical selections. Will you kindly ask him to put my name as approving of the suggestions which he will make? It is of importance that the book should not be delayed, and might in any case pass at the next board.

LETTER from J. Gibson, Esq., to the Secretaries of the Board of National Education.

Gentlemen,

35, Mountjoy-square, S., 12 November 1866.

As the meeting of the book committee, intended to be held to-day, has been postponed, owing to the slight indisposition of the Resident Commissioner, and it is probable that I shall not be able to be present (during term) at the next meeting, I have to request that you will lay before the committee, at its next meeting, the expression of my very strong disapproval of many of the pieces included in the "Poetic Selections" now under consideration, as calculated to excite feelings, and convey opinions to which, in my humble opinion, the teachers of youth should be no party.

I also object altogether to the issue in this compilation, of three plays of Shakspeare, which, independently of many passages in the plays, which are of a character unsuitable to be brought before young persons of both sexes, I cannot but consider as a waste of the public money, as the entire works of Shakspeare can now be had for one shilling, a price which brings them within the reach of most of that class for whom this selection is intended.

I venture therefore, respectfully, to express a hope, that the Commissioners will not record their approval of this compilation, to which I entertain the most decided objection, the grounds of which I am prepared to state more fully if necessary.

Have the goodness to lay this note before the committee, or any meeting of the Commissioners at which this selection may be brought forward for approval, and oblige,

The Secretaries, &c. &c. &c..

Yours, &c.

18th November 1867.

Gentlemen,

* * * * * I HOPE the Poetic Selections, vol. i., may not be accepted by the Commissioners. I have strong objections to it, and, as I know not who the compiler is, I shall feel the less difficulty in expressing them during the week. I believe that the advanced pupils of the National Schools will, many of them, learn love songs soon enough and extensively enough without the proposed sanction of Her Majesty's Commissioners of Education.

The range of English literature ought to have presented unobjectionable and profitable matters.

If I were opposed to the National system, I would not desire a better argument than could be drawn from these Poetic Selections.

EXTRACT from the MINUTES of the Board of National Education, regarding the "Poetical Selections," vol. i.—Mr. Gibson's and Rev Dr. Henry's Objections.

MINUTE, dated 19th November 1867.

Brought up Report of the Book Committee, which met at 4.45 o'clock.

Present:—Right Hon. M. Longfield, James Gibson, Esq., Laurence Waldron, Esq., Right Hon. A. Macdonnell.—Dr. Newell, Secretary.

READ, Letter No. 10,722, 1867, from Mr. Gibson, in which he states: "I have to request that you will lay before the committee, at its next meeting, the expression of my very strong disapproval of many of the pieces included in the 'Poetical Selections' now under consideration, as calculated to excite feelings and convey opinions to which, in my humble opinion, the teachers of youth should be no party. I, therefore, venture respectfully to express a hope that the Commissioners will not record their approval of this compilation, to which I entertain the most decided objection, the grounds of which I am prepared to state more fully if necessary."

Read, also, Letter from the Rev. Dr. Henry, No. 10,867, 1867, stating: "I hope the 'Poetical Selections,' vol. i., may not be accepted by the Commissioners. I have very strong objections to it, and, as I do not know who the compiler is, I shall have the less difficulty in expressing them during the week. The range of English literature ought to have presented unobjectionable and profitable matters. If I were opposed to the National system, I would not desire a better argument than could be drawn from these 'Poetic Selections.'"

The secretary, Dr. Newell, mentions that Mr. Lentaigne, whose letter (10,541, 1867) was read to the committee on the 5th, has signified his approval of any course pursued by the Resident Commissioner.

Proposed by Mr. Macdonnell, that the present volume so far as it contains three plays of Shakspeare, and the selections from Shakspeare, together with Ben Jonson's poem to the memory of Shakspeare, be approved, and that a new proof, containing these poems only, shall be struck off, and a copy sent to each Commissioner before the next day.

Judge Longfield and Mr. Waldron approve, Mr. Gibson dissents.

Ordered, That the foregoing Report be approved.

LETTER from Rev. Dr. Henry, President, Queen's College, Belfast, to the Commissioners of National Education; dated 10th February 1868.

My Lords and Gentlemen,

A FEW weeks ago a very able man, and a warm supporter of our system of education, stated at a public meeting, that the new edition of the reading books, sanctioned by us, contains a number of passages objectionable on religious grounds.

Similar communications of dissatisfaction having been made to myself, as a Commissioner, I have since examined the books, and I am prepared to point out some expressions and passages which, in my opinion, ought to be altered or omitted in the next issue of the publications.

In the meantime, I find that Mr. Anderson asks to have the former editions of the school books introduced into his schools, as he cannot use the revised editions.

I apprehend Mr. Anderson means that the Commissioners are expected by him to continue to supply him with the old editions.

If his proposal implies that we are to have two sets of books sanctioned by us, and on our list, we cannot entertain it without giving up both the principle and the application; also of the system of united secular instruction. I wish freely to express my opinion on this point, for I know that the question is already attracting attention in this district. If it be a fact that we have not succeeded just now to produce school books, as heretofore, acceptable to the patrons and the public generally, I feel that our course is clear, viz., to revise the new editions under the salutary principle (as old as the Board itself), that whenever any word or passage is objected to by any Commissioner as injurious to religious faith and sentiment, such word or passage ought to be left out in future editions.

To admit that we ourselves are unable to agree to a series of reading books for purely secular and moral instruction, applicable to all denominations, would be a declaration that there exists no ground whatever for united literary instruction.

I throw out the suggestion, my Lords and Gentlemen, for your consideration, that in my opinion the best and safest answer to Mr. Anderson would be to refer him to our rule, No. 1, on "the use of books." If he then presses us to supply him with the old editions, I sincerely trust he may be met with a direct negative.

On the contrary supposition, not only would the Commissioners themselves abandon the ground of united education at our Board table; but, in practice, the denominational system would be established all over the country in a form the very worst that could be adopted.

The two sets of opposing books, sanctioned by a nominally united board, would each have its advocates or assailants in the same parish or on the same mountain side amongst the different patrons. Parents themselves would differ about the choice of versions, inspectors would require to be made up on the two sets of books, and would be often puzzled which to use or examine from; in fact, there would soon exist as much disunion about secular instruction as there does regarding religion itself.

Pure denominationalism would be greatly better than this, as each church would enjoy some internal uniformity of system and of action.

I am very unwilling to part with the old books, for, on the whole, we shall never "see their like again;" but the loss of them is insignificant compared with the injury that would exist from our adoption, of two sets of books already ranged by public men and patrons in opposition to each other.

National Education.

MEMORANDUM from Dr. Henry, President, Queen's College, Belfast; dated 17th February 1868.

MEMORANDUM.

I WAS not aware when I wrote, a week ago, to the Commissioners of Education regarding the new editions of reading books, that the Education Committee of the General Assembly had taken action in objecting officially to portions of them.

I find they have made their appeal to the Lord Lieutenant.

I suppose they thought that, in accordance with our rule, his Excellency had been consulted by the Commissioners regarding the intended withdrawal and great alteration of the old books, and that they wished to point out to Lord Abercorn their objections.

I have again looked over the passages which appear to me to be opposed, not only to Presbyterian, but generally to Protestant faith; and I confess I see no course open to the Board, but to resolve at once to free the publication from passages and expressions offensive to almost all Protestants. The same right ought freely to be granted to Roman Catholics, in giving their sanction to our publications.

If there be not common ground sufficient to construct useful and unobjectionable books, then there ought to be an end of any attempt at united secular instruction.

My proposal for another revision will, I firmly believe, solve the difficulty.

The unconstitutional proposal that has been made, to have two sets of books, opposite in their leaning and tendency, is subversive of unity in the centre, being, in fact, "as a house against a house," whilst endless divisions and comparisons would be created, in schools and in the community at large.

Hitherto our reading books have made our system known, respected, and valued over the whole world.

From time to time it became necessary to alter them to keep pace with the advancement of science. They carried with them the impress of the unanimous sanction of the Commissioners. This cannot be the case regarding the present edition.

As one, I must withhold my sanction from the issue of it, as it now stands.

(signed) P. Shuldham Henry.

P.S.—The fifth book reached me only in the end of last week. I have not had time to examine it sufficiently. Already I discover objectionable passages.

It ought not to be hurried through, after the very long time spent in preparing it.

P. S. H.

LETTER from Rev. Dr. Henry to the Secretaries of the Board of National Education; dated 30th March, 1868.

Gentlemen,

In a former communication to the Commissioners of Education respecting the revised editions of the lesson books, I stated that, at the period I became Commissioner, the salutary rule was in operation, that when a member of the Board objected to a passage or expression on the ground of its being opposed to the tenets, usages, or doctrines of the Church

Church to which he belonged, such passage or expression was altered or struck out in the next forthcoming edition of the book in which it appeared.

Of this there can be no doubt, for I have again and again voted and co-operated with Archbishops Whately and Murray in applying this useful and simple principle. This is a rule which cannot now be departed from without the risk of the introduction at the Board table of theological discussions. Pleading, therefore, the existence and value of this mutual concession and agreement amongst the Commissioners, I beg to express my earnest hope that the passages which the Elementary Education Committee of the General Assembly have pointed out as, in their opinion, "highly objectionable, and such as should not be taught in schools under Presbyterian management," may be left out in all forthcoming editions of our books.

Before I knew that the committee had drawn the attention of the Lord Lieutenant and of the Commissioners to the eight passages which they have noted in their protest, I had myself marked each of them as opposed, not only to Presbyterian, but generally to Protestant doctrine and sentiment.

It is quite a mistake to suppose that if the books remain on our list as they now exist, the Protestant public can or will accept them for use in their schools. The present suspension of expressed dissatisfaction arises from the hope that the necessary alterations will be made, and that the books will be re-issued having the unanimous sanction of the Commissioners. This, in their present condition, they cannot have.

These observations I apply in this letter to the passages in the second and fourth books, to which the Committee of the General Assembly take exception.

Regarding the fifth book, I will take an early opportunity of consulting Mr. Gibson, either personally or by letter, in reference to some passages which do not meet with his approbation.

Whilst expressing my general concurrence with his views, I wish to compare my opinion with his, on two or three of the questions he has raised.

As I understand that in the present instance the Assembly's committee confined their objections, as laid before the Lord Lieutenant, to the eight points I have referred to, I should hope that an answer may immediately be forwarded by the Commissioners to his Excellency, assuring him that the practice shall not be departed from, of having the unanimous sanction of the Commissioners to the issuing and circulation of our National School books.

While I earnestly and respectfully recommend this course, I must altogether dissent from the language and inferences of the committee when they state, "That in sanctioning the present books for the use of schools the Commissioners must be held as desiring to imbue the minds of the young with the principles they contain, and to commend to them the practices they describe." I am quite ready to unite with the other members of the Board in expressing a strong repudiation of this charge, should the Commissioners think fit to notice it.

I trust it was made hastily and without due consideration. I will write to-morrow to Mr. Gibson, regarding the fifth book and his proposed erasures.

Pray read this letter to the Commissioners to-morrow.

To the Secretaries of the Board of National Education.

LETTER from the Secretaries of the Board of National Education to Sir T. A. Larcom, K.C.B.

Sir,

Office of National Education, 16 June 1868.

WE beg to enclose a copy of the reply given by the Commissioners of National Education to the memorial of the Elementary Committee of the General Assembly on Primary Education.

This reply is not included in the terms of the Order of the House of Commons, dated 11th May 1868, and called for by your letter of the 13th of that month; but, on consideration, it seems desirable that a letter which conveys to the Moderator the decision of the Board, should form a part of the Return to the Order of the House, which Return would be incomplete without it.

We are therefore to request that the letter now enclosed may be added to the Return forwarded to you on the 13th instant.

They are substantially correct at the present date, but in some cases slightly differ in consequence of changes in the letting of glebe lands; in one case (Ardstraw), there is a considerable rise, according to a recent valuation, but, as the Commissioners believe, it is still disputed by the incumbent, they consider it better to state the gross value, as given in Stackpoole.

COLLEGE OF ST. PATRICK, MAYNOOTH.

RETURN from the BURSAR of the COLLEGE.

THE Royal College of St. Patrick, Maynooth, is erected on land held in perpetuity, containing 123 A. 1 R. 28 P., statute measure, for which the college pays the annual rent of 194 l. 10 s. 6 d. The college also, as tenant at will, holds a farm from his Grace the Duke of Leinster, containing 218 A. 0 R. 4 P., statute measure, paying a rent of 300 l. per annum.

The only land from which the college receives any rent is the Dunboyne Estate, containing 438 A. 0 R. 35 P., statute measure, let under fee-farm grant at the gross annual rent of 461 l. 18 s. 2 d. The net rent received varies with the taxes, and may be taken at an average of 420 l. per annum. Griffith's valuation of this property is 479 l. 10 s.

There are no rooms or apartments let in the college, and therefore no revenue from that source.

With the exception of chapels, lecture-halls, refectories, kitchen, stores, offices, and the necessary lodging for domestic servants, the entire college is occupied by president, officers, professors, and students. None of these parties pay anything for the accomodation afforded. An estimate of its value has never been made, and is liable to vary with the point of view from which it is considered.

The professors or lecturers derive no income from the students of the college.

There are no fines levied in the college, and the only fees are those payable by students at entrance, 8 l. 8 s. each. The sum received for such fees in year ended 31st March 1867, amounted to 680 l. 8 s., and the average receipts under this head for the last seven years, 766 l. 16 s. per annum.

The college park, garden and pleasure grounds contain 41 A. 1 R. 1 P., statute measure, estimated at the annual value of the rent previously stated.

The number of students registered on 1st day of January 1868 was 524.

ON THE BEST MEANS FOR PROMOTING SCIENTIFIC EDUCATION IN SCHOOLS;

A REPORT presented to the General Committee of the British Association for the Advancement of Science at Dundee, 1867.

P R E F A C E.

THE importance of introducing Natural Science into the higher Schools of this country was brought before two Sections of the Meeting of the British Association at Nottingham, 1866, and a proposal to appoint a Committee for the purpose of considering the best method of extending Scientific Education in Schools was referred to the Council of the Association.

At a meeting of the Council, held on November 15, 1866, a Committee was appointed for the purpose of inquiring into the subject.

This Committee consisted of the General Officers of the Association, the Trustees, the Rev. F. W. Farrar, M.A., F.R.S., the Rev. T. N. Hutchinson, M.A., Professor Huxley, F.R.S., Mr. Joseph Payne, Professor Tyndall, F.R.S., and Mr. J. M. Wilson, M.A.

A Report, drawn up by the Rev. F. W. Farrar, Mr. G. Griffith, Prof. Huxley, Prof. Tyndall, and Mr. J. M. Wilson, and revised by the Committee, was presented to the Council, and received by them on March 9, 1867.

At a subsequent special meeting the Report was considered by the Council, and it was resolved to adopt the recommendations, and to submit the Report to the General Committee of the Association. At the Meeting at Dundee, September 1867, the Report was received by the General Committee, and the following Resolution was passed:—

“That the President of the Association be requested to communicate the Report of the Committee appointed by the Council to consider the best means for promoting Scientific Education in Schools to the President of the Privy Council, and to the Parliamentary Committee, on the part of the Association, and that the General Officers be authorized to give publicity to the Report.”

R E P O R T.

1. A DEMAND for the introduction of Science into the modern system of education has increased so steadily during the last few years, and has received the approval of so many men of the highest eminence in every rank and profession, and especially of those who have made the theory and practice of education their study, that it is impossible to doubt the existence of a general, and even a national desire to facilitate the acquisition of some scientific knowledge by boys at our Public and other Schools.

2. We would point out that there is already a general recognition of Science as an element in liberal education. It is encouraged, to a greater or less degree, by the English, Scotch, and Irish Universities, it is recognised as an optional study by the College of Preceptors, it forms one of the subjects in the Local Examinations of Oxford and Cambridge ; and it has even been partially introduced into several Public Schools. We have added an appendix containing information on some of these points;* but the means at present adopted in our Schools and Universities for making this teaching effective, are, in our opinion, capable of great improvement.

3. That general education in Schools ought to include some training in Science is an opinion that has been strongly urged on the following grounds:—

As providing the best discipline in observation and collection of facts, in the combination of inductive with deductive reasoning, and in accuracy both of thought and language.

Because it is found in practice to remedy some of the defects of the ordinary school education. Many boys, on whom the ordinary school studies produce very slight effect, are stimulated and improved by instruction in science ; and it is found to be a most valuable element in the education of those who show special aptitude for literary culture.

Because the methods and results of Science have so profoundly affected all the philosophical thought of the age, that an educated man is under a very great disadvantage if he is unacquainted with them.

Because very great intellectual pleasure is derived in after life from even a moderate acquaintance with Science.

On grounds of practical utility as materially affecting the present position and future progress of civilization.

This opinion is fully supported by the popular judgment. All who have much to do with the parents of boys in the upper classes of life are aware that, as a rule, they value education in Science on some or all of the grounds above stated.

4. There are difficulties in the way of introducing Science into schools, and we shall make some remarks on them ; they will be found, we believe, to be by no means insuperable.

First among these difficulties is the necessary increase of expense ; for if science is to be taught, at least one additional master must be appointed, and it will be necessary in some cases to provide him with additional schoolrooms and a fund for the purchase of apparatus. It is obvious that the money which will be requisite for both the initial and current expenses must in general be obtained by increasing the school fees. This difficulty is a real but not a fatal one. In a wealthy country like England, a slight increase in the cost of education will not be allowed (in cases where it is unavoidable) to stand in the way of what is generally looked on as an important educational reform ; and parents

parents will not be unwilling to pay a small additional fee if they are satisfied that the instruction in Science is to be made a reality.

Another ground of hesitation is the fear that the teaching of Science will injure the teaching in classics. But we do not think that there need be the slightest apprehension that any one of the valuable results of a classical education will be diminished by the introduction of Science. It is a very general opinion, in which schoolmasters heartily concur, that much more knowledge and intellectual vigour might be obtained by most boys, during the many years they spend at school, than what they do, as a matter of fact, obtain. It should, we think, be frankly acknowledged, and indeed few are found who deny it, that an exclusively classical education, however well it may operate in the case of the very few who distinguish themselves in its curriculum, fails deplorably for the majority of minds. As a general rule the small proportion of boys who leave our schools for the Universities consist undeniably of those who have advanced furthest in classical studies; and judging the existing system of education by these boys alone, we have to confess that it frequently ends in astonishing ignorance. This ignorance, often previously acknowledged and deplored, has been dwelt on with much emphasis, and brought into great prominence by the recent Royal Commission for Inquiry into our Public Schools. We need not fear that we shall do great damage by endeavouring to improve a system which has not been found to yield satisfactory results. And we believe, further, that the philological abilities of the very few who succeed in attaining to a satisfactory knowledge of classics will be rather stimulated than impeded by a more expansive training.

Lastly, it may be objected that an undue strain will be put upon the minds of boys by the introduction of the proposed subjects. We would reply that the same objections were made, and in some schools are still made, to the introduction of Mathematics and Modern Languages, and are found by general experience to have been untenable. A change of studies, involving the play of a new set of faculties, often produces a sense of positive relief; and at a time when it is thought necessary to devote to games so large a proportion of a boy's available time, the danger of a general over-pressure to the intellectual powers is very small, while any such danger in individual cases can always be obviated by special remissions. We do not wish to advocate any addition to the hours of work in schools where it is believed that they are already as numerous as is desirable; but in such schools some hours a week could still be given up to science, by a curtailment of the vastly preponderant time at present devoted to classical studies, and especially to Greek and Latin Composition.

5. To the selection of the subjects that ought to be included in a programme of scientific instruction in public schools we have given our best attention; and we would make the following remarks on the principles by which we have been guided in the selection that we shall propose.

There is an important distinction between scientific information and scientific training; in other words, between general literary acquaintance with scientific facts and the knowledge of methods that may be gained by studying the facts at first hand under the guidance of a competent teacher. Both of these are valuable; it is very desirable, for example, that boys should have some general information about the ordinary phenomena of nature, such as the simple facts of Astronomy, of Geology, of Physical Geography, and of elementary Physiology. On the other hand, the scientific habit of mind, which is the principal benefit resulting from scientific training, and which is of incalculable value whatever be the pursuits of after life, can better be attained by a thorough knowledge of the facts and principles of one science than by a general acquaintance with what has been said or written about many. Both of these should coexist, we think, at any school which professes to offer the highest liberal education; and at every school it will be easy to provide at least for giving some scientific information,

I. The subjects that we recommend for scientific information as distinguished from training, should comprehend a general description of the solar system; of the form and physical geography of the earth, and of such natural phenomena as tides, currents, winds, and the causes that influence climate; of the broad facts of Geology; of elementary Natural History, with especial reference to the useful plants and animals : and of the rudiments of Physiology. This is a kind of information which requires less preparation on the part of the teacher ; and its effectiveness will depend on his knowledge, clearness, method, and sympathy with his pupils. Nothing will be gained by circumscribing these subjects by any general syllabus ; they may safely be left to the discretion of the masters who teach them.

II. And for scientific training we are decidedly of opinion that the subjects which have paramount claims are Experimental Physics, Elementary Chemistry, and Botany.

i. The science of Experimental Physics deals with subjects which come within the range of every boy's experience ; it embraces the phenomena and laws of light, heat, sound, electricity, and magnetism, the elements of mechanics, and the mechanical properties of liquids and gases. The thorough knowledge of these subjects includes the practical mastery of the apparatus employed in their investigation. The study of experimental physics involves the observation and colligation of facts, and the discovery and application of principles. It is both inductive and deductive. It exercises the attention and the memory, but makes both of them subservient to an intellectual discipline higher than either. The teacher can so present his facts as to make them suggest the principles which underlie them, while, once in possession of the principle, the learner may be stimulated to deduce from it results which lie beyond the bounds of his experience. The subsequent verification of his deduction by experiment never fails to excite his interest and awaken his delight. The effects obtained in the classroom will be made the key to the explanation of natural phenomena,—of thunder and lightning, of rain and snow, of dew and hoar-frost, of winds and waves, of atmospheric refraction and reflexion, of the rainbow and the mirage, of meteorites, of terrestrial magnetism, of the pressure and buoyancy of water and of air. Thus the knowledge acquired by the study of experimental physics is, of itself, of the highest value, while the acquisition of that knowledge brings into healthful and vigorous play every faculty of the learner's mind. Not only are natural phenomena made the objects of intelligent observation, but they furnish material for thought to wrestle with and to overcome, the growth of intellectual strength being the sure concomitant of the enjoyment of intellectual victory. We do not entertain a doubt that the competent teacher who loves his subject and can sympathise with his pupils, will find in experimental physics a store of knowledge of the most fascinating kind, and an instrument of mental training of exceeding power.

ii. Chemistry is remarkable for the comprehensive character of the training which it affords. Not only does it exercise the memory and the reasoning powers, but it also teaches the student to gather by his own experiments and observations the facts upon which to reason.

It affords a corrective of each of the two extremes against which real educators of youth are constantly struggling. For on the one hand it leads even sluggish or uncultivated minds from simple and interesting observations to general ideas and conclusions, and gives them a taste of intellectual enjoyment and a desire for learning. On the other hand, it checks over-confidence in mere reasoning, and shows the way in which valid extensions of our ideas grow out of a series of more and more rational and accurate observations of external nature.

It must not, however, be supposed that all so-called teaching of chemistry produces results of this kind. Young men do occasionally come up to public examinations with a literary acquaintance with special facts and even principles of chemistry, sufficient to enable them to describe those facts from some one point of view and to enunciate the principles in fluent language, and who yet know nothing of the real meaning of the phrases which they have learnt. Such mere literary acquaintance with scientific facts is in chemistry an incalculable evil to the student if he be allowed to mistake it for science.

Whether the student is to learn much or little of chemistry his very first lessons must be samples of the science. He must see the chief phenomena which are described to him, so that the words of each description may afterwards call up in his mind an image of the thing ; he must make simple experiments, and learn to describe accurately what he has done and what he has observed; he must learn to use the knowledge which he has acquired before proceeding to the acquisition of more; and he must rise gradually from well-examined facts to general laws and theories.

Among the commonest non-metallic elements and their simplest compounds the teacher in a school will find abundant scope for his chief exertions.

iii. Botany has also strong claims to be regarded as a subject for scientific training. It has been introduced into the regular school course at Rugby (where it is the first branch of Natural Science which is studied); and the voluntary pursuit of it is encouraged at Harrow and at some other schools with satisfactory results. It only requires observation, attention, and the acquisition of some new words; but it also evolves the powers of comparison and colligation of facts in a remarkable degree. Of all sciences it seems to offer the greatest facilities for observation in the fields and gardens; and to this must be added the fact that boys, from their familiarity with fruits, trees, and flowers, start with a considerable general knowledge of botanical facts. It admits therefore pre-eminently of being taught in the true scientific method. The teaching of Science is made really valuable by training the learner's mind to examine into his present knowledge, to arrange and criticise it, and to look for additional information. The science must be begun when it touches his past experience, and this experience must be converted into scientific knowledge. The discretion of the teacher will best determine the range of Botany at which it is desirable to aim.

6. The modes of giving instruction in the subjects which we have recommended are reducible to two. I. A compulsory system of instruction may be adopted, similar to that which exists at Rugby, where science has now for nearly three years been introduced on precisely the same footing as Mathematics and Modern Languages, and is necessarily taught to all boys. II. A voluntary system may be encouraged, as has been done for many years at Harrow, where scientific instruction on such subjects as have been enumerated above is now given in a systematic series of lectures, on which the attendance of all boys who are interested in them is entirely optional.

Of these systems it is impossible not to feel that the compulsory system is the most complete and satisfactory. The experience of different schools will indicate how it may best be adopted, and what modifications of it may be made to suit the different school arrangements. It will often be very desirable to supplement it by the voluntary system, to enable the boys of higher scientific ability to study those parts of the course of Experimental Physics which will rarely, if ever, be included in the compulsory school system. Lectures may also be occasionally given by some non-resident lecturer with a view of stimulating the attention and interest of the boys. We add appendices containing details of these two systems as worked at Rugby and Harrow,* and we believe that a combination of the two would leave little or nothing to be desired.

The thorough teaching of the Physical Sciences at schools will not, however, be possible unless there is a general improvement in the knowledge of Arithmetic. At present, many boys of 13 and 14 are sent to the Public Schools almost totally ignorant of the elements of Arithmetic, and in such cases they gain only the most limited and meagre knowledge of it; and the great majority enter ill-taught. It is a serious and lasting injury to boys so to neglect Arithmetic in their early education; it arises partly from the desire of the masters of preparatory schools to send up their boys fitted to take a good place in the classical school, and from the indifference of the public schools themselves to the evil that has resulted.

7. With a view to the furtherance of this scheme, we make the following suggestions:—

i. That in all schools Natural Science be one of the subjects to be taught, and that in every Public School at least one Natural Science master be appointed for the purpose.

ii. That at least three hours a week be devoted to such scientific instruction.

iii. That

iii. That Natural Science should be placed on an equal footing with Mathematics and Modern Languages in effecting promotions, and in winning honours and prizes.

iv. That some knowledge of Arithmetic should be required for admission into all Public Schools.

v. That the Universities and Colleges be invited to assist in the introduction of scientific education, by making natural science a subject of examination, either at Matriculation, or at an early period of a University career.

vi. That the importance of appointing Lecturers in Science, and offering Entrance Scholarships, Exhibitions, and Fellowships for the encouragement of scientific attainments be represented to the authorities of the Colleges.

With reference to the last two recommendations, we would observe that, without the co-operation of the Universities, Science can never be effectively introduced into School education. Although not more than 35 per cent., even of the boys at our great Public Schools, proceed to the University, and at the majority of schools a still smaller proportion, yet the curriculum of a public school course is almost exclusively prepared with reference to the requirements of the Universities and the rewards for proficiency that they offer. No more decisive proof could be furnished of the fact that the Universities and Colleges have it in their power to alter and improve the whole higher education of England.

APPENDIX A.

I. OXFORD.

THE Natural Science School at Oxford was established in the year 1853. By recent changes the University allows those who have gained a first, second, or third class in this school to graduate without passing the classical school, provided they have obtained honours, or have passed in three books at least at the second classical examination, viz., moderations (which is usually passed in the second year of residence): honours in this school are thus placed on an equality with classical honours. The first classical examination, "responsions," is generally passed in the first term of residence. Arithmetic and two books of Euclid, or algebra up to simple equations, are a necessary part of this examination.

The University offers ample opportunities for the study of physics, chemistry, physiology, and other branches of natural science. At present only a few of the Colleges have lectures on this subject; while for classics and mathematics every College professes to have an adequate staff of teachers. At Christ Church, however, a very complete chemical laboratory has been lately opened.

A junior studentship at Christ Church and a demyship at Magdalen College, tenable for five years, are, by the statutes of those Colleges, awarded annually for proficiency in natural science. A scholarship, tenable for three years, lately founded by Miss Brackenbury at Balliol College for the promotion of the study of Natural Science, will be given away every two years. With the exception of Merton College, where a scholarship is to be shortly given for proficiency in natural science, no College has hitherto assigned any scholarships to natural science. The number of scholarships at the Colleges is stated to be about 400, varying in value from 100 l. to 60 l. With these should be reckoned College exhibitions*, to the number of at least 220, which range in annual value from 145 l. to 20 l., and exhibitions awarded at school, many of which are of considerable value.

The two Burdett-Coutts geological scholarships, tenable for two years, and of the annual value of 75 l., are open to all members of the University who have passed the examination for the B.A. degree, and have not exceeded the 27th term for their matriculation. Every year a fellowship of 200 l. a year, tenable for

* At Magdalen College there will be 20 exhibitions tenable for five years, and of the value of 75 l. a year, to be held by persons in need of support at the University; in the election to these, "the subjects of examination, for one examination at least in each year, shall be mathematics and physical science alternately."

for three years (half of which time must be spent on the Continent) on Dr. Radcliffe's foundation, is at present competed for by candidates who, having taken a first class in the school of natural science, propose to enter the medical profession.

At Christ Church two of the senior studentships (fellowships) are awarded for proficiency in natural science : at the examination for one of these, chemistry is the principal subject, and for the other, physiology.

At Magdalen College it is provided that, for 20 years from the year 1857, every fifth fellowship is assigned to mathematics and physical science alternately. In the statutes of this and of every College in Oxford (except Corpus, Exeter, and Lincoln*) the following clause occurs :—"The system of examinations shall always be such as shall render fellowships accessible, from time to time, to excellence in every branch of knowledge for the time being recognised in the schools of the University." This clause, so far as it relates to the study of natural science, has been acted on only by Queen's College and at Merton College, where a natural science fellowship will be filled up during the course of the present year.

At Pembroke College one of the two Sheppard fellows must proceed to the degree of Bachelor and Doctor of Medicine in the University. At the late election to this fellowship natural science was the principal subject in the examination. The number of College fellowships in Oxford is at present about 400.

II. CAMBRIDGE.

It is important to distinguish between the University and the Colleges at Cambridge as at Oxford.

There is a natural science tripos in which the University examines in the whole range of natural sciences, and grants honours precisely in the same manner as in classics or mathematics.

The University also recognises the natural sciences as an alternative subject for the ordinary degree. As the regulations on this point are comparatively recent, it will be well to state them here.

A student who intends to take an ordinary degree without taking honours has to pass three examinations during his course of three years,—the first, or previous examination, a year's residence, in Paley, Latin, Greek, Euclid, and arithmetic, and one of the Gospels in Greek; the second, or general examination, towards the end of the second year, in the Acts of the Apostles in Greek, Latin, Greek, Latin prose composition, algebra, and elementary mechanics; and the third, or special examination, at the end of his third year, in one of the following five subjects :—1. Theology; 2, Moral Science; 3, Law; 4, Natural Science; 5, Mechanism and applied Science.

In the natural science examination a choice is given of chemistry, geology, botany, and zoology.

There are only five Colleges in Cambridge that take any notice of Natural Science, namely, King's, Caius, Sidney Sussex, St. John's, and Downing. At King's two exhibitions have been given away partly for proficiency in this subject; but there are no lectures, and it is doubtful whether similar exhibitions will be given in future. At Caius there is a medical lecturer and one scholarship given away annually for Anatomy and Physiology. At Sidney Sussex, two scholarships annually are given away for mathematics and natural science, and a prize of 20 l. for scientific knowledge: there is also a laboratory for the use of students. At St. John's there is a chemical lecturer and laboratory; and though at this College there is no sort of examination in natural science, either for scholarships or fellowships, it is believed distinction in the subject may be taken into

* These Colleges exercised the powers of making statutes granted to them by the Oxford University Act of 1854, 17 & 18 Vict. c. 81. In the statutes of Exeter College it is provided that, in the election of Fellows, "preference shall be given to those candidates in whom shall be found the highest moral and intellectual qualifications, such intellectual qualifications having been tested by an examination in such subjects as the College from time to time shall determine." In the statutes of Lincoln College the following clause occurs :—"Pateat autem societas non iis tantum, qui in literis Græcis et Latinis se profecisse probaverint, sed etiam aliarum bonarum artium peritis juvenibus." And in the statutes of Corpus Christi College, "Quicumque se candidatos offerant examinentur in bonis literis et scientiis, sicut Præsidenti et sociis videbitur."

into account in both elections. Downing was founded with "especial reference to the studies of Law and Medicine;" there is a lecturer here in medicine and natural science, and in the scholarship examinations one paper in these subjects; no scholarship is appropriated to them, but they are allowed equal weight with other subjects in the choice of candidates. It is believed that the same principle will govern the election to fellowships in this College, though no fellowship has yet been given for honours in natural science. We believe that, owing to the new University regulations (mentioned above), the authorities of Trinity College have determined to appoint a lecturer in natural science; the matter is under deliberation in other Colleges, and it is not improbable that the same considerations will induce them to follow this example.

It must always be remembered that the practice is rare in Cambridge of appropriating fellowships and scholarships to special subjects. At present public opinion in the University does not reckon scientific distinction as on a par with mathematical or classical; hence the progress of the subject seems enclosed in this inevitable circle—the ablest men do not study natural science because no rewards are given for it, and no rewards are given for it because the ablest men do not study it. But it may be hoped that the disinterested zeal of teachers and learners will rapidly break through this circle; in that case the subject may be placed on a satisfactory footing without any express legislative provision.

III. THE UNIVERSITY OF LONDON.

At the University of London the claims of science to form a part of every liberal education have long been recognised. At the Matriculation Examination the student is required to show that he possesses at least a popular knowledge of the following subjects:—

a. In Mechanics: the composition and resolution of forces; the mechanical powers; a definition of the centre of gravity; and the general laws of motion.

b. In Hydrostatics, Hydraulics, and Pneumatics: the pressure of liquids and gases; specific gravity; and the principles of the action of the barometer, the siphon, the common pump and forcing pump, and the air-pump.

c. In Acoustics: the nature of sound.

d. In Optics: the laws of refraction and reflection, and the formation of images by simple lenses.

e. In Chemistry: the phenomena and laws of heat; the chemistry of the non-metallic elements; general nature of acids, bases, &c.; constitution of the atmosphere; composition of water, &c.

At the examination for the degree of B. A. a more extensive knowledge of these subjects is required, and the candidate is further examined in the following branches of science:—

f. Astronomy: principal phenomena depending on the motion of the earth round the sun, and on its rotation about its own axis; general description of the solar system, and explanation of lunar and solar eclipses.

g. Animal Physiology: the properties of the elementary animal textures; the principles of animal mechanics; the processes of digestion, absorption, assimilation; the general plan of circulation in the great divisions of the animal kingdom; the mechanism of respiration; the structure and actions of the nervous system; and the organs of sense.

Besides the degree examination there is also an examination for honours in mathematics and natural philosophy, in which, of course, a much wider range of scientific knowledge is required.

We would venture to remark that, if a similar elementary acquaintance with the general principles of sciences were required for matriculation at Oxford and Cambridge, it is certain that they would at once become a subject of regular teaching in all our great public schools.

There are also two specially scientific degrees, a Bachelor of Science and a Doctor of Science. For the B.Sc. there are two examinations of a general but highly scientific character. The degree of D.Sc. can only be obtained after the expiration of two years subsequent to taking the degree of B.Sc. The candidate is allowed to select one principal subject, and to prove his thorough practical knowledge thereof, as well as a general acquaintance with other subsidiary subjects.

IV. THE COLLEGE OF PRECEPTORS.

In the diploma examinations of the College of Preceptors, one branch of science, viz., either chemistry, natural history, or physiology, is required as a necessary subject for the diploma of a Fellow. In the examinations for the lower diploma of Associate or Licentiate some branch of science may be taken up by candidates at their own option. The Council recently decided to offer a prize of three guineas half-yearly for the candidate who showed most proficiency in science, and who at the same time obtained a second class in the other subjects.

In the examinations of pupils of schools, natural philosophy, chemistry, and natural history are optional subjects only, and are not required for a certificate for the three classes. Two prizes are given to those candidates who obtain the highest number of marks in these subjects at the half-yearly examinations; and it is an interesting fact that last year, out of a total of 651 candidates, 100 brought up natural history, and 36 brought up chemistry as subjects for examination. Two additional prizes were consequently awarded.

V. THE FRENCH SCHOOLS.

In France the "Lycées" correspond most nearly to our Public Schools, and for many years science has formed a distinct part of their regular curriculum. A strong impulse to the introduction of scientific teaching into French schools was given by Napoleon I., and since that time we believe that no French school has wholly neglected this part of education. The amount of time given to these subjects appears to average two hours in every week.

The primary education is that which is given to all alike, whatever may be their future destination in life, up to the age of 11 or 12 years. After this period there is a "bifurcation" in the studies of boys. Those who are intended for business or for practical professions lay aside Greek and Latin, and enter on a course of "special secondary instruction." In this course mechanics, cosmography, physics, chemistry, zoology, botany, and geology occupy a large space; and the authorised official programmes of these studies are very full, and are drawn up with the greatest care. The remarks and arguments of the Minister of Public Instruction (Mons. Duruy) and others, in the "Programmes officiels &c. de l'enseignement secondaire spécial," are extremely valuable and suggestive, and we recommend the syllabuses of the various subjects, which have received the sanction of the French Government, as likely to afford material assistance to English teachers in determining the range and limits of those scientific studies at which, in any special system of instruction, they may practically aim. The "Enseignement secondaire spécial" might very safely be taken as a model of what it is desirable to teach in the "modern departments" which are now attached to some of our great schools.

The boys who are destined to enter the learned professions continue a classical course, in which, however, much less time is devoted to classical composition than is the case in our Public Schools. Nor is science by any means neglected in this course, which is intended to cover a period of three years. Besides the "elementary division" there are five great classes in these schools, viz., a grammar division, an upper division, a philosophy class, and classes for elementary and special mathematics.

In the grammar division there is systematic instruction on the physical geography of the globe.

In the second class of the upper division the boys begin to be taught the elements of zoology, botany, and geology in accordance with the ministerial programmes; and in the rhetoric class descriptive cosmography (which seems to be nearly co-extensive with the German Erdkunde) forms the subject of a certain number of weekly lessons.

In the class of philosophy, the young students are initiated into the elementary notions of physics (including weight, heat, electricity and magnetism, acoustic acoustics, and optics) and of chemistry, in which, at this stage, the teaching is confined to "general conceptions on air, water, oxidation, combustion, the conditions and effects of chemical action, and on the forces which result from it."

In the classes of elementary and special mathematics this course of scientific training is very considerably extended: and if the authorised programmes constitute any real measure of the teaching, it is clear that no boy could pass through these classes without a far more considerable amount of knowledge in the most important branches of science than is at present attainable in any English Public School.

VI. THE GERMAN SCHOOLS.

In Germany the schools which are analagous to Public Schools in England are the Gymnasias, where boys are prepared for the Universities, and the Bürger-schulen or Realschulen, which were established for the most part about 30 years ago for the purpose of affording a complete education to those who go into active life as soon as they leave school. An account of the Prussian Gymnasias and Realschulen may be seen in the Public School Commission Report, Appendix (G); further information may be obtained in "Das höhere Schulwesen in Preussen," by Dr. Wiese, published under the sanction of the Minister of Public Instruction in Prussia, and in the programmes issued annually by the school authorities throughout Germany.*

At the Gymnasias, natural science is not taught to any great extent. According to the Prussian official instructions, in the highest class two hours, and in the next class one hour, a week are allotted to the study of physics. In the lower classes two hours a week are devoted to natural history, i. e., botany and zoology. The results of the present training in natural science at the Gymnasias are considered by many eminent University professors in Germany to be unsatisfactory, owing to the insufficient time allotted to it.

In the Realschulen about six hours a week are given to physics and chemistry in the two highest classes, and two or three hours a week to natural history in the other classes. In these schools all the classes devote five or six hours a week to mathematics, and no Greek is learnt. In Prussia there were in 1864 above 100 of these schools.

APPENDIX (B.)

ON THE NATURAL SCIENCE TEACHING AT RUGBY.

Before the summer of 1864 a boy on entering Rugby might signify his wish to learn either modern languages or natural science; the lessons were given at the same time, and therefore excluded one another. If he chose natural science he paid an entrance fee of 1*l.* 1*s.*, which went to an apparatus fund, and 5*l.* 5*s.* annually to the lecturer. Out of the whole school, numbering from 450 to 500, about one-tenth generally were in the natural science classes.

The changes proposed by the Commissioners were as follows. - That natural science should no longer be an alternative with modern languages, but that all boys should learn some branch of it. That there should be two principal branches, one consisting of chemistry and physics, the other of physiology and natural history, animal and vegetable; and that the classes in natural science should be entirely independent of the general divisions of the school, so that boys might be arranged for this study exclusively according to their proficiency in it.

Since, owing to circumstances which it would be tedious to detail, it was impossible to adopt literally the proposals of the Commissioners, a system was devised, which must be considered as the system of the Commissioners in spirit, adapted to meet the exigencies of the case.

The general arrangement is this,—that new boys shall learn botany their first year, mechanics their second, geology their third, and chemistry their fourth.

In carrying out this general plan certain difficulties occur, which are met by special

special arrangements depending on the peculiarities of the school system. We need not here enter upon these details, because it would be impossible to explain them simply, and because any complications which occur in one school would differ widely from those which are likely to arise in another.

Next, as to the nature of the teaching.

In botany the instruction is given partly by lectures and partly from Oliver's "Botany." Flowers are dissected and examined by every boy, and their parts recognised and compared in different plants, and then named. No technical terms are given till a familiarity with the organ to be named or described has given rise to their want. The terms which express the cohesion and adhesion of the parts are gradually acquired until the floral schedule, so highly recommended by Henslow and Oliver, can be readily worked. Fruit, seed, inflorescence, the forms of leaf, stem, root are then treated, the principal facts of vegetable physiology illustrated, and the principle of classification into natural orders explained, for the arrangement of which Bentham's "Handbook of the British Flora" is used. Contrary to all previous expectation, when this subject was first introduced it became at once both popular and effective among the boys.

The lectures are illustrated by Henslow's nine diagrams, and by a large and excellent collection of paintings and diagrams made by the lecturers and their friends, and by botanical collections made for use in lectures. When the year's course is over, such boys as show a special taste are invited to take botanical walks with the principal lecturer, to refer to the School Herbarium, and are stimulated by prizes for advanced knowledge and for dried collections, both local and general.

In mechanics the lecturer is the senior Natural Science Master. The lectures include experimental investigations into the mechanical powers, with numerous examples worked by the boys; into the elements of mechanism, conversion of motion, the steam engine, the equilibrium of roofs, bridges, strength of material, &c. They are illustrated by a large collection of models, and are very effective and popular lectures.

The lectures in geology are undertaken by another master. This subject is only temporarily introduced, on account of the want of another experimental school. When this is built, the third year's course will be some part of experimental physics, for which there already exists at Rugby a fair amount of apparatus. It is very desirable that boys should obtain some knowledge of geology, but it is not so well fitted for school teaching as some of the other subjects on several grounds. Perhaps a larger proportion of boys are interested in the subject than in any other; but the subject presupposes more knowledge and experience than most boys possess, and their work has a tendency to become either superficial, or undigested knowledge derived from books alone. The lectures include the easier part of Lyell's "Principles," i. e., the causes of change now in operation on the earth; next, an account of the phenomena observable in the crust of the earth, stratification and its disturbances, and the construction of maps and sections; and lastly, the history of the stratified rocks and of life on the earth. These lectures are illustrated by a fair geological collection, which has been much increased of late, and by a good collection of diagrams and views to illustrate geological phenomena.

For chemistry the lecturer has a convenient lecture-room and a small but well-fitted laboratory,* and he takes his classes through the non-metallic and the metallic elements: the lectures are fully illustrated by experiments. Boys, whose parents wish them to study chemistry more completely, can go through a complete course of practical analysis in the laboratory by becoming private pupils of the teacher. At present 21 boys are studying analysis.

This being the matter of the teaching, it remains to say a few words on the manner. This is nearly the same in all the classes, mutatis mutandis: the lecture is given, interspersed with questions, illustrations, and experiments, and the boys take rough notes, which are recast into an intelligible and presentable form in note-books. These are sent up about once a fortnight, looked over, corrected, and returned; and they form at once the test of how far the matter has been understood, the test of the industry, care, and attention of the boy, and an excellent subject for their English composition.

Examination

* Another and larger laboratory and school for Experimental Physics will shortly be built at Rugby.

Examination papers are given to the sets every three or four weeks, and to these and to the note-books marks are assigned which have weight in the promotion from form to form. The marks assigned to each subject are proportional to the number of hours spent in school on that subject.

There are school prizes given annually for proficiency in each of the branches of natural science above mentioned.

This leads us, lastly, to speak of the results.

First, as to the value of the teaching itself; secondly, as to its effects on the other branches of study.

The experience gained at Rugby seems to point to these conclusions: that botany, structural and classificatory, may be taught with great effect, and interest a large number of boys, and is the best subject to start with; that its exactness of terminology, the necessity of care in examining the flowers, and the impossibility of superficial knowledge, are its first recommendations; and the successive gradations in the generalisations as to the unity of type of flowers, and the principles of a natural classification, are of great value to the cleverer boys. The teaching must be based on personal examination of flowers, assisted by diagrams, and everything like cram strongly discouraged.

Mechanics are found rarely to be done well by those who are not also the best mathematicians. But it is a subject which, in its applications, interests many boys, and would be much better done, and would be correspondingly more profitable, if the standard of geometry and arithmetic were higher than it is. The ignorance of arithmetic which is exhibited by most of the new boys of 14 or 15 would be very surprising, if it had not long since ceased to surprise the only persons who are acquainted with it; and it forms the main hindrance to teaching mechanics. Still, under the circumstances, the results are fairly satisfactory.

The geological teaching need not be discussed at length, as it is temporary, at least in the middle school. Its value is more literary than scientific. The boys can bring neither mineralogical, nor chemical, nor anatomical knowledge; nor have they observed enough of rocks to make geological teaching sound. The most that they can acquire, and this the majority do acquire, is the general outline of the history of the earth, and of the agencies by which that history has been effected, with a conviction that the subject is an extremely interesting one. It supplies them with an object rather than with a method.

Of the value of elementary teaching in chemistry there can be only one opinion. It is felt to be a new era in a boy's mental progress when he has realised the laws that regulate chemical combination, and sees traces of order amid the seeming endless variety. But the number of boys who get real hold of chemistry from lectures alone is small, as might be expected from the nature of the subject.

Of the value of experimental teaching in physics, especially pneumatics, heat, acoustics, optics, and electricity, there can be no doubt. Nothing but impossibilities would prevent the immediate introduction of each of these subjects in turn into the Rugby curriculum.

Lastly, what are the general results of the introduction of scientific teaching in the opinion of the body of masters? In brief it is this, that the school as a whole is the better for it, and that the scholarship is not worse. The number of boys whose industry and attention is not caught by any school study is decidedly less; there is more respect for work and for abilities in the different fields now open to a boy; and though pursued often with great vigour, and sometimes with great success, by boys distinguished in classics, it is not found to interfere with their proficiency in classics, nor are there any symptoms of overwork in the school. This is the testimony of classical masters by no means specially favourable to science, who are in a position which enables them to judge. To many who would have left Rugby with but little knowledge, and little love of knowledge, to show as the results of their two or three years in our middle school, the introduction of science into our course has been the greatest possible gain; and others who have left from the upper part of the school, without hope of distinguishing themselves in classics or mathematics, have adopted science as their study at the Universities. It is believed that no master in Rugby School would wish to give up natural science and recur to the old curriculum.

APPENDIX C.

ON THE TEACHING OF SCIENCE AT HARROW SCHOOL.

From this time forward natural science will be made a regular subject for systematic teaching at Harrow, and a natural science master has been appointed.

But for many years before the Royal Commission for Inquiry into the Public Schools had been appointed, a voluntary system for the encouragement of science had been in existence at Harrow. There had been every term a voluntary examination on some scientific subject, which, together with the text-books recommended, was announced at the end of the previous term. Boys from all parts of the school offered themselves as candidates for these voluntary examinations, and every boy who acquitted himself to the satisfaction of the examiners (who were always two of the masters) was rewarded with reference to what could be expected from his age and previous attainments. The text-books were selected with great care, and every boy really interested in his subject could and did seek the private assistance of his tutor or of some other master. The deficiencies of the plan, if regarded as a substitute for the more formal teaching of science, were too obvious to need pointing out; yet its results were so far satisfactory that many old Harrovians spoke of it with gratitude, among whom are some who have since devoted themselves to science with distinguished success.

One of the main defects of this plan (its want of all system) was remedied a year ago, when two of the masters drew up a scheme, which was most readily adopted, by which any boy staying at Harrow for three years might at least have the opportunity during that time of being introduced to the elementary conceptions of astronomy, zoology, botany, structural and classificatory, chemistry, and physics. These subjects were entrusted to the responsibility of eight of the masters, who drew up with great care a syllabus on the subject for each term, recommend the best text-books, and give weekly instruction (which is perfectly gratuitous) to all the boys who desire to avail themselves of it; indeed, a boy may receive, in proportion to the interest which he manifests in the subject, almost any amount of assistance which he may care to seek. Proficiency in these examinations is rewarded as before; and to encourage steady perseverance, the boys who do best in the examination during a course of three terms receive more valuable special rewards.

As offering to boys a voluntary and informal method of obtaining much scientific information, this plan (which was originated at Harrow, and has not, so far as we are aware, been ever adopted at any other school) offers many advantages. It is sufficiently elastic to admit of many modifications; it is sufficiently comprehensive to attract a great diversity of tastes and inclinations; it cannot be found oppressive, because it rests with each boy to decide whether he has the requisite leisure or not; it can be adopted with ease at any school where even a small body of the masters are interested in one or other special branch of science; and it may tend to excite in some minds a more spontaneous enthusiasm than could be created by a compulsory plan alone.

We would not, however, for a moment recommend the adoption of any such plan as a substitute for more regular scientific training. Its chief value is purely supplemental, and henceforth it will be regarded at Harrow as entirely subordinate to the formal classes for the teaching of science which will be immediately established.

In addition to this, more than a year ago some of the boys formed themselves into a voluntary association for the pursuit of science. This Scientific Society, which numbers upwards of 30 members, meets every 10 days at the house and under the presidency of one or other of the masters. Objects of scientific interest are exhibited by the members, and papers are read generally on some subject connected with natural history. Under the auspices of this Society the nucleus of a future museum has already been formed; and among other advantages the Society has had the honour of numbering among its visitors more than one eminent representative of literature and science. We cannot too highly recommend the encouragement of such associations for intellectual self-culture among the boys of our public schools.

COPY of MINUTE of the Lords of the Committee of Council on Education relating to SCIENTIFIC INSTRUCTION; and EXPLANATORY MEMORANDUM thereon.

Science Form, No. 275.
South Kensington, December 1867.

Science and Art Department of the Committee of Council on Education, South Kensington.

At Whitehall the 21st day of December 1867.

By the Right Honourable the Lords of the Committee of Her Majesty's Most Honourable Privy Council on Education.

Present :—His Grace the Duke of Marlborough, Lord President of the Council.
The Right Hon. The Lord Robert Montagu, M.P., Vice President of the Committee of Council on Education.

SCIENTIFIC INSTRUCTION.

LOCAL AND CENTRAL SCHOLARSHIPS.

My Lords consider the subject of scientific instruction with a view to its further encouragement and diffusion.

1. They refer to the Science Directory of the Science and Art Department, and to the Minute of the Education Department of the 20th February 1867, making additional grants for secular instruction to elementary schools.

2. In order to assist the artisan classes who may show an aptitude for scientific instruction, My Lords resolve to aid local efforts in founding scholarships and exhibitions. The scholarship is intended to maintain the student while remaining at the elementary school, and the exhibition to support him while pursuing his studies at some central institution where the instruction is of a high grade.

3. Local Scholarships.—These are of two kinds, the elementary school scholarship and the science and art scholarship.

4. Elementary School Scholarships.—The Science and Art Department will make a grant of 5 l. towards the maintenance of a deserving student to the managers of any elementary school who undertake to support him for one year and subscribe also at least 5 l. for that purpose.

5. Conditions :

a. With any number of scholars up to 100 on the register of the school there can be but one such scholarship; above 100 and up to 200, two scholarships, and so on for each 100.

b. The scholarship or scholarships must be awarded in competition to the most successful student or students in some examination of the school. The absolute terms of the competition and the award of the scholarship will be left to the managers of the school, subject to the approval of the Science and Art Department.

c. The scholar must be an artisan or poor student, as defined by the Science Directory, and be between 12 and 16 years of age.

d. He must not be the teacher, pupil teacher, or other paid servant of a school.

e. He must continue regularly to attend the day school, and—

f. Pass in some one or more branches of science at the succeeding May examination of the Science and Art Department, after which the Department grant of 5 l. will be paid.

6. These grants will be made from year to year on the condition that the student each year pass in a new subject or in a higher grade of the same subject in which he first passed. It will be for the locality to determine for how many years the student may hold the scholarship, but in no case can he be allowed to hold it for more than three years.

7. The Science and Art Department will hereafter consider such alterations in these conditions as appear necessary.

8. The Science and Art Scholarships.—The Science and Art Department will make a grant of 10 l. towards the maintenance of a student at an elementary school who has taken a first grade in freehand or model drawing and elementary geometry (see Art Directory), and passed in one of the subjects of science (see Science Directory).

9. Conditions :

a. With any number of scholars up to 100 on the register of the school there can be but one such scholarship; above 100 and up to 200, two scholarships, and so on for each 100 scholars.

b. The scholarship or scholarships will be awarded to the most successful student or students in the school.

c. The scholar must be an artisan or poor student, as defined by the Science Directory, of between 12 and 16 years of age.

d. He must not be the holder of an elementary school scholarship, the teacher, pupil teacher, or other paid servant of a school.

e. He must continue regularly to attend the day school, and—

f. Obtain at least a third class in the subject of science in which he has already passed, or pass in some other subject.

g. In each year of holding the scholarship he must pass either in a higher grade of the same subject, or in a new subject.

10. Local Exhibitions.—The Science and Art Department will make a grant of 25 l. per annum to the managers of any school or educational institution, or any local committee formed for the purpose, who will raise the like sum by voluntary contribution for the maintenance of a student at some college or school where scientific instruction of an advanced character may be obtained. The exhibition may last for one, two, or three years.

11. Conditions :

a. The exhibition must be awarded in competition in one or more branches of science at the May examination of the Science and Art Department. The managers may select any branch or branches of science for the competition, and if more than one be taken they may fix any relative amount of marks they consider best to assign to them.

b. The place where the student is to pursue his studies may be fixed by the managers, subject to the approval of the Science and Art Department. If a Government institution be selected, such as the Royal School of Mines, or Royal College of Chemistry, London, or the Royal College of Science, Dublin, the fees of the student will be remitted.

c. The exhibitor must be of the artisan class or a poor student, as defined by the Science Directory.

d. The grant of the Department will be paid from year to year on condition that a like payment has been made by the managers or local committee, and that the student has pursued his studies satisfactorily according to regulations fixed by the Department.

12. Transmit a copy to the Treasury, and request sanction to provide in the estimate for the increased expenditure likely to be occasioned by this Minute.

Note.—By elementary school is understood any school where elementary instruction is given, whether aided by the State or not.

EXPLANATORY MEMORANDUM to accompany the MINUTE of 21st December 1867.

1. IT will be seen that this Minute creates three descriptions of scholarships or exhibitions for the encouragement of science instruction and for the support of students of the industrial classes while continuing their education. These are intended to supplement and enlarge existing action on the part of the Science and Art Department, and by promoting secondary instruction in elementary schools, to form a connecting link between them and the science and art schools and classes.

2. The existing action of the Science and Art Department is to aid instruction in science in the following subjects:—1, practical, plane, and solid geometry; 2, machine construction and drawing; 3, building construction, or naval architecture and drawing; 4, elementary mathematics; 5, higher mathematics; 6, theoretical mechanics; 7, applied mechanics; 8, acoustics, light, and heat; 9, magnetism and electricity; 10, inorganic chemistry; 11, organic chemistry; 12, geology; 13, mineralogy; 14, animal physiology; 15, zoology; 16, vegetable physiology and economic botany; 17, systematic botany; 18, mining; 19, metallurgy; 20, navigation; 21, nautical astronomy; 22, steam; 23, physical geography. And in art in elementary drawing as an education of the power of observation and in drawing, painting, modelling, and designing for manufacture and decoration.

Action of the
Department.

3. In order to place a school or class in connection with the Science and Art Department, it is necessary that a committee, consisting of at least five persons, should be formed, who will undertake certain duties of superintendence in connection with it.

4. As respects science, the aid consists of—(1) payments to teachers on the results of instruction as tested by examination, (2) medals and prizes to successful students, (3) grants to schools in aid of the purchase of apparatus to the extent of 50 per cent. of the cost, and (4) royal exhibitions and free admissions to the Royal School of Mines in London and the Royal College of Science in Dublin.

Aid to Instruction in Science.

5. A teacher to be qualified to earn payments on results must have taken a first or second class in the subject in which he claims payments on his students, unless he has obtained some university degree. The payments to such teachers vary from 1 l. to 5 l. according to the class in which the student is placed. There are five classes, the fifth being the lowest. The payments are only made for the instruction of students of the artisan or weekly wages class, and those whose incomes are less than 100 l. per annum.

Payments to Teachers.

6. The examinations are held in May. The examination in each subject is held over the whole kingdom on the same night. It is not necessary to enable a class to be examined and obtain prizes, &c. that the teacher should be certificated. If a satisfactory committee be formed, any class or single student can be examined, however taught.

Examinations.

7. Prizes, which, with some few restrictions, are open to all students, are given to those who obtain a first, second, or third class. To the best in each subject are given a gold, a silver, and two bronze medals.

Prizes.

8. Six royal exhibitions of the value of 50 l. per annum, tenable for three years, are given in competition at the May examinations. Three of these are to the Royal School of Mines in London, and three to the Royal College of Science in Dublin. Free admissions are given to the courses at these institutions to all who take gold medals.

9. The detailed rules will be found in the Science Directory, published by the Department, price sixpence, which will be furnished on application to the Secretary, Science and Art Department.

10. As respects Art.—Firstly.—Towards the teaching of elementary drawing in schools for the poor. This aid consists of payments to the managers (1) of 1 s., 2 s., or 3 s. on account of children satisfactorily taught drawing, and who pass pass a very elementary examination of the first grade; (2) of 5 s. or 10 s. on children or pupil teachers who pass the more advanced or second grade examination, and (3) of prizes to successful children and pupil teachers.

The first grade consists of freehand drawing in outline from flat examples, drawing from regular solids or objects of simple form, and of easy problems in practical geometry.

The second grade is an examination of a higher standard than that of the first grade, but in the same subjects, with the addition of perspective and mechanical drawing. Examinations are held in May in any elementary school taught by a master holding a certificate for drawing, or who has passed a second grade examination in any of the above three subjects of drawing taught in elementary schools: viz., freehand, model, or geometrical drawing.

Night Classes.

11. Secondly.—Towards art instruction in night classes for artisans held in elementary schools, in literary, mechanics, or similar institutions. This aid consists of payments to the managers of 10 s. or 15 s. on account of artisans or their children above 12 years of age satisfactorily taught drawing of the second or third grades; of prizes to successful students; and of payments towards the local expenses of examination.

The third grade is represented by works embracing the whole course of instruction in night classes or schools of art, such as drawing from examples, from casts or models, from nature, the antique, or the life; painting, flowers, landscape, or from life; designing or drawing for decorative purposes.

Schools of Art.

12. Thirdly.—To schools of art held in rooms entirely devoted to art instruction. This aid consists of similar payments to the managers to those awarded to night classes, and of the following additional payments:—

20 s. on account of every artisan satisfactorily instructed in art.

15 l. or 30 l. on account of art pupil teachers.

5 l. or 10 l. on account of students trained for art teachers or national art scholars.

3 l. on account of free studentships to artisans submitting advanced works.

10 l. on account of expenses of annual report and examination.

13. Prizes are given to successful students, and the advanced studies of the schools of art are brought together in a national competition, when gold, silver, and bronze medals, and other prizes are awarded. All payments are contingent on the employment of certificated teachers.

14. Elementary schools, night classes, and schools of art are aided to the extent of 75 per cent. in the purchase of examples.

National Art Training School.

15. Fourthly.—By the maintenance of the National Art Training School at South Kensington, in which highly qualified students from local schools of art are admitted and trained as masters for schools of art, or as designers, or art-workmen. Such students receive allowances for their support of from 15 s. to 40 s. weekly.

Art Museum and Library.

16. Fifthly.—Through the National Museum of Decorative Art and the National Art Library, which are made as far as possible circulating collections for the benefit of local schools of art.

17. The detailed regulations for the administration of art instruction are given in the Art Directory.

Secondary Instruction in Elementary Schools.

18. As respects Elementary Schools.—By the Minute of the 20th February 1867, additional grants are made by the Education Establishment at Whitehall to elementary schools under inspection for instruction in subjects of secular instruction beyond reading, writing, and arithmetic. The regulations under which such grants are made are issued by the Education Establishment, Whitehall.

Science Classes in Elementary Schools.

19. The managers of an elementary school under inspection can permit their premises to be used for science teaching provided that there be no interference with the primary purpose of the elementary school or its three attendances. A science class may thus be formed in connection with and receiving payments from the Science and Art Department. But no payments are made to teachers on account of science teaching in respect of any instruction in science that may be be given during the three attendances of an elementary school receiving aid from the Education Establishment, Whitehall.

20. In an elementary school not under the inspection of the Education Establishment, and, therefore, not receiving State aid to elementary instruction, science classes may be formed in connection with the Science and Art Department without any restriction as to the time or manner in which the instruction in science may be given.

21. From this brief explanation it will be understood how the Minute of the 21st December will affect existing institutions. This Minute provides for two forms of scholarship in connection with elementary schools whether receiving State aid, as such, or not. The first of these is the elementary school scholarship. Five pounds are granted to the managers of any elementary school for the support of a deserving pupil if they undertake to support him for a year and subscribe 5 l. for that purpose. One such scholarship is allowed per 100 pupils in the school. The selection of the pupil for the scholarship is to be by competition; the details of this, however, the managers of the school may arrange as they please, subject to the approval of the Science and Art Department. The payment of 5 l. by the Science and Art Department is made conditional on the scholar passing in a branch of science at the May examination.

Elementary Schools
Scholarships.

22. The second, a more advanced scholarship, is "the Science and Art Scholarship," of which, again, there may be one per 100 pupils. This is granted without any corresponding contribution on the part of the locality. The Science and Art Department makes grants of 10 l. towards the maintenance, for one year, of the most deserving pupil or pupils in an elementary school who may have taken a first grade in elementary geometry, and freehand or model drawing,* and passed in some branch of science, on condition that, at the end of the year, the scholar obtains at least a third class in the subject of science in which he originally passed or passes in some other subject. In both these cases the scholar must be from 12 to 16 years of age.

Science and Art
Scholarships.

23. Lastly, for advanced scientific instruction, the Minute offers local exhibitions to enable students to complete their education at some college or school where scientific instruction of an advanced character may be obtained. The Science and Art Department will make a grant of 25 l. per annum, for one, two, or three years for this purpose when the locality raises a like sum by voluntary subscriptions. And if the student attend a State school, such as the Royal School of Mines in London, the Royal College of Chemistry in London, or Royal College of Science in Ireland, the fees are remitted. It is a condition that the exhibition is awarded in competition, the branch or branches of science for which may be fixed by the locality, and that the student pursues his studies satisfactorily.

Scholarships.

* The examination in drawing can, where there is no art certificated teacher, be held by the Science Class Committee, to whom the necessary papers will be sent.
